INTRODUCTION.

I.

HE time has now come when the English Printer and the English Publisher must take their due places in the national estimation. Hitherto the Author has had it all his own way. While we have readily put the men of Thought and Imagination --- such as Sidney, Spenser, Hooker. SHAKESPEARE, or Jonson by the side of the men of Politics and Statesuch as Burghley, Hunsdon, WALSINGHAM, RALEIGH, OF DAVIson; we have not so readily put the men of Business, exercising perhaps the most important mechanical art of peace of that time

—such as John Cawood, John Day, Henry Denham, Henry Binneman, or Christopher Barker; by the side of the men of Action or War,—such as Anthony Jenkinson, Sir Francis Drake, Sir John Hawkins, Sir Martin Frobisher, or the Earl of Cumberland.

Not that the production of a book was then so difficult and costly a task as the circumnavigation of the globe, the unravelling of the Babington conspiracy, or the capture of Spanish carracks. But inasmuch as a book is intrinsically a more imperishable and lifegiving thing than a crusadoinasmuch as three-fifths of our knowledge of that glorious Age has been preserved to us in print-inasmuch as these publications do also enshrine some of the greatest and brightest things that have ever, through all the ages, emanated from merely human minds—inasmuch also as some of these works have vastly helped towards establishing the bases of our existing English society,—and lastly, inasmuch as we go back to that Era for our Masterpieces in Protestant Divinity, in Lyrics Drama metrical Allegory and Pastoral Prose, in Moral and Political Philosophy with the Principles of Scientific Enquiry, in Annals Essays and Characters, and even in Religious Controversy: it does behove us to honour the labours and risks of those men. who sought indeed a livelihood and even a fortune in their occupation; but who often did far worthier than that even sometimes to the risking of all that they possessed, and without whose speculations all this would have

Thus, it is to the perpetual honour of Christopher Barker that, as he tells us at p. 115, soon after he had purchased his printing patent in 1577 he did 'give a Desperate adventure to imprint four sundry impressions' of the Bible suitable for as many different ages of life, 'in which tyme if I had died, my wife and children had ben vtterlie vndone, and many of my frendes greatlie hindered by disbursing round sommes of money for me, by suertiship and other meanes': while, in many instances, as he also intimates in the same paper, our printers took great pride in the excellence of their work, that they might ever preserve the Press of England from meriting the reproach of 'barbarism.'

Considering too the then cramped method of production—that every sheet was slowly printed from type by the hand-press; with the absence of all modern facilities, such as stereotyping &c.: one can but contemplate with a kind of wonder and reverence the great folios produced in those days. It is easy to realize that works such as Sir Thomas More's Workes printed by John Walley, John Cawood, and Richard Tottle in 1557-or Thomas BECON'S Workes printed by John Day in 1560-4-or Fox's Acts and Monuments, of which four editions, each in succession larger than the former, were printed by Day, between 1563 and 1583-or Day's edition of the Works of Tyndale, Frith, and Barnes in 1573-or H. Denham's edition of Hollinshed's Chronicles in 1587-or B. Field's 1595 Edition of Sir THOMAS NORTH'S translation of AMNOT'S version of PLUTARCH'S Lives-or the Second Edition, in three volumes, of RICHARD HAKLUYT'S Voyages printed in 1599-1600 by George Rishop, Ralph Newberry, and Robert Barker-or that book of books, in five volumes, Purchas's Pilgrimes, printed by William Stansby for Henry Fetherstone in 1626: it is easy to realize that such works as these must then have been as difficult to produce and sell as an edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica would be at present. Even now.

with all our existing resources and rapidity of production, and with our vastly wider circle of readers; it would take months of labour, and from £1,000 to £3,000 according to size, to reproduce these voluminous tomes; not to speak of the responsibility of their sale. Yet they, with others of like bulk, were excellently produced (for that time) by those hand-printers: and are and ever will be a perpetual honour to the energy industry and skill of our English Printers and Publishers.

the back of all printed Literature lie the conditions of its transliteration into type. Of necessity, books must, on the average, pay the Speculator; whether they remunerate the Author or not: but it is also apparent that the Publisher may have quite as high aims as the Writer. Within the limit of remunerative publications, he may do very much towards the universal education and enjoyment of a people; by refusing low though profitable books, and pushing excellent works though not making such large returns. This is done in some cases in the present day: and by none was it more followed than by the late Mr Charles Knight, whose life-work has endowed this age with such a perpetual honour.

It may therefore be a most worthy study to realize the conditions of the book market in the days of Elizabeth and the two first Stuarts; to mark the class of books produced by each publisher, whether he were his own printer or not; to be able to assign by the date all books which bear only the printer's initials to their real producers; to ascertain who were the patentees, and what were their privileges; to understand somewhat why certain books were not reprinted for years, and then for a time appeared in frequent editions; to watch the effect of books on the spread of Learning. and the fostering power of Learning to create books; to trace the gradually encroaching power of our Protestant Bishops and Archbishops—of all people in the world-in gagging the press, as a means of fettering and regulating the human mind; to trace with delight the inevitable reaction from such coercion in secret printing; to realize the excessive danger trouble and expense involved in a secret impression, and thereby to measure the strength of the motive for its production; and lastly pointedly to mark out the secretly printed books-not necessarily from any particular sympathy with their opinions,—but as so many effective protests against the edict of mere coercive Authority, 'Thou shalt not say,' or as it sometimes also insolently, though in vain, reached forward to realize, 'Thou shalt not think for thyself.'

An enquiry of this nature, if successfully accomplished, would be such a final and enduring literary monument to our early English Printing Press as would last till the world itself and all its books should share in the final conflagration.

III.

HE Company of Stationers of London consisted for the most part, of a few large Capitalists in books and some minor Speculators in the same, with the journeymen and apprentices employed by them; the masters men and boys who were engaged in book-binding; together with, later on, some type-founders; and, after about 1588, probably a few English papermakers. The book-binders of course would not exclusively live by English publications; but would occasionally bind or rebind works imported from the Continent.

In addition to these, Christopher Barker tells us, in his able representation to Lord Burghley which we have reprinted at p. 114, there were 'Joiners and Chandlers' in the Company; to which may also be added, 'Makers of Writing Tables,' like Francis Adams.

It is a singular fact that at the present day the Stationers' Company—though it now exceeds in numbers nearly every other Guild in the City of London, the Stationers 'qualified to vote in the election of Members of Parliament being only out-numbered by the Spectacle Makers'—is almost the only Company which has maintained the integrity of its foundation. Of a present Livery of 312; upwards of 300 are 'in the trade': and no one is now admitted to the freedom of the Company—otherwise than by patrimony—unless connected in some form with the production of books.

For many years members of the other Companies of London, like ABRAHAM VEALE and ANDREW MANSELL who belonged to the Drapers' Company, claimed the right of exercising the Art of a Stationer without taking up the freedom of this Company, and this right appears to have been recognized by the Law Officers of the City: but as a rule Publishers and especially Printers enrolled themselves among the Freemen of this Company; as in the cases of Christopher Barker, who, having become Queen's Printer, was translated from the Drapers' Company in 1578; and John Wolf the agitator who made a similar transfer from the Fishmongers' Company in 1583.

Now it is to the money accounts of this Corporation of Book-Speculators and their Associates, that we are indebted for the most singular and authoritative contemporary List of Books ever preserved in any nation. In reality it has already lasted, with but one slight break, about 320 years. In this Transcript, however, we have only to deal with the first Eighty-

Six of those years.

In the early days of this Society the Book Entries occupied but a very subordinate position; and were inserted in the Register only when the registration fee, of usually iiij^a or viij^a was charged. But as the grip of Authority—principally in the shape of the Bishop of London—went on tightening and tightening until it climaxed in the Star Chamber Decree of 1637; as books also became more and more a power, and therefore dangerous things unless fully authorized by the Ordinary; the Book-Entries became a Permission, an Imprimatur, rather than a cash-receipt. This change in their nature would seem to have occurred in the period (1571-1576 A.D.) now intervening between Registers A and B: and was probably occasioned by the Anglican hierarchy then assuming (query by what right), in self-defence against the secret printing-presses of the Puritans, a greater authority over unborn books than their Romish predecessors had hitherto continuously exercised. This supervision became more and more stringent until almost every important book was either entered in a full Court of Master Wardens and Assistants of the Company; or else was authorized both by the clerical licenser and—as if that were insufficient—by one of the Wardens as well. All which is a testimony to a large amount of fearfulness, as the result of this episcopal pressure.

As years roll on, the Book Entries increase in numbers as well as in importance: not possibly that a very much greater number of avowed books were printed under the increasing tyranny of Charles I. and his ministers; but that more and more books were registered. So matters reach their turning point. The assembling of the Long Parliament was the utter shattering and breaking up of the old order of things,* and the commencement of an increasing liberty of printing which has ever since augmented: until, at length, there came the national conviction that the Press—libels excepted—is its own correction; and that Contempt and Oblivion do exercise a sharper and swifter justice on vileness falsehood ribaldry and worthlessness than all the law and prerogative of the three kingdoms put together.

Then came the more wide-spread purity and the greater power of our Fourth Estate.

IV.

I is probably known to the Reader that the vast bulk of the Registers has necessitated the closing of this Transcript at the Meeting of the Long Parliament; and consequently that it will only comprise the Text of the first Three volumes and somewhat more than half of the Fourth.

These, with not a few of their successors, have been distinguished by the letters of the alphabet. For this distinction, however, there is no greater authority than that of official convenience.

Of course, for the purposes of these Registers, there was for the first seventeen years down to 1571 only one Volume in existence; for next twenty-five years more down to 1596 only two Volumes; for a further twenty-nine years more down to 1625 but three Volumes; and another fifteen years still found the Company using their Fourth Register. So that the idea of lettering the Registers came late. It certainly occurred after the loss of the 'Clerk's Book' of 1571-76 had been investigated and recognized as inevitable: otherwise the present Register B would have been lettered C; in the hope of the missing volume turning up. We may well believe—until evidence appears to the contrary—that this decision and the consequent existing lettering occurred some time after the Fire of London in 1666; by which time six Volumes, now lettered A to F, had accumulated.

• The Addendum we have affixed to this Volume bears abundant witness of the convulsions of that time; in the threes of which this Company was almost on the point of extinction.

