DESCRIPTION: Manuscripts of Viktor A. Zambrzhitskii (ca. 1890-1960), Imperial and White Army officer and military engineer. Zambrzhitskii fought in the Russo-Japanese War, World War I, and in the Civil War. He then emigrated to Prague and eventually to Casablanca. The manuscripts primarily are studies of World War II, including events in North Africa, France, the Balkans and Finland. He also discusses the psychological preparation of the Soviet Army and the image of World War II as a world revolution. In addition, there are two brief memoirs on World War I ("Ocherki bylogo") and on an army mutiny in Kiev in 1907 ("Sapernyi bunt").
