

THE KRAFT FAMILY FUND FOR INTERCULTURAL & INTERFAITH AWARENESS

SPRING 2008 REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS

The Kraft Family Fund for Intercultural and Interfaith Awareness administered by the Office of the University Chaplain (OUC) encourages recognized student groups at Columbia University and Barnard College to collaborate on projects that promote intercultural and interfaith awareness and understanding across the University.

The Kraft Fund seeks to provide students with timely and appropriate venues for exploring controversial issues and resolving conflicts in a manner that promotes greater understanding among Columbia University students of diverse backgrounds and perspectives. The fund also provides support for co-sponsorship by the Office of the University Chaplain for university-wide religious and cultural student-initiated programming.

ELIGIBILITY	PROJECT EXAMPLES	PROPOSAL PROCESS
Projects eligible for Kraft Family Fund consideration will bring together two or more recognized *Columbia University and/or Barnard College student cultural and/or faith-based groups that seek to advance intercultural and/or interfaith awareness through interaction and an open exchange of ideas. All programs must take place on campus and be open to all students and members of the Columbia University community. Eligible projects may also be a collaborative project between a recognized student religious or cultural group and the Office of the University Chaplain. They may involve events that entail training and education projects. Projects that meet the guidelines of the fund will include a wide range of activities, events, and discussions that bring together students and create shared opportunities for learning and dialogue that emphasize the unique relationships between culture, religion, race, and ethnicity. (*University affiliates Teacher's College, Union Theological Seminar and Jewish Theological Seminar are not eligible for the Kraft Family Fund)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> > An open forum on Israeli/Palestinian issues that brings together interested students to increase dialogue and discuss divergent points in a meaningful and substantive way > A conversation on arranged marriage and the role it plays in Hindu and Muslim societies > A roundtable discussion on how religious beliefs and cultural norms influence students from diverse racial, cultural, and ethnic communities > A screening and discussion of a movie, a documentary, or a play that explores the intersections and conflicts between religion and culture in different parts of the world, e.g. Sudan, Rwanda, Cambodia > A symposium for graduate students on ways to integrate cultural and religious perspectives into teaching 	Completed applications are due at Noon on Friday, February 15 room 203-Earl Hall. Recognized student groups interested in applying must schedule a brief meeting with Office of the University Chaplain staff to review their proposal before applications are accepted. The review committee will meet after the application deadline to make decisions on projects that will be awarded. No project will be funded retroactively. Only after an award confirmation is received should groups begin allocating monies from the Kraft Family Fund. Application submission does not guarantee fund approval or space usage in Earl Hall or St. Paul's Chapel.

Please complete the following application (Steps 1-3) and submit to the Office of the University Chaplain in 203 Earl Hall. The application deadline is at Noon on February 15, 2008.