Here we cannot repress our congratulations that while members of the Stationers' Company lost in that terrific disaster property estimated to be worth £200,000 in those days; that these Registers—more precious than gold to this and succeeding ages—were so fortunately preserved. One can readily imagine how hurriedly they, with other early records of the Company still extant, were carried or carted away, and somewhat of their wanderings and adventures until the Company again settled down in their rebuilt Hall. What possibility of their destruction there was, will be evident from what Lord Clarendon writes:

It was an incredible Damage that was and might rationally be computed to be sustained by one small Company, the Company of Stationers, in Books, Paper, and the other lesser Commodities which are vendible in that Corporation, which amounted to no less than two hundred thousand Pounds: In which prodigious Loss there was one Circumstance very lamentable. All those who dwelt near Paul's carried their Goods, Books, Paper, and the like, as others of greater Trades did their Commodities, into the large Vaults which were under St. Paul's Church, before the Fire came thither: Which Vaults, though all the Church above the ground was afterwards burned, with all the Houses round about, still stood firm and supported the Foundation, and preserved all that was within them, until the Impatience of those who had lost their Houses, and whatsoever They had else, in the Fire, made them very desirous to see what They had saved, upon which all their Hopes were founded to repair the rest.

It was the fourth Day after the Fire ceased to flame, though it still burned in the Ruins, from whence there was still an intolerable Heat, when the Booksellers especially, and some other Tradesmen, who had deposited all They had preserved in the greatest and most spacious Vault, came to behold their Wealth, which to that Moment was safe: But the Doors were no sooner opened, and the Air from without fanned the strong Heat within, but first the dryest and most combustible Matters broke into a Flame, which consumed all, of what Kind soever, that till then had been unburt there. Yet They who had committed their Goods to some lesser Vaults, at a Distance from that greater, had better Fortune; and having learned from the second Ruin of their Friends to have more Patience, attended till the Rain fell, and extinguished the Fire in all Places, and cooled the Air: And then they securely opened the Doors, and received all from thence that They had there. Lord Clarkndon's Continuation of his Life (1860-1667), pp. 354-5. 1st Ed. 1759, fol.

Of the four Registers represented by this Transcript; A is the most interesting in respect to the formation of the Company out of the pre-existent Association or Brotherhood; for its early growth; and for its abundant autographs. Especially is it noticeable for its antiquity. There are in it abundant notices of other books having been kept by the Company either from the first, or from very early periods of its history, but they have mostly perished. Certain it is that nothing older than Register A is now in the possession of the Company. This Register likewise contains the entries, at pp. 62, 475, and 572, of its own cost and that of Registers B and C as well.

Register B is the largest in size, and is very full, both of civic and literary information.

Register C is perhaps the most important from a literary point of view, in its relation to Shakespeare, Jonson and their contemporaries.

Register D is most interesting in a political point of view; as manifesting the dislike of the Stuarts to freedom in any shape: and especially as evidencing the addition of royal pressure to episcopal force in the matter of book-licensing, &c.

V.

HAT—long previous to the existence of the Company—there was a voluntary and informal Association or Brotherhood of Printers, Bookbinders, Publishers, and the like, formed on the usual model of a City Company; is conclusively proved by the earlier pages of this First Register, as well as by external evidence.

On the 16th May 1561, Anthony Clerke paid, as will be seen at p. 159, sixteen years' arrears of quarterage, which was the ordinary quarterly contribution of a great by each member of a Company. This not only proves the existence of this Brotherhood so far back as 1545; but also shows that it was then and had since continued the same in its general nature as the more formal Company subsequently established. Otherwise, had there been any kind of break, Clerke would never have paid up these arrears.

This continuity of existence is important in connection with a statement at p. 138, that on the 30th June 1560, the Livery—in conformity with the Lord Mayor's precept of the previous 1st February—was 'New begonne and Revyued againe.' From which it would seem that the Brother-hood had had a Livery, and that from some cause it had ceased to be; and that as it would seem from p. 161, either in the reign of Henry VIII. or Edward VI. Of this earlier Livery there is apparently no trace in the Records of the Corporation of London. But it is to be especially noted that though the earlier Livery lapsed, there is nothing whatever to show an extinction of the Brotherhood.

So that on the opening page of the Text, we meet without surprise Thomas Berthelet and William Bonham acting as the joint treasurers of this voluntary Association in 1555 very much as the Wardens of the Company afterwards did; and at p. 45 we have 'the olde Collectors' John Walley and Anthony Smythe evidently acting as Renters to the Brotherhood.

Then we have in the Inventory of the 9th July 1558, at p. 88, that 'tabull [i. e. picture or fresco] of the names of the Auncyentes,' a name by which the Assistants of the Company were often afterwards called; but which at that early date must have been a list—probably not a short one—of the Elders of the Brotherhood.

So that the internal testimony of this single Register conclusively establishes the existence of the Brotherhood of the Stationers as early as 1545. Indubitable external evidence will push that date as far back as 1510.

Christopher Barker gives the following reliable account in 1582 of the Brotherhood at p. 114:

'In the tyme of king Henry the eighte, there were but fewe Printers, and those of good credit and compotent wealth, at whiche tyme and before, there was an other sort of men, that were writers, Lymners of bookes and dyverse thinges for the Churche and other vses called Stacioners; which haue, and partly to this daye do vse to buy their bookes in grosse of the saide printers, to bynde them vp, and sell them in their shops, whereby they well mayntayeed their families.

'In King Edward the sixt his Dayes, Printers, and printing began greatly to increase: but the prouision of letter, and many other thinges belonging to printing, was so exceeding chargeable, that most of those printers were Dryven throughe necessitie, to compound before [hand] with the bookesellers at so lowe value, as the printers themselves were most tymes small gayners, and often loosers.'

The fact is, that as soon as the successors of William Caxton—as Wynken de Worde, Richard Pinson, Julian Notary, John Rastall, Thomas Godfray, &c.—began to multiply, there sprang up of necessity a publicly-recognized Craft of Printing. These Printers associated themselves with the Stationers to whom Barker alludes above, into the Brother-hood to which we have already referred: and among civic organizations this Association was known at that time, not as the Craft of the Printers, but as that of the Stationers.

A Craft was a kind of incipient Company, without its compulsory powers, honour, or dignity. An instance of the mingling of Crafts and Companies together in an assessment in 1591, will be found at p. 544.

JOHN STOW added to his Second Edition of The Survey of London, 1603, a list to which he gives the following characteristic heading:

The 23. of Henrie the eight, these companies had place at the Maiors feast, in the Guildhall as followeth. I speake by president, for I was never a feast follower.

The following occur in this list:

26 Poulter[er]s, the wardens and one person, one messe.

27 Stacioners, the wardens and two persons, one messe. pp. 540-541.

As in this list, there occur entries like the following:

No Clothing Woodmongers, the wardens, and two persons, one messe.

It is clear from this that the Stationers, like the Poulterers, had their Clothing; that is, that on the ?9th, November 1531 the Brotherhood had a Livery.

At fol. 17 b of Letter Book O preserved among the Corporation Records (respecting which see p. 473) there is a casually recorded list of the names of the Guardians or Wardens of the divers misteries of the City of London, who, according to ancient custom, were sworn in the twelve months from the feast of All Saints [1 November 1525] in the Guildhall, 17 Henr. VIII., until the next following same feast, and in the mayoralty of Sir John ALLEN, who was Mayor between 7th November 1525 and 6th November In this list occurs—> henry pepwell) Guardiani Jurati ix die Octobris Stacioners lewys Sutton \ Anno pr[a]edicto. [i. e. 1526.]

So the Brotherhood had, and changed their Wardens on the 9th October 1526.

It is probable that these Wardens of the Brotherhood were annually elected; as the Ordinances made after the Incorporation enacted that the Wardens were to be elected according to "ancient usage." If so, the predecessors of these very two men were before the Lord Mayor and Alderman on the 24th October 1525, under the following interesting circumstances:

> Adhuo De Curia tenta Die martis viz. xxiiii Die Octobris [1525] RICHARD NELE [I]re[n]monger

At this Court Came Richard Nels Citezen and stacyoner of London whiche wasse admytted ynto the liberties of the same Citie the thirde Day of Auguste Anno Requi Regis Henrici viij secundo / [i. e. 2 August 1510] And Desyred of my lorde mayor and Aldermen that were at the same Court / that he myght be translated from the same Craft of Stacyoners / Into the Craft of Ire[n]mongers for by cause he is fully Instructid and occupieth the Craft of Ire[n]mongers / And can but litell skyll or nothynge yn the Craft of Stacyoners / At whiche Court Came aswell the Wardens of Ire[n]mongers as the Wardens of Stacyoners / whiche wardens of the Stacyoners were then Demaunded what they cowde say against the said translaton / And forasmuche as the said wardens of Stacyoners cowde then no thyng objects and say agaynst the said translacon / Therfor it is agreed by yis [this] Court that the said NELE shalbe translated from the said Craft of Stacyoners ynto the Craft of Ire n mongers &c. Repertory of the Court of Aldermon (see p. 473) 7, fol., 64 b.

From this, it is quite clear that NELE obtained his freedom through the Craft of the Stationers. Had it been otherwise; and had he been subsequently translated from some other Craft to that of the Stationers: it would infallibly have been mentioned. Therefore the Craft of the Stationers existed at the date of his taking up his freedom.

That date depends on the word s[e]c[un]do in the entry. We have, for the purpose of verifying this word in the peculiar handwriting of this Repertory, read both forewards and backward from this entry; and have not the least doubt whatever that this word is Secundo and nothing else.

Therefore the Craft of the Stationers admitted RICHARD NELE to its freedom on the 3rd August 1510.

As Caxton died in 1491, it is not probable that evidence of a much earlier existence of this particular Craft will turn up; though it is likely enough that more testimony may be adduced of its proceedings. We have now established its existence between the 3rd August 1510 and the 3rd May 1556, the day previous to the Incorporation.

The word 'Stationer' appears to have been older than Caxton's time; and we purpose in the next volume showing the varying meanings that our forefathers attached to it. But it has yet to be shown that a Brotherhood called by that name existed before the advent of printing into this country.

However that may be, the Corporation Records prove the foundation by the Lord Mayor of a similar Society of Manuscript Producers in 1403, and their still earlier civic recognition as a Craft in the days of Chaucer and William Longland. We have seen the original enrollments of the following important entries: but give them as translated by Mr Riley in his Memorials of London and London Life, &c., 1868.

