DESCRIPTION: The A. N. von Rozenshil'd-Paulin manuscript is a 116-page memoir dealing with campaigns near Riga and in Prussia during World War I. Rozenshil'd-Paulin ( ), who was the Commander of the 29th Infantry Division, discusses his division's travels through various cities and a number of small battles. While the manuscript provides a first-hand account of military life at the time, it contains relatively few specific dates. There are brief accounts of military maneuvers involving Generals Gandurin and, to a lesser degree, Renenkampf.
