Hey all,

Its been another stimulating week of non-stop student council action. I come with recent CC 08' tidings....

Casino night was a blast, with 900 Columbians in attendance, and I'd like to thank all of you. Before you pat yourselves on the back, I have yet another event to remind you of: Halloween Bash-This Thursday-West End-11pm to 3am (the time was moved up an hour from last weeks e-mail)-Come in Costume. Here's a groovy Flier for those who are visual learners:

Hmmmmm....what else....CC 08' student council website will have its grand opening November 3'rd. I have received several E-Mails with your concerns regarding the site. Originally, I had designed live online message boards to field your comments. However, many of you have expressed reservations about posting your concerns so publicly. Because I take care of my people (Can I call you my people? I know we've just met but I feel so close to you) I have adjusted the design. Rather than the message board, there will be a link to directly E-Mail your concerns to either myself (Matthew Schoenfeld for you losers that didn't read the last E-Mail) or Isaac (your Vice President). I hope this is of help for those who expressed privacy concerns!

Ahhhh I'm racking my brain for more vital information....got it- In two weeks I will be meeting with the head of housing. I have already began making an informal list of concerns I will address, but I would like your feedback. What's eating your grape? What's rubbing you the wrong way? What's the thorn in your side? I was elated from the response to the last E-Mail, as many of you actually took a few moments of your "valuable" time to send suggestions and responses. Keep it coming!

Well that's it for now. I bid you adieu.

Yours Truly,
Matthew Schoenfeld