The first entry has never been printed in association with this Company.

81 EDWARD III. 20 MAY 1357. (Latin.)

On the 20th of May, in the 31st year etc., it was ordered and agreed by Henry Pykard, Mayor, and the Aldermen, that the writers of court-hand and text-letters, the limners, and the barbers, dwelling within the City of London, should not in future be summoned on Inquisitions in the Sheriffs' Courts between any parties pleading in the same. And if any americament should by the Sheriffs' officers from them be taken, the same should immediately be restored to them, without any gainsaying thereof.

Saving however, that if they should be summoned to come to the Guildhall on any arduous business touching the City, then they were to come there, on the peril which awaits the same.—Letter Book G, fol. lxi. RILEY, p. 295.

The second entry has hitherto been known by description only. Mr John Nichols, F.S.A.,—in by far the best account of the earlier history of the Stationers' Company that has yet appeared,—thus wrote respecting it—

The Company of Stationers is of great antiquity. By the authority of the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen, they were formed into a Guild, or Fraternity, in the year 1403, the 4th year of King Henry IV.; and had then Ordinances made for the good government of their Fellowship.—Lit. Anec. 18th Cent., iii. p. 545, Ed. 1812.

This statement, Mr Nichols justified by the following note:-

This appears by a Memorial presented by the Company of Stationers to the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen in 1645; in which they state that their Brotherhood, or Corporation, had then been governed by wholesome Ordinances for the space of 240 years.-Records of the Company, Book A, p. 153.

It is to be quite understood that in the preparation of this Transcript we are not permitted to see any other Register or Book whatever belonging to the Company besides those we reprint herein: but we understand that there is a series of Letter and Account Books, &c., lettered A, B, C, &c., carrying on the Accounts probably after the 2nd August 1596, when they terminate in this Register; and containing—like the Remembrancia of the Corporation—copies of important letters received and sent. It is to this Book A that Mr Nichols refers.

By the kindness of the present Clerk, we have been able to give a copy of this Petition in the Addendum at p. 593; where it will be found in connection with other cognate documents relating to the Controversy of 1645. Up to now therefore the proof of the Brotherhood of the Text Writers has been based on the copy of an assertion in a document emanating from the Company itself. We are happy to adduce the following more independent and perfect testimony.

4 Henry IV. 12 July 1403. (Latin and Norman French.)

(Latin.)

Be it remembered, that on the 12th day of July, in the 4th year etc., the reputable men of the Craft of Writers of Text-letter, those commonly called "Limners," and other good folks, citizens of London, who were wont to bind and to sell books, presented here unto John Walcore, Mayor, and the Aldermen of London, a certain petition, in these words.

(Norman French.)

"Unto the honourable Lords, and wise, the Mayor and Aldermon of the City of London, pray very humbly all the good folks, freemen of the said city, of the trades of text-letter, lymenours, and other folks of London, who are wont to bind and to sell books; that it may please your great sagenesses [tressages] to grant unto them, that they may elect yearly two reputable men, the one a Lymenour, the other a Text-Writer, to be Wardens of the said trades; and that the names of the Wardens so elected may be presented each year before the Mayor, for the time being, and they be there sworn well and diligently to oversee, that good rule and governance is had and exercised by all folks of the same trades in all works unto the said trades pertaining, to the praise and good fame of the loval good men of the said trades, and to the shame and blame of the bad and disloyal men of the same. And that the same Wardens may call together all the men of the said trades honourably and peaceably, when need shall be. as well for the good rule and governance of the said city, as of the trades aforesaid. And that the same Wardens, in performing their due office, may present from time to time all the defaults of the said bad and disloyal men to the Chamberlain at the Guildball, for the time being; to the end that the same may there, according to the wise and prudent discretion of the governors of the said city, be corrected, punished. and duly redressed. And that all who are rebellious against the said Wardens, as to the survey and good rule of the same trades, may be punished, according to the general ordinance made as to rebellious persons in trades of the said city, as set forth in [Letter] Book G, fol. CXXX. And that it may please you to command that this petition. by your sagenesses granted, may be entered of record for time to come: for the love of God, and as a work of charity."

(Latin.)

Which petition having been read before the said Mayor and Aldermen, and fully understood, for the reason especially that it concerned the common weal and profit, that transgressors of the Ordinance aforesaid should be severely punished, as before stated; it was unanimously granted by them that the Ordinance should thereafter be faithfully observed, and that transgressors should be punished in manner as above stated.

Letter Book I, fol. xxv. RILEY, p. 557.

It will be observed that this was a Joint-Brotherhood, and that the Craft of Limners [i. e. Illuminators] is mentioned before the Craft of the Writers of Text-letter.

The connection of this Joint-Brotherhood of 1403 with that of the Stationers in 1501 may be fairly assumed; but it has yet to be demonstrated. And it is to be hoped that the future historian of the Company will be able to do this; now that the enquiry has been limited to about a century of time.

So the Craft of the Stationers were first a voluntary and informal Brotherhood; next on the 4th May 1556, they became a royally Incorporated Fellowship; and finally, on the 1st February 1560, they were created by the Lord Mayor one of the liveried Companies of the City, then about forty in number.

VI.

HE Craft had their Hall in Milk Street. On the 26 May 1611, a 'Committee was appointed to Contract for the sale of the Lease of the Hall in Milk Street': but it would appear that no sale was effected. Mr J. Nichols writing in 1812 states

The Company still possess two houses in Wood Street and three in Friers Alley and Clements Court in Milk Street, built, after the Fire of London, on the site of their original Hall.—Lit. Anec., 18th Cent., iii. 545, Ed. 1812.

The most important act of the Brotherhood, however, was the purchase by voluntary subscription of their second Hall in Saint Paul's Churchyard in 1554.

This second Hall was previously known as Peter's College, and was originally a College for Chantry Priests belonging to St Paul's. It was situated on the South-West side of the Churchyard, and in Castle Baynard's Ward.

Srow's account of this Hall with its neighbouring buildings is as follows—

'On the North West side of this Churchyarde, is the Bishoppes Palace, a large thinge for receipte, wherein divers Kinges have bene lodged, and greate housholde hath bene kepte, as appeareth by the greate Hall, which of late yeares since the rebatement of Bishoppes livinges, hath not beene furnished with housholde meynic and guestes, as was meant by the builders thereof, and was of olde time vsed.

The Deanes lodging on the other side, directly agaynst [opposite to] the Pallace, is a faire olde House, and also divers large houses, are on the same side builded, whiche yet remaine, and of olde time were the Lodgings of Prebendaries and Residenciars, whiche kept great housholdes, and liberall hospitalitie, but now either decayed, or otherwise converted.

Then is the Stacioners Hall on the same side, lately builded for them.—Survey of London, p. 303, Ed. 1598.

To which clause Stow in his next edition, 1603, added,--

In place of Peter College, where in the years, one thousande five hundred fortic and nine, the fourth of January, sixe men were slaine by the fall of earth vpon them, digging for a Well. p. 373.

William Seres in 1549 printed at Peter College, before he moved to the sign of The Hedgehog close by: and possibly Srowe got this tradition through his family. Without doubt Seres was largely instrumental in this I. xxiv purchase of the College. He seems by his gifts to the Company recorded at pp. 86 and 139, to have been a practical and generous man.

Mr Nichols also states

This building stood at the South-west corner of the Churchyard. It was afterwards converted into the Feathers Tavern; and covered the spot now (1812) occupied by the garden of the Deanery, and the small court in which after the Fire of London, four houses were erected by Dean Sanoroff for the use of the Minor Canons.—Lit. Anec., &c. iii. 554-5. Ed. 1812.

We have also at p. 425 of the Text the cost of paving the 98 yards 'of the longe cawsey between Powles churche Dore and the stacioners hall,' i. e. from the great South door of old St Paul's; which is such a prominent object in RALPH AGGAS'S Map of London in Elizabeth's reign. It is of course exclusively to this Second Hall that all the bills of repairs in this First Register relate.

This Hall was situated in the parish of Saint Faith [martyred October 282 A.D.]; the Church of which was under Saint Paul's, and is thus described by Newcourt:

The Parish-Church dedicated to this Saint (heretofore called Ecclesia Santæ Fidei in Cryptis, 'in the Crowds' according to the vulgar expression) was at the West-End of Jesus Chappel, under the Choir of the Cathedral-Church of S. Paul, which serv'd as a Parish-Church for the Stationers, and others dwelling in S. Paul's) Church-Yard, Pater-noster-Row, and the Places near adjoyning.—Repertorium, &c., 349, Ed. 1708.

(3) The Third Hall was close by Lud Gate and the City wall. It previously bore the name of Pembroke's Inn, and afterwards of Abergavenny House. It is described by Stow's continuator, A[NTHONY] M[UNDAY], as 'in Warwick lane, at the end of Pater Noster Rowe': and doubtless occupied the site of the existing Hall in the parish of Saint Martin's, Ludgate. It was situated in the Farrindon Ward Within, and therefore to the West of Ave Maria Lane. The dividing boundary line of the two Wards—Castle Baynard's and Farrindon Within—ran Northward up Ave Maria Lane; and as far as The Golden Lion, which was some twelve houses in Paternoster Row from that Lane.

We may as well give here Stow's account of this Third Hall and its surrounding district.

Without the North gate of Powles church, from the ende of the olde Exchange, West vppe Pater Noster Rowe, by the two lanes out of Pauls church, the first out of the crosse I[s]1[e] of Pauls, the other out of the body of the church, about the middest thereof, and so West to the golden Lyon [in Paternoster Row], be all of this Warde [i.e. Farringdon Within] as is aforesaid.

The houses in this streete, from the first North gate of Paule churchyard, vnto the next gate, was first builded without the wall of the churchyard, by Henry Walles Mayor, in the yeare 1282. The rentes of those houses go to the maintenance of London bridge. This streete is now called Pater Noster Rowe, because of Stacioners or Text writers that dwelled there, who wrote and solde all sorts of bookes, then in vse, namely, A. B. C. or Absics with the Pater Noster, Aue, Creede, Graces, &c.

There dwelled also turners of Beades, and they were called Pater Noster makers: as I read in a Record of one ROBERT NIKKE Pater Noster maker, and Citizen, in the raign of HENRY the fourth, and so of other.

