DESCRIPTION: Memoirs and photographs of Lev P. Sukachev (1895-1974), a former tsarist officer who fought with the White forces in the Don region, then served as major in the Albanian army of king Akhmet Zog and during World War II was a high ranking officer in the Italian army. The memoirs, which recount L.P. Sukachev's military career from 1917 through 1947, are recorded in two versions: an abbreviated typescript text, mounted in the form of a scrapbook and interspersed with original photographs; and an amplified mimeographed version clipped from the Russian-American emigre publication Vesta Pervopokhodnika (Los Angeles) where it was serialized during the 1960's. Incorporated into Sukachev's memoirs is an account by a fellow officer, Colonel Berestovskii, entitled "Russkii Otriad v Albanskoi Armii."
