DESCRIPTION: (rev. Sept. 1970)

The papers of Franklin Henry Giddings, 1855-1931, include letters from various prominent sociologists and economists such as Richard Theodore Ely, Henry C. Adams, Simon N. Patten, Frank W. Taussig, Francis A. Walker, and others. These letters deal with academic activity in the field of Sociology and with Giddings's work on his book, The Principles of Sociology, New York, 1896. In addition, there are letters and manuscripts dealing with the League of Peace, forerunner of the League of Nations; typescripts of Giddings's speeches on various subjects; miscellaneous notes; one box of students' term papers and theses dealing with sociological topics and related printed material. Finally, there are some questionnaires and letters pertaining to a study made in 1911-12 by George Esdras Bevens on "The Distribution of Workingmen's Time." The correspondence includes letters from Jane Addams, William Jennings Bryan, Charles M. Beard, Jacob Riis, and others.

Also includes a bibliography of publications by Giddings and of works related to his field; and genealogical notes on the Miller/Millard family of New England.