At the end of this Pater Noster Rowe, is Aue Mary Lane, so called upon the like occasion of text writers, and Beade makers, then dwelling there.

And at the ende of that Lane is likewise Creede lane, late so called (but sometime Spurrier Rows of Spurriers [i.e. makers of spurs] dwelling there) and Amen Lane is added therevuto, betwixt the south end of Warwicke lane, and the north end of Aue Mary lane.

At the north end of Aue Mary lane, is one great house builded of stone and timber, of old time pertaining to Iohn Duke of Britaine, Earle of Richmond, as appeareth by the Records of Edward the second. Since that it is called Pembrookes Inne, here vuto Ludgate, as belonging to the Erles of Pembroke in the times of Richard the 2. the 18 years: and of Henry the 6. in the 14. years. It is now called Burgaueny house, and belonged to Henry, late Lord of Burgaueny. pp. 273-4.

To which A[NTHONY] M[UNDAY], STOW'S continuator, added in the 1618 edition:

But the Worshipfull Companie of Stationers have (since then) purchased it [in 1611], and made it the Hall for the meeting of their Societie, converting the Stoneworke into a new faire Frame of Timber, and applying it to such serviceable vse, as themselves have thought convenient. p. 649.

On the 26th May 1611, there was a 'Committee appointed to be overseers for the Companye and directers of the buyldinge alteracons and reparacons of Bergavenny House.'

VII.

HE origin and occasion of the Company of Stationers has been much misunderstood. It has been usually thought that King Philip and Queen Mary grouped the hitherto scattered Printers and Stationers into one Company and in London, in order to exercise a more effectual control over all English printed books: whereas it was the printing and publishing trade which had been long organized as a City Craft that sought the royal incorporation and the civic livery for its own greater honour and importance.

Certainly the incorporation was a mere matter of money, and did not involve any special royal favour; like that, for instance, which singled out John Cawood for the Royal Printer, not only for English books in the stead of Richard Grafton, but also for works in Latin, Greek, and other foreign languages, the printing of which had been given by Edward VI to Reginald Wolf. So that Christopher Barker wrote truly in December 1582, when at p. 114 he says, 'the Company procured a Charter for the establishing of a corporation.'

I. xxvi

In its capacity as a civic guild, the Company were in the first instance and most directly amenable to the Lord Mayor and the Court of Aldermen. It does not seem that the Romanist hierarchy took any notice of it at all during its thirty months' existence under Queen Mary. They had already a rough and sharp method of dealing with obnoxious writers and their books. Licensing books before publication was a mere Protestant amenity of government: whereas the Papists were hard at work with their torture and their faggot stamping out as they thought 'the Protestant heresy.' So that while they murdered author book and reader together, a Company to exercise a milder control over the general literature of the country was not needed. Their own books were printed chiefly by ROBERT CALEY—whose name, strangely enough, does not appear in the Charter—and almost all other English books were forbidden, and when found burnt with the readers thereof.

The most authentic account of the occasion of the Company that we have vet met with, was given by Christopher Barker and Francis Coldock in May 1583. under circumstances that would seem to forbid mistake on the point. Writing to EDMUND GRINDAL, Bishop of LONDON-who at the time of the creation of this Company was an exile on the Continent, and who therefore personally probably knew nothing on the subject-on behalf of 'the Ancients of the Stationers,' several of whom, such as Richard Tottle, John Day, Thomas Marsh, Richard Greene, Thomas Purfoot, and John Alday or Aldee, occur among the Founders in the Charter, and who would therefore certainly know the occasion of it: the two Wardens state, 'Morconer the printers and Stacioners of the same [i.e. of London] obtained a ch[art]re for a Corporacon by reason of the disorders in pryntinge did soe greatlie encrease to the ende we might restrayne manye evilles whiche would have happened in the saide profession.' That by 'disorders' the writers chiefly intended trade control and copyright arrangements, and not the religious or political power of books; is clear from the next sentences. 'By vertue of which corporacon we have verye good and charitable ordynaunces, alsoe verie provident to avoide the disordered behaulor of prynters and suche troubles that mighte growe by printinge. Notwithstandinge all which yet is yt an endles toile to withstande the lewde attemptes of manie of our profession beinge even within our citie and at our elbowes and daielie looked vnto.' See p. 247.

VIII.

E now therefore come to the Charter itself and its Confirmation: and here give their expanded but verbatim text with an English translation; from the inrollments in the Public Record Office. The original Charter in the possession of the Company was burnt in the Fire of London.

HE names and their order are identical in both Charters. their sequence also roughly agrees with the contemporaneous Assessment of the Brotherhood in the spring of 1556, which is preserved at pp. 46-48: it may fairly be assumed that the names stand in the Charters in some order of seniority.

All the Brotherhood, however, were not named in the Charters. It is highly important that we should clearly and indubitably know who were included therein and who were not. Therefore we will first re-arrange in alphabetical order, all the Charter-men: prefixing their relative position among the ninety-seven enumerated therein; inserting (1555) after those who occur in the earliest indubitable List in the Registers of the Brotherhood, and who were certainly members thereof about the spring of 1555, see pp. 48-49; and lastly, marking the dates of such freedoms of the Incorporated Fellowship as are recorded as granted in the Text :---

(2) Four of the Ancients of the Brotherhood, whose names occur in the Text, could not necessarily appear in the Charters:—

Master Raynes, who taught John Cawood, see p. 165. Master Andrewes, who translated himself to the Vintners' Company between October 1555 and January 1556, pp. 38, 34. Master Thomas Berthelet, who died in January 1556, p. 34. Master Robert Toy, who died in the following February, p. 35.

(3) The following, whose names occur in the Text as taking up their freedoms anterior to Adam Croke, who though last but one in the Charter-

Lists, was the last in point of seniority, his date being the 5th November 1555, are unaccountably omitted therefrom:—

Giles Chandeler made free 5 March 1555. John Baker made free 24 October 1555.

(4) The following who we know, from their extant productions, were certainly printers about the time of the Charter, are not named in it, and were possibly not of the Brotherhood:

RICHARD GRAFTON, ROBERT CALBY, JOHN CHARLEWOOD, ABRAHAM VEALE.

(5) The following printers were probably of the Brotherhood, and yet are not named in the Charter—

Thomas Hacket, see p. 43; John Wayland; and Hugh Singleton, first mentioned at p. 90.

(6) Another printer, who only joined this Society on 27 September 1578, see II. 679, was the Rev. Robert Crowley, M.A.: who had printed much in King Edward's days; but was now silenced, and either secreted or in exile.

Possibly a longer search would add to these excepted names. Enough has been shown to prove that the Company was a self-elected body; not only out of the general body of Stationers and Printers of London, but also out of the Brotherhood itself.

X.

ROBABLY Crafts did not have a Master as well as Wardens. There is no mention of one in the Text prior to the formation of the Company. It is noteworthy that its First Master was neither a printer nor a publisher, but a Proctor of the Court of Arches, apparently living in Warwick Lane, and evidently a Roman Catholic.

The following passages from the will of this childless married man are of general interest.

It would seem that the 'spone of sylver all gylte' of p. 103, not specially named in this will, was not actually given to this Company by Anne Dockwray, see p. 165. Perhaps the xx^* was in lieu of it.

was a very natural thing, that the newly chartered Company should seek for a Grant of Arms. The following is the enrollment of Sir Gilbert Dethick's original Grant to the Company, which apparently perished in the Fire of London.

The main thought of the Grant is Light, in the three emblems of the descending heavenly dove, the flying eagle, and the three books.

It should be noted that John Cawood himself received a Grant of Arms on the previous 10th May 1557.

E have at p. 132, 'payd master Cawod for the sylver which ys in the seale xix* viij*.' This payment was apparently between May and July 1560: but it would appear that the seal was engraved some time before this. It has long since perished. In the College of Arms of London, however, there is a tricking of it (and the Arms of the Company) made in the year 1634, of which this is an exact facsimile. It is presumed that it represents the Apostle John and the symbolical and apocalyptic eagle usually then represented with him.

Underneath is the following inscription:—

The Armes and common Seale of the worthy and commendable mistery and corporation of the Stationers, within the noble Citty of London, which Armes were granted unto them by Sir Gilbert Detrice Knight, Garter, under his hand and Seale of his office and armes, the 6. of September [1557] in the 4. and 5 years of Phillip and Mary; and in the Visitation of London, anno 1634, was Adam Islip, Master, Thomas Purfoote and John Rothwell, wardens.

HE earliest printed notice of the Stationers' Company that we have met with, occurs in the Iniunctions given by her Maiestie, printed by B. Jugge and J. Cawood in the year 1559. Queen ELIZABETH'S first Parliament sate from the 25th January to the 8th May of that year, and more than one edition of these Injunctions were afterwards issued before the termination of the Queen's regnal year on the 16th November. But two of these Injunctions refer specially to books.

6. Also that they [i. e. the Clergy] shall prouve within three monethes next after this visitation, at ye charges of the paryshe, one boke of the whole Byble of the largest volume in Englyshe. And within one xii. monethes next after the sayde visitation the Paraphrases of Erasmus also in Englyshe, vpon the Gospelles, and the same set vp in some convenient place within the said Churche that they have cure of, whereas theyr Paryshyoners may mosto commodiously resort vnto the same, and reade the same, out of the time of common service. The charges of the Paraphrases shalbe by the personne [parson] or proprietarie [patron] and paryshyoners borne by equal portions.

And they shall discorage no man from the readyng of any parte of the Byble eyther in Latin or in Englyshe, but shall rather exhorte every person to reade the same, with greate humilitie and reverence, as the veryo lyuely woorde of God, and the specyal fo[o]de of mans soule, which all Chrystyan persones are bounde to embrace, believe, and followe, yf they looke to be saved: Wherby they may the better knowe theyr duties to God, to theyr Soveraigne Ladye the Quene, and theyr neyghbour, ever gentely and charitablye exhortyng them, and in her Maiesties name, straightly charging and commandyng them, that in the readyng therof, no man to reason or contende, but quietly to heare the reader.

