A Unique Partnership

PREPARING OUR UNIVERSITIES FOR THE FUTURE

In 2002, four world-leading academic institutions and the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs envisioned the Alliance Program to be a pioneering model for Franco-American collaboration for the new millennium.

Columbia University, the Ecole Polytechnique, Sciences Po, and the Université Paris I Panthéon-Sorbonne shared a common vision of their evolving role in a world of interdependence and complexity, which called for new paths to excellence.

A unique partnership of excellence at the global stage, the Alliance Program was born: “un des nec plus ultra des réseaux internationaux des grandes écoles s’appelle Alliance” (Le Monde de l’Education).

Today, the Alliance Program has become a vivid hub for Franco-American talents, with its cutting-edge joint education programs, its unique network of faculty in all disciplines, and its vibrant offer for discussions and global dialogue at the highest level. Every year, more than 240 students and 80 professors benefit from the Alliance network, and 40 conferences are organized in Paris and New York on the pressing issues of our time.

The Alliance Program forecasts tomorrow’s global university. It is now endowed for what is the first-ever collaborative endowment of its kind. Columbia University and the three French partners continue to innovate, while their visionary endeavors, their model for academic collaborative work, and their contribution to transatlantic debate are widely praised.

Global Education Programs

The Alliance Program forecasts the future of global education. Every year, 210 students benefit from a range of 20 transatlantic dual-degree and joint programs at the undergraduate, graduate, and Ph.D. level. Building on long-lasting collaborations, the Alliance Program is breaking new ground in providing opportunities for an integrated education between Paris and New York. Whether studying, doing research, or interning in one of the Alliance partner universities, students from all continents gain exposure to different perspectives and methods while enhancing their academic and cultural skills. Students in the Alliance dual-degree programs get full degrees from both institutions and pave the way for global ventures in all fields.

TRANSATLANTIC RESEARCH TEAMS

The partner universities of the Alliance Program host some of the most prestigious and dynamic research centers in the world, covering a wide scope of disciplines. The Alliance Call for Faculty Joint Projects promotes bottom-up research collaboration across the Atlantic. By financing joint teams composed of one faculty from Columbia University and one faculty from any one of the three French universities, the Alliance Program inspires transatlantic research projects of the highest quality. Over the years, the program has turned into a mature seed-grant program, which attracts top applicant teams in diverse fields with perspectives for long-term and large-scale projects to be further funded by major foundations and institutions.

Giving to the Alliance Program

THE ALLIANCE ENDOWED FUND

Columbia University, the Ecole Polytechnique, Sciences Po, and the Université Paris I Panthéon-Sorbonne made history with the first-ever joint endowment of its kind in the world of higher education. Formalized in 2007, the endowment has accrued more than $2,300,000. The endowed Alliance Program Fund has been sustained by the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Conseil Régional d'Ile de France, and the four academic institutions of the Alliance Program.

SUPPORTS

The Alliance Program proudly acknowledges the support over the years of both individual and institutional donors. Major governmental contributors include: the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Conseil Régional d'Ile de France, and the French Ministry of Higher Education. Corporate sponsors include: BNP Paribas North America, Calyon, Ernst & Young LLP, Gide Loyrette Nouel LLP New York, Axa University, Coletica, Inc., France Telecom, Ixix Capital Markets, and UBS Municipal Securities.

SUPPORTING THE ALLIANCE PROGRAM

You are invited to become a member of the Columbia-Paris Alliance Program and to support its mission of transatlantic dialogue rooted in the academy. The Alliance Program welcomes gifts from foundations and corporate and individual sponsors. All contributions made to the Columbia-Paris Alliance Program are U.S. tax-deductible to the full extent allowed by law.
