CODE SHEET

MUNICIPAL FORM OF GOVERNMENT—1986

Dear City Clerk:

ICMA is currently updating its files of information on the characteristics of local governments throughout the country. I am writing to ask that you help us in assuring the success of this project by supplying the data needed for your government. Your cooperation will enable us to develop a data base on the current structure of local government, election procedures, and characteristics of mayors and council members, including terms and salaries.

The results of similar surveys, conducted in 1971, 1974, 1977, and 1981, were widely distributed to local officials, federal and state governments, public interest groups, and others interested in municipal management. The data will be utilized in various publications, including The Municipal Year Book 1987.

Please complete the enclosed questionnaire and return it to ICMA at your earliest convenience. A return, postage-paid envelope is enclosed. If you have any questions concerning the form, you may call Evelina Moulder at (202) 626-4600.

Your assistance will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Bill Hansell
William H. Hansell, Jr.
Executive Director
MUNICIPAL FORM OF GOVERNMENT—1986

DEFINITIONS:

The term municipality, as used throughout this survey, includes cities, towns, townships, villages, and boroughs.

The term council, as used throughout this survey, refers to an elected body whose members may be called council members, aldermen, selectmen, freeholders, commissioners, or the like.

The term mayor refers to the head of the elected body. This person may be called the mayor, chairperson, president, or the like.

Q1. Please indicate which of the following best describes your current legal form of government, as defined by your charter or ordinance or by state law. [Please read all definitions first and check only one.]

☐ 1. An elected council or board serves as the legislative body; the head of government, generally elected separately from the council, has powers which may range from ceremonial duties to full-scale authority for the daily operation of the government. This form is popularly known as the mayor-council form.

☐ 2. An elected council or board is responsible for making policy; the mayor is generally a member of the council and is recognized as the community's ceremonial leader; the day-to-day administration of the municipality is largely the responsibility of a manager or chief administrator appointed by the council. This form is popularly known as the council-manager form.

☐ 3. A board of elected commissioners serves as the legislative body; in addition to their policy-making roles, each commissioner serves as director of one or more functional or administrative departments. This form is popularly known as the commission form.

☐ 4. Qualified voters convene at an annual meeting (more frequently, if necessary) to make basic policy and to choose a board of selectmen; the selectmen and elected officers carry out the policies established by the community. This form is popularly known as the town meeting form.

☐ 5. The voters select a large number of citizens to represent them at the town meeting; all citizens may attend and participate in debate, but only representatives may vote. This form is popularly known as the representative town meeting form.