51. Item because there is a great abuse in the printers of bokes, which for couetousnes cheifly regard not what they print, so thei may have gaine, whereby arriseth great dysorder by publicatyon of vnfrutefull, vayne and infamous bokes and papers; The Quenes majestic straytly chargethe and commaundeth, that no manner of person shall print any manner of boke or paper, of what sort, nature, or in what language socuer it be, excepte the same be first licenced by her maiestie by expresse worder in writynge, or by .vi. of her priny counsel, or be perused and licensed by the archbyschops of CANTOREURY and YORKE, the bishop of London, the chauncelours of both vnyuersities, the bishop beyng ordinary [i.e. Ecclesiastical Judge as well], and the Archdencon also of the place where any suche shalbe printed, or by two of them, wheref the ordinary of the place to be alwaies one. And that the names of such as shall allowe the same, to be added in the ende of every such works, for a testymonye of the allowaunce therof. And bycause many pampheletes, playes and balletes, be often times printed, wherein regard wold be had, that nothinge therin should be either heretical, sedicious, or vasemely for Christian cares: Her maiestic likewise commaundeth, that no manner of person, shall enterprise to print any such, except the same be to him lycenced by suche her maiesties commyssioners, or .iii. of them, as be appoynted in the citye of London to here, and determine divers causes ecclesiasticall, tending to the execution of certayne statutes, made the last parliament for vnyformitye of order in religion. And yf any shall sell or vtter, any manner of bokes or papers, beynge not licensed as is abouesaid: That the same party shalbe punyshed by order of the sayde commyssyoners, as to the qualitie of the faulte shalbe thought mete. And touchinge all other bokes of matters of religyon, or polycye, or gouernaunce, that hathe ben printed, eitheir on this side the Seas, or on th[e]other side, bicause the diversitie of them is great, and that there nedeth good consideration to be had of the perticularyties theref: her maiestye referreth the prohibition, or permission theref: to th[e]order whiche her saide commissioners within the Citie of London shall take, and notifye. Accordynge to the whyche, her maiestye straightly commandeth al manner her subjectes, and specially the wardens and company of Stationers, to be obedyent.

Prouyded that these orders do not extend to anye prophane [i.e. classical] aucthours, and workes in any language, that hath ben heretofore commonly received or allowed in any the vnyuersities or Scoles: But the same may be prynted and vsed, as by good order they are accustomed.

In reply to our own query at p. 155, it would seem that the above two Injunctions were the sole foundation of, and the primal authority for all Protestant Episcopal licensing of books in England.

XIV.

HE third stage of formation was the recognition of the Incorporated Fellowship as a Company of the City. The first step to this was the enrollment of their Charter among the City Records, which was done on the 3rd June 1557, see p. 496.

The next advance onward—their Charter in the mean time having been confirmed by the new Queen on 10th November 1559—was their creation by the Lord Mayor a Livery Company on the 1st February 1560, see p. 138.

And their civic recognition was finally completed by their being allotted, on the 28th September 1561, place and precedence in all processions, &c., next after the Poulterers' Company, see p. 496. This would however appear to have been but a revival of an earlier privilege.

XV.

RDINARILY the freedom of a City Company was obtained in one of three ways.

(1) By serving an APPRENTICESHIP of not less than seven years; which apprenticeship was to be so arranged as to terminate when the lad reached a prescribed age fixed by the Common Council of London.

(2) By PATRIMONY, whereby any son born subsequent to his father's being made free of the Company could claim-without serving any apprenticeship—on reaching the same prescribed age, the freedom of that Company, by virtue of being freeborn.

(3) By REDEMPTION or PURCHASE usually at greatly enhanced fees, as in the case of George Buck, at p. 159, who paid on the 13th September 1560, 30s. i. e. a nine-fold fee for admission to the freedom of this Company.

I. xxxix

Nevertheless there rested in the Master, Wardons and Assistants of a Company a dispensing power as to the 'Redemptioners,' as they were called. Thus Sir Thomas Smith, one of the Queen's Privy Council, when admitted to his freedom by redemption on the 23rd April 1571, see p. 447; merely paid the usual fee of 3s. 4d. Likewise also the well-known printing Clergyman and most excellent man, the Rev. Robert Crowley, M.A.—who had in Elizabeth's reign been Vicar in succession of St Giles without Cripplegate and of St Lawrence Jewry—was admitted to the freedom of this Company on the 27th September 1579, and afterwards to the Livery, both apparently free of all charge, see II. 679 and 143.

(4) There was also a kind of honorary admission to Membership when a man was admitted as a 'Brother.' The provision was chiefly for the purpose of incorporating continental workmen then technically known as 'strangers,' or English workmen coming up from the country then technically distinguished as 'forreigners,' i.e. 'from beyond the liberties of the City.' It will be useful to keep this important distinction 'strangers' and 'foreigners' in mind.

The 'Brethren' of the Stationers' Company could not bind an apprentice; though they might teach and employ one on behalf of some freeman; of which we shall meet with instances in the next Volume.

It would also appear that as time went on, and as the conditions of book-producing did out-burst the framework of the Society's original organization; that these country and Continental workmen were more and more employed without their being formally received as "Bretheren."

XVI.

OW that the Company has reached its full development of organization and honour, and that we have introduced its Founders to the Reader; let us consider awhile the nature of its organization in the days of its unimpaired vigour. It was of the nature of a pyramid; having the Master for its apex and the Apprentices for its base.

It consisted of the Master, the Wardens, the Court of Assistants, the Livery, the Yeomanry, and the Apprentices; or as we have them described at p. 569, 'the Assistentes the liverye the yeomanrye and Strangers.'

These classes were made up as follows:---

The MASTER

UPPER OF ELDER WARDEN
THE COURT OF ANGIENTS OF ASSISTANTS; OF COMMON COUNCIL OF the COMPANY.
UPPER RENTER [WARDEN]
UNDER OF ASSISTANT RENTER [WARDEN]

The Livery
The Yeomanry or Freemen,
The CLERK,
The BRADDS,
The BRETHERN,

The Apprentices.

It took a long life of labour and success to rise through all the grades to the height of being a Master: and probably three-fourths of the Apprentices never reached the Livery at all.

Taking the Apprentices first we must draw an especial attention to the Acts passed by the Common Council of London respecting them on the 27th September 1556, as preserved to us in Letter Book S, in the Corporation Records: respecting which see p. 473.

The Court of Aldermen, on the 27th August of that year, passed the following resolution:---

Item it was thoughte good necessarye and expedyente that mocon be made to the Comens at the nexte comen cownseille that it mave be inacted that no Freman shall take frome thensforthe env chylde or younge man to be his apprentice for any Lesse Terme of veres then suche as the aige of the same apprentice / at the tyme of the expiracon of his sayde Terme mayo amounte to axiiii veres at the Leaste. fol. 96.

Consequent upon this the Common Council on 27th Sept. passed the Act, of which the following portion suffices for our present purpose.

FORASMUCHE AS greate pouertie, penurye and lacke of lyvvnge hathe of late veres by dyverse and soundrye occasyons wayes and meanes arysen growen and encreased within this Cytye of London not onelye amongeste the pore artyficers and handye craftes men of the same Cytie but also amongest other Cytezens of suche Companyes as in tymes paste have lyved and prosperouslye and in greate wealthe and one of the Chiefeste occasions thereof (as it is thought and semeth to all men who by longe tyme bave knowne the same Cytic and have had experyence of the state theref) is by reason of the ouer hastic mariages and ouer scone settings vpp of howsholdes of and by the youthe and yonge folkes of the saide Cytye whiche have commenlye vsyd and yet do to marye themselues as soone as ever they comme out of their Apprentycehood be they neuer so yonge and vaskylifull yea and often tymes maney of them so pore that they scantely have of theire proper goodes wherewith to buy their maryage Apparell and to furnyshe theire howses with implementes and other thinges necessarye for the exercise of theire occupacons whearbye theye shoulde be able to sustein theim selfes and their familye / And for assuuthe as the cheifeste occasion of the saide inconveniences vs as yt is verye evydente by reason that Dyuerse and sundrye apprentyces aswell of the saide artyficers as also of other Cytezens of the saide Cytie are commonly bounden for so fewe veres that theire termes of Apprentycialitie expyreth and endethe ouer sone and they are therevon incontinently made free of the sayde Cytie whatsoeuer theire ages Disposycon Wyttes Dyscretyons or knowledges of their artes or occupacons be to the greate hynderaunce Losse and inestymable sclander of the saide Cytic and to the in maner vindoinge of a greate number of suche yo [u] the who otherwise myghte and shulde serve verve well in the Comen wealthe.

Ann further be it enacted by anothorytye aforesaide That no freman of this Cytic shall from and after the said feaste of all sayntes [1 November 1556] take any apprentice or apprentices for any fewer yeres than for so manye that enery suche apprentice or apprentices from and after the saide ffeaste of all sayntes so to be taken shalbe of the full age of apprentices from axiiij^{8e} yeres att the leaste before the expiracon of the terms of the apprenticehod of energy suche apprentice vipon payne that energy person or persones that from and after the said feaste shall take any apprentice or apprentices into his or their service that shall not be of the full age of axiiij years at the leaste at the ende of the terms of the same his apprenticehod as is aforesayde shall forfeit and lose twentie pounds to the least of the Maire and Computation and Cytezens of the saide Cytic. Letter Book S. fol. 97 b and 98.

The Act—which continued long in force—is of great importance to us, inasmuch as it affords a rough estimate of the ages of many of the apprentices who afterwards became freemen of this Company, and as it also accounts for the otherwise inexplicable variations from eleven to seven years in the periods of the Apprenticeships recorded in the text. They were calculated so as to expire in the twenty-fifth year, according to the above provisions. No one could serve as an Apprentice for less than seven years, see The Oath of everie Freeman &c., at p. 166. Our modern ideas of apprenticeship are from four-teen to twenty-one years of age. For these we must substitute in all matters connected with this Transcript from fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, or eighteen to twenty-five. Therefore the approximate age of every Freeman on his entrance into Yeomanry of the Company may be assumed to have been not less than twenty-four full years of age.

Hardly more than one half of the Apprentices ever attained to the Freedom of the Company.

(2) A good many exiled Dutch or Huguenot workmen appear by this

First Volume to have been admitted as Brethren of the Company.

(3) In a Memorial, about August 1577, of certain of the Freemen which we have printed at p. 111, it is stated that about 140 had 'byne made free of the Stacyoners since the begynnynge of the quenes Maiesties reigne that nowe is besides a great number of apprenticez'; that is, in nineteen years. In consequence of the lost Register this statement cannot accurately be verified. This number would, as we have already intimated, include compositors, bookbinders, 'joiners and chandlers,' see p. 114, and 'makers of writing-tables.'

In a Memorial to the Lord Mayor, in April 1597, to be reprinted in the next Volume, the entire Bookbinders of London stated that they were 'in nomber fortie sixe all freemen, taxable to their Companies'; from which it would seem that some of them did not belong to this Guild,

We may therefore realize how small a band of workers it was that has preserved to us the Literature of Shakespeare and Bacon and their contemporaries. Sir Francis Drake set out from Plymouth on the second navigation of the globe on the 15th November 1577 with his 'fleete of flue barkes, and to the number of 164 men, gentlemen and sailers.' It may be fairly questioned whether if he could have then pressed every Freeman, Brother and Apprentice of the Stationers' Company to man that fleet, that they would have sufficed. Yet what a cargo of intellectual wealth have they sent down to all future ages. How many ships of knowledge did they set afloat, which have floated all these three hundred years, long after the Golden Hind has vanished off both sea and land; and which, safely moored in the public and private libraries of refuge, will carry on to far future ages the wealth of thought, the gems of wit, and the spices of divine teaching which England in the full flush and vigour of her first intellectual manhood prepared for an earthly immortality.

It would therefore certainly seem that the authors of that age equalled if they did not exceed in number those who mechanically produced their works.

It may be right here to mention the succession of Freemen, some of them not of the Livery, who filled the office of 'Printer to the City of London'; but we cannot fix the dates with certainty. The first appears to have been Hugh Singleton between 1586—1593. Then John Wolf between 1594—1603. Then John Windet between 1603—1610. Then William Jaggard between 1610—1623, who was succeeded by his son Isack Jaggard in the latter year. Bichard Cotes was appointed the City Printer in 1651, James Flesher in 1669, Andrew Clark in 1672, Samuel Pycroft in 1673, John Barber in 1710, &c. &c.

(4) One of the poorer of the Company Giles Huke appears to have acted as Porter, see p. 490.

(5) The Beadle was the pivot upon which the Company worked. Under the orders of the Master and Wardens, he issued notices for meetings, kept or transcribed some of the Records and Books of the Company. On occasions of repairs to the Hall he made himself useful looking after the workmen; and was doubtless a standing referee for all the members of the Company, and a useful assistant to its executive officers.

The first three Beadles were John Fayreberne, Timothy Rider, and John Wolf

(the agitator).

(6) We have now ascended through the Yeomanry, or, as it were, the lower division of the Company. The Livery, or upper division, was a still more restricted body. During the thirty-six years from its revival on the 1st July 1560 at p. 161, to the 2nd August 1596, only Sixty-three Freemen are recorded as taken into the Livery; and when it is considered how many of these had died in this period, it will be apparent that it only usually consisted of some twenty to thirty members. Mr Wichols states in his Literary Anecdotes, before quoted, that the number of the Livery in 1619 was Forty-nine. So that probably not One-Sixth of the Freemen ever reached the Livery.

This Upper Section evidently consisted of the moneyed men of the Company. Success in business, or the possession of a Printing Patent seems to have been the chief qualification for admission thereinto.

(7) With the Livery we associate—but without any specific authority—the Clerk and Solicitor, from the nature of his office. A Clerk is mentioned so early as the 2nd July 1559, see p. 109, who was probably remunerated by piece-work: but we have no regularly salaried Scribe of the Company till George Wapull, who afterwards went to Norembegue, see p. 509, was appointed, and began a regular salary on the 29th September 1571, see p. 460. He was succeeded on 30th May 1575 by Richard Collins who was transferred from the Goldsmiths' Company, who was Clerk for about thirty-six years, dying in 1613. His successor in the office was Thomas Mountforte, who died in 1630; and the next who followed, Henry Walley, was still Clerk of the Company in 1640 when this Transcript closes.

(8) From among the Livery were chosen on the 26th of March of each year, the Renter-Warden and his Assistant Renter-Warden. They were the minor Cash Officers of the Company. They received all Rents, Quarterage, Dividends &c.; and paid all the smaller Disbursements of the Society. Year by year, this First Register is a testimony how smaller matters were increasingly omitted from the greater Cash Account of Wardens and transferred to that of the Renters. It was not till the 17th August 1681, that the two Renter-Wardens were made co-equal, see p. 21.

(9) The Assistants chosen by cooptation out of the Livery were the nobles of the Society. At first there seem to have been only eight or ten of them; but in 1645 their number had increased to twenty-eight. The sole principle of selection seems to have been the goodwill of those who were governing the Society at the time.

(10) Rising still higher, we come to the two active Executive Officers of the Company—the Wardens, on whose shoulders virtually rested the responsibility of the internal affairs of the Company; of its threefold external relations, to the Lord Mayor and the Court of Aldermen, to the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London, and to the Privy Council; and, in fact, practically the general oversight of the London press. They had abundant need to be the vigorous and energetic men we find them to have been.

(11) Last and greatest, there was the culminating honour of the Mastership, a place of eminence and dignity. The Master was for the time being the head of the English Publishing and Printing trade: and in those days when London life pulsated through its Guilds, the office was the highest thing any one in the trade could aspire to below that of an Alderman.

(12) Most interesting are the annual official gifts by the Master and each Warden of a silver spoon or bowl with the donor's name on it, which are recorded in the Text. But for the Fire of London, we should have been even now able to inspect these heirlooms of past worthies. As it is, there is nothing in the existing plate of the Company of an earlier date than that catastrophe.

(13) The fines for non-acceptance of Office with similar other particulars will be found among the earliest Ordinances now extant, which we have reprinted at pp. 3—26.

XVII.

UCH then, in brief, was the rise and progress of the Company of Stationers of London. The consideration of the relation of these Registers to the Literature of their time is far too wide a subject to be dealt with in the short Prefaces to the reprinted Text, and must be reserved for the Appendix: when the Titles of as many works as possible shall have been confronted with the Book How far the Registers are deficient as a record of their total contemporaneous Literature, and the why and wherefore Who were the greatest publishers? Who were the greatest printers? What kind of books were generally issued by each publisher?

The answers to these queries, with a 'List of works now apparently lost,' will constitute the consummation of this Enquiry.

Meanwhile it is certain that this Transcript will inaugurate an era of a vet still more scientific and exhaustive study and research into the Mind-World of that Age: and that from henceforward no one will pretend to be a master of this section of our literature who has not made its chief contents

All Ages are not alike. Mere material prosperity, or peace, or even victories do not occasion intellectual light and beauty. These are the gift of All the uttermost depth and power, brightness and tenderness of human conceptions are but the scintillations of His own ineffable character and attributes; and it would almost seem as if it were a part of His divine plan in the government of this globe, that once and possibly but once in the history of each Race there should be a great Out-Come of the highest efforts of its mind and soul; that there should be a flood and confluence of the greatest and the brightest things that were possible to its civilisation and order of thought. So it was in Israel in the days of DAVID, ASAPH, and So it was in Greece in the lifetime of Socrates, Plato, and DEMOSTRENES. So it was in Rome in the days of Virgil, Horace, and Ovid, So it was in Italy in the time of Dante, Petrarca, and Boccaccio. So it was in Germany in the days of REUCHLIN, LUTHER, and MELANCTHON. in Spain in the age of CERVANTES, HERRERA, and LOPE DE VEGA. So it was in France in the era of Pascal, Molière, and Fénélon. And so it was in England in the days of Spenser, Shakespeare, and Bacon.

Great minds may appear singly, as did MILTON and NEWTON: but it is this great rush and confluence of diversified ability and talent that makes a Golden Age, which is the product as much of the high average ability of a large number of secondary writers as the orb-like effulgence of a few master-Thus the age of Paradise Lost is a corrupt and degenerate one; notwithstanding the Titanic Milton; while the days of Elizabeth and James were England's time of Gloriation and Delight, of Song Romance and Daring;

the mere recollection of which exhibit exhibits,

XVIII.

UT all this brightness faded away. The inspiration fled; and there came in the last century that age of vulgarity and darkness which for a time almost blotted out the memory of the Song Time of England. For Johnson and most of his contemporaries no such period hardly existed; and men like Lyly, Lodge, Campion, Breton, Watson the London law student, and Sir Edward Dyer were as unfamiliar to them as Caedmon, Bede, Alcuin, or Asser.

It is one of the signs of the quickening thought of our own time that we are now constantly going back to these wells dug out by our forefathers. Civilisation is not advancement, unless we carry forward with us all the good we inherit from our ancestors as well as the additions we make in our own time: and to drop the former for the sake of the latter is in our case like the casting away of golden ore for the sake of polished brass.

Nevertheless there were a few witnesses for the older mindlife in the last century; especially that admirable man, William Oldys: and it was one of the first signs of reviving vitality, when English scholars woke up to the vast importance of these Registers.

The earliest extract from them that we have met with was made about 1699 and occurs in two Memorandum books kept by Bishop Tanner, now forming Add. MS. 6261, fol. 68, (53), in the British Museum. It is simply a half sheet of note paper containing some twenty excerpts from Register B.

Joseph Ames in his Typographical Antiquities, 1749, though he gives the Company's Charter &c., did not apply the Book Entries of the Registers to the Book Titles reprinted by him. This application was one of the distinctive characteristics of William Herbert's edition in 1785-90 of those Typographical Antiquities; which excellent but confused and incomplete work is still of great authority.

It would seem that it was Thomas Warton, B.D., the Poet Laureate, that first extensively quoted the Registers in his History of English Poetry, 1778. Steevens, Malone, Douce, Chalmers, Ritson made use of them for special purposes: but it was the most excellent endeavour of Mr John Payne Collier to cull such Book Entries as related to the Drama and Popular Literature &c. &c. down to 1586 in his Extracts &c. published by the Shakespeare Society in 1848-9; which he continued in like manner down to 1595 in Notes and Queries, 2nd Series, xii., and 3rd Series, i.—iii.

With the history of the present enterprise, the Reader is already acquainted.

Here we must stop: commending this First Volume of the Transcript to the Reader in the hope that he will have as much pleasure in the perusal of it as we have had—despite all fatigue and difficulties—in its production.

ORDINANCES OF THE STATIONERS' COMPANY.

1678-1682. A.D.

It is however very necessary to a right understanding of the operations of the Company that we should give the earliest known (privately-printed) text of them, which are those printed in 1678, 1682 and 1688. These Regulations, though they may vary in some particulars, are doubtless substantially the same as those now lost: and they are, with some variations, the Ordinances at present in force in the Company.

LONDON:

Printed for the Company of Stationers, 1683.

O all Christian People to whom these Presents shall come, We the Right Honorable, Sir Francis North Knight, Lord Keeper of the Great Seal of England, Sir Edmund Saunders, Knight, Lord Chief Justice of His Majesties Court of Kings Bench, and Sir Francis Pemberton Knight, Lord Chief Justice of His Majesties Court of Common Pleas at Westminster, send Greeting. Whereas in a Statute made in the Parliament holden at Westminster in the Nineteenth Year of the Reign of the late

King of famous Memory, Henry the Seventh, for the Weal and Profit of his Subjects, It was (amongst other things) Ordained, Established, and Enacted, That no Master. Wardens and Fellowships of Crafts or Mysteries, or any of them, or any Rulers of Guilds and Fraternities, should take upon them to make any Acts or Ordinances, nor to execute any Acts or Ordinances then aforemade, in Disinheritance or Diminution of the Prerogative of the King, nor of any other, nor against the Common Profit of the People, Except the same Acts or Ordinances be Examined and Approved by the Chancellor or Treasurer of England, or Chief Justices of either Benches, or Three of them, or before both the Justices of Assize in their Circuit or Progress in the Shire where such Acts or Ordinances be made, upon pain of Forfeiture of Forty pounds for every time that they do contrary, (as by the said Statute more plainly doth and may appear.) Now know YE, That the Master, and Keepers or Wardens, and Commonalty of the Mystery or Art of Stationers of the City of London, Willing and desiring that the said Act of Parliament be in all things duly observed and kept, The Tenth day of February, in the Five and thirtieth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord CHARLES the Second, by the Grace of God, of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c. Annoque Domini One Thousand Six Hundred Eighty Two, for the better Regulating and Ordering of the Corporation of them the said Master, and Keepers or Wardens, and Commonalty of the Mystery or Art of Stationers of the City of London, and for the preventing of Abuses and Misdemeanours in and about Printing, Have presented unto us this underwritten Ordinance by them Ordained, Devised, and Made for the well-governing of their Corporation and Society, and every Member thereof, and have made their Humble Suit and Request to us to Examine, Correct, Amend, and to Approve thereof in such manner and form, as by the said Act of Parliament made in the said Nineteenth Year of King Henry the Seventh, is required. We therefore well considering and approving the said Supplication to be good and reasonable, according to their desire, and by the Authority of the said Act of Parliament to us given, the same Ordinance under-written, so to us exhibited, have seen, read, and examined; the Tenor whereof hereafter followeth in these words, (Vii)I. 25 be Printed or Published, before the same Book, Pamphlet, Ballad, or Paper is begun to be Printed, To the end that the Printer or Publisher thereof may be known, to justifie whatsoever shall be therein contained, and have no Excuse for the Printing or Publishing thereof; which Usage this Company now taking into their Consideration, do think that the due Observation thereof may be a means to prevent the Printing and Publishing of Treasonable, Seditious, and Scandalous Books, Pamphlets, Libels, and Papers, or Discover the Printers or Publishers thereof.

EDMUND SAUNDERS. FRANCIS PEMBERTON.

ON THE PRESENT TRANSCRIPT.

HIS Transcript is designed to take the place of the original Registers it represents; should they ever by any woeful calamity, and in spite of the unwearying care with which they have been and are preserved, be destroyed. Especially therefore as this limited impression might thus become the sole repository of the information they contain; it seems obligatory to give here some precise information as to the method pursued both in the transliteration of the written record into type, and as to the admission of illustrative matter into its pages.

The entire work is intended to form a vast mass of materials of so high an authority as not to be capable of contradiction in that which they assert; and this it is further intended to systematize and arrange in a condensed form in the Appendix.

T E X T.

1. When the great preliminary obstacle of money had been so far overcome as to justify the Transcript being proceeded with: there came an almost overpowering despondency from the bulk of it. Leisure moments only were available for its execution: and it did seem for a time that it could not be accomplished within a reasonable period. The actual process of all good correction is very slow, and there were 2500 pages to verify, each varying from the other in the nature, amount, and arrangement of its contents; so that it appeared quite possible that the work would drag on for years, and that—ever exposed to the eventualities and uncertainties of human life—it might fail of accomplishment after all.

Most strenuous efforts were therefore made to settle the endless questions of detail that sprang up: so that it was not till May 1874 that the first sheet went through the press: and within the following eight months this First Volume is issued, and half of the Second is in type.

2. The next difficulty arose out of the bewildering multiplicity of names. It is quite possible that there will be forty thousand real or fictitious names in this Transcript. So that it was very needful to make some kind of distinction by means of variety of type.

A broad demarcation was at once obtained by placing the names of all members, whether Freemen or Brethren, of the Stationers' Brotherhood or Company, so far as they could be ascertained, in a special type technically known as 'Clarendon,' as John Cawood, Reginald Wolf, John Day, &c.

This may be taken as a general rule: but it has not been always possible to carry it out with accuracy. The Reader must consider the Transcript as a kind of journey, in which only that ground is gained which has been overpassed. It was not possible to prepare so large a manuscript in advance. Only as sheets came up from the printers, could the Text be annotated and referenced: so that though a very strong effort has been thus made to illumine the Text, and especially to make it its own interpreter; the notes look backwards on what was already printed rather than forward on what was still in Thus important points in the lives of the printers have only turned up far on in the Text; and so errors have occurred in the marking, which will, however, be rectified in the Indices. &c.

Thus it might have been supposed that as it was an act of defiance to the Stationers' Charter for any one not of the Company to print, that John Charlewood, after he had been summoned with his two apprentices before the City Chamberlain in 1559, at p. 106, had joined this Company by 1562, when (at p. 202) the first book is entered to him: but it appears from II. 85 that he was a member of the Grocers' Company down to about 1574, and therefore that his translation must have occurred in the period of the lost Register.

So John Kinoston, a simple bookseller in 1577, see p. 111; keeps two presses in 1583, see p. 248; although he appears at neither dates to have been a member of this Company.

Thus also John Wolf is apprenticed to John Day on the 25th March 1562, at p. 172; obtains his freedom in the Fishmongers' Company; and is retransferred to his old Company on 1st July 1583, see II. 688.

HUMPHBEY Toy also, after having served two years as Under Warden in 1571—3, see pp. 451—465; turns up as a member of the Mcrchant Tailors' Company in 1583, see II. 117.

So—not to multiply instances—it has not been possible in our present imperfect knowledge of the Lives of the Stationers, always to mark the name aright. Nevertheless the distinction will be found of very great use; and if the type in this and other cases be not always accurate, it may be hoped that the name itself is.

3. The next decision was to expand all contractions whatsoever. There is no principle or constancy in them, much less any philological value. It must be remembered that the Officers of the Company had not the faintest idea of the importance that posterity would attach to the Registers. So long as their records sufficed for the business purposes of the Society, that sufficed for them. Each Clerk-true to human nature—began his duties with a punctilious transcription of the utmost details of the various formulæ of entry; but as familiarity and confidence increased, they not only abbreviated as it pleased them, but their writing often degenerated into a mere scribble. So that among the Apprentice-Entries of Volume II, 'c & stac of L' have been expanded into 'citizen and staconer of London,' How Richard Collins would have opened his eyes could be have foreseen that three hundred years after he had penned his entries, the magnifying glass would be used to ascertain whether he meant a particular D or W for a capital letter or not; and that those superfluous strokes / / /, the labour of an idle moment, would also be reproduced! Yet this has been done: not from a desire for a Chinese imitation; but from a conviction that if these minutia be attended to, it will be hardly possible that anything of the mind of the Text can be omitted in the Transcript.

All partially written Christian names have been expanded; as Ryc Jones has been printed Rychard Jones.

Buildings, Places, and Countries have usually had a Capital put for their first letter. whether in the Text or not. As 'Powles', and not 'powles'; 'Pultrye', and not 'pultrye'; 'Brabant', and not 'brabant'; 'Ffraunce', and not 'ffraunce'.

Names of persons generally, and in the Book Entries of authors real or fictitious, have been placed in Roman Small Capitals, as WILLIAM PAYNTER, THOMAS NORTON, THOMAS SACKVYLE.

Names of authors used to represent one or all of their works in Italic Capitals, as GILDAS, MARCVS TVLLIOVS CICERO, ALBERTVS MAGNVS, JVSTIN.

The titles of books, not being mere descriptions, have been printed in Italic type, &c. Names in the book-titles have been put in Italic Small Capitals—PLASADAS, APPELLES, SALMACES, &c.: but it has not been possible to do this in the annotations, as no such type exists in that size. Indeed it will be evident that all the other distinctions employed already strained the resources of typography very severely.

Lastly, Messrs Childs & Son have glorified the Transcript with the Black Letter headings: and still yielding to my further exactions, have furnished the following peculiar Italic letter wherewith to mark the autographs, as

Received by vs William Seres Wardens by me James Goneld

All these distinctions being at length arrived at: the 'copy' of the Registers was marked accordingly, a work of considerable time and trouble. The printed 'proof' of this was carefully corrected; and another, a 'final revise' in most cases sufficed to give satisfaction as to accuracy: but crotchetty sheets were often checked once or twice in addition to this.

The result is, that so far as human imperfection will permit, the Text—after the Corrigenda have been applied—may be accepted as correct.

All matter in square brackets [] has been supplied. This, as regards the Text, chiefly consists of dates, references, or modern names of places. As some copies of the Transcript will be preserved on the Continent, it has been thought that these matters cannot be made too simple; while knowing the common confusion of the old English legal style commencing 25th March, with the Julian style beginning on the 1st January, and also how easy it always is to mistake a year, dates have been inserted on every possible occasion.

It will be remembered that permission has not been granted by the Company for a complete Transcript; but only for—

- a. All entries relating to books.
- 3. All other entries relating to the careers of individual printers, binders, publishers, and other members of the Company.
- γ. The dinner-bills 1557—1560, with some other similar items; affording data towards the history of wages, prices of food, &c., in London.

The number of entries omitted has been noted as they occur.

ILLUSTRATIONS.

The original estimate for the Transcript proposed merely the bare Text. As stated in the Prospectus, "Notes are not contemplated—the Text being a sufficiently herculean task of itself—but some help will be afforded, as far as time may permit." Such fresh matter, it is evident, would entail both additional expense and great labour.

The superlative importance of the Work to the present and future Anglo-Saxon race has, however, spurred to extra efforts: so that—without materially retarding the issue—a large mass of illustrative matter has been or will be included in the Transcript; which, being both contemporary and authoritative, will be found to illumine the Text in a most remarkable manner. A list of the pièces justificatives in this Volume will be found at pp. ix—xii arranged in a chronological order, which it has not been possible to obtain in the Text.

Nothing has been so admitted that is not of an equal authority with the Text: so that it is hoped that the entire Transcript will constitute a great Collection of information of the highest possible value in reference to its period of the Literature of England.

With regard to the minor annotations, some relating to the Book Entries may be here noticed. Among the earlier of these are some relating to fugitive black-letter ballads and broadsides which are only now known to be extant in two of the chief modern private collections in England. They formed the 'famous Suffolk Collection' respecting which that best of living English authorities on Ballads, Mr W. Chappell, F.S.A., thus writes:—

It seems originally to have numbered from 175 to 200 ballads. The portion retained by Mr Daniel till his death was purchased at the auction of this library by Mr Henry Huth, and the other portion, which had passed from Mr Daniel's hands into those of Thorpe, the bookseller, was sold by Thorpe to Mr Herre. At Herre's auction it was purchased by the late Mr W. H. Miller of Britwell, and from him it descended to the present owner of Britwell, Mr S. Christie-Miller.—Introduction to Roxburghe Ballads; Ballad Society, 1871.

Mr John Payne Collier, F.S.A., the Nestor of all living Restorers of our Old Literature to modern thought, reprinted eighteen of Mr Heben's portion now at Britwell, in a collection of Old Ballade from Early Printed Copies. 1840, which was the opening volume of the Percy Society's issues. Mr Huth reprinted 79 of his ballads, &c., in 1867, under the title of Ancient Ballade and Broadsides for the 'Philobiblon Society', 50 copies only printed: while Mr Christie-Miller has more recently printed, in probably still fewer numbers, a thin "Alphabetical Liet of Black Letter Ballade and Broadsides known as the Heber Collection in the possession of S. Christie-Miller, Esq., Britwell, Bucks. London: 1872." The mere beholding of a copy of this superlatively rare List with its vellum and gold cover, is a 'sight for some eyes.'

These ballads being so early and so very rare, we have thought it very important to refer to such as we have been able to indicate, especially to those in the two privately-printed gift books: and in so doing we have had great pleasure in associating with this Transcript over the wide world and to all coming time, the names of these three English gentlemen; of whose liberality in fruitful suggestions or in the loan of rare and costly works for printing we have had personal experience, and who have been doing such a great and good work by the incessant vigilance of their search for the yet hidden treasures of our Golden Age.

One final request must here be made as this Volume passes into the hands of the Reader, viz: That its contents may be at once subjected to the severest possible scrutiny; so that any hitherto unapparent errors may be corrected in the final List of Corrigenda to be included in the last Volume.

[It must not be forgotten that the primary intention of this First Register was chiefly that it should be a permanent Record of the Wardens' annual Cash Accounts.

Registen

It is to be noted that this First Register is not actually lettered A, though it was so considered; the next Register being lettered B. The only external lettering, &c. is "wardens accounts" written on a small piece of paper and pasted at the top of the back of the volume.

It is suggested that the Reader should here banish from his mind all the later information contained in the Introduction, &c., and go back in his imagination to the year 1854 A.D.] [Only one of the entries on this page is of any authority or value; and that is the following, which is a memorandum apparently of anterior date to everything else in the Registers, and which has been cut out of some earlier book belonging to the Brother-hood and pasted on to this page.]

Receptes

[It is quite evident that the following entries were transcribed from an earlier Account kept by the Brotherhood, into this new Cash Account Book of the Company; the paper of which was given by Henry Cooke, and the binding (which still encases it) paid for by Thomas Duxwell, see p. 62: which new and formal Register was evidently occasioned by the greater importance that came to be attached to the Wardens' office. The entries are mainly in chronological order; and are of singular interest, as being apparently the only surviving records of the Brotherhood, prior to its royal incorporation on 4th May 1556.]

Item Recevyd of John aldaye for his breakefaste and his benevolence to the half

[From this it would seem that it was customary for each Apprentice, as he took up his freedom, to give a breakfast to the Brotherhood, probably then not a very large body; and that this was afterwards compounded for, by the payment of a Half-Noble; see next page.

The above and the next five entries evidently relate to between the 8th January and the 5th February 1556. Alday, therefore, was made free in January of that year.]

Robert Toy was therefore most probably buried on the 12th February 1556. This entry was subsequently inserted at the bottom of this page, having been omitted in its proper place near the top; as is proved by the difference in the ink, and by the entries of freedoms otherwise following on regularly from 19th August to 1st October 1556 (see top of next page). See also p. 39, where Mistress (i. e. the widow of Robert) Toy presents G. Besshoppe as an apprentice on 13th October 1556.]

Recevyd of the olde Collectors master wallye and master smythe for quartereges Rerygis [i.e. arrearages] and Rentes xxxviji xxd [The quarterage was the quarterly payment of a great or fourpence from every member of the Company. It was paid auterior to the Incorporation of 1856 (which seems rather to have confirmed existing customs and added new glory to the Fellowship, than to have initiated any fresh powers), as appears by the case of Anthony Clerke, see p. 159. The quarterage is still paid by members of the Company.]

A collection to be gathered of the companye by the com= mandement of the lorde the majour and the Estimate of albermen for the house of browevell.

[Stow says, 'In this moneth of Februarie [1556, 3 Mary], the lord major of London and the aldermon entred into Bridewell, and took possession thereof, according to the gift of King Edward, now confirmed by Queene Mary.' As this assessment of contributions excludes Berthelet's name, who died in January, and includes Mistress, the widow of R. Toy who died in February 1556, its probable date is the Spring of that year. It is very interesting, as including the names of most of the Brotherhood at that date. Being a compulsory contribution, the several amounts indicate the relative wealth, at that time, of the different members. J. Awdelay, who was then a simple apprentice and had not yet taken up his freedom, paid Fourpence. His contribution may therefore be taken as a minimum standard. See p. 54 for the amount actually paid.]

[If hy 'assentans' we are to understand 'assistants', it is but another proof that the Incorporation altered nothing in the internal organization of the Brotherhood; but that there previously existed, of almost immemorial usage, at least two Wardens, and a Court of senior members, 'ancients,' or 'assistants'; in whom the management of the Association was vested.]

as followeth that us to save

[From the purchase of cherries, it is evident that this feast was held in about June, apparently in 1557. The next List of Expenses on p. 60 relates to 13th July, 1557. This dinner was probably held on the occasion of the first annual election of a new Master and Wardens. In respect to the following prices, and those of subsequent dinner bills, it should be remembered that they would naturally be for articles of the very best quality.]

[This being the First year of Queen Elizabeth's reign, it may be advantageous to insert here an undated document, apparently written about August 1577, which enumerates the various printing monopolies granted by the Queen from her accession ouward. [Cheistopher Barker's Report in December 1582, on the Printing Patents of 1558-1582.

Among the Burghley papers in the British Museum there is also the following masterly summary by Christopher Barker—the Upper Warden for that year—of the printing patents granted by Queen Elizabeth down to the date thereof, December 1682. It is hardly possible to exaggerate the importance and authority of this graphic History of English Printing during the twenty-four years which had then elapsed since Elizabeth's accession. It is not only a numeration, but a valuation of the several printing patents; and gives us an insight into many transactions and circumstances; of which otherwise we should have been totally ignorant. As it will so materially help us in a right estimate of the next following years: it is here reprinted out of its proper date.

STRYPE has thus summed up the Controversy of which this representation is a part:—
"Seres had a privilege for the printing of all psatters, all manner of primers, English and Latin, and all

"Seres had a privilege for the printing of all psalters, all manner of primers, English and Latin, and all manner of prayer books; that as this privilege was taken away by Queen English and Latin, and all manner of prayer books; that as this privilege was taken away by Queen English and to his son during the life of the longest liver, and that this gave occasion to a great case.

For Seres, the father, in his latter years not being well able to follow his business, assigned his privilege, with all his presses, letters, stocks, and copies to one Henry Denham, for a yearly rent. Denham took seven young men of the Company of Stationers to join him in the same; but certain inferior persons of the Company, setting up presses, more than England might bear, did print other mens copies forbidden to them, and priviledged to others by the Queen's Letter Patonts. Those endeavoured for their own gain to have the privilege taken away, preferring a petition to the Privy Council, wherein they pretended that in justice it stood with the best policy of the realm, that the printing of all good and useful books should be at the liberty for every man to do, without granting or allowing any privilege by the Prince to the justice it stood with the best policy of the realin, that the printing of all good and useful books should be at the liberty for every man to do, without granting or allowing any privilege by the Prince to the contrary. And they said it was against law, and that the Queen ought not to grant any such.

Seres upon this, in a petition to the Lord-Treasurer, urged against these men, that Privilege for special books was ever granted by the Prince; for that for the most part in all ancient books we read these words, cum privilegic ad imprimendum solum; and that many records might be found of the same, whereby it appeared that the Prince or Magistrate had ever care to commit the printing of all good books, especially of the best sort, to some special men well known and tried for their fidelity, skill, and ability. Examples whereof might be shewed as well in England as [in] other christian countries. And that the reason hereof was that printing of itself was most degreener and permissions if it was not straited and restrained whereof might be shewed as well in England as [in] other christian countries. And that the reason hereof was that printing of itself was most dangerous and pernicious, if it were not straitned and restrained by politic order of the Prince or Magistrate.

The affair at last was made up by a friendly agreement. The expedient was this, that those who had privileges were to grant some allowances unto the Company of Stationers for the maintenance of their charge and their poor. This was about the year 1533." Quoted in Herbert's 'Typ. Ant.,' p. 688, Ed. 1786. Allowance must be made in reading the following for a natural amount of self-interest. Barker—who had attacked patents when he was not a patentee, see his name at p. 111—does not dary the profitableness of the Queen's Printership as a whols: but shaply points out his own drawbacks; in considering which it should be recollected that the Fatenta of Beres and Day were both anterior to his own. With this much of deduction we think that his representation entitled to the highest credit. It is pleasant also to note the inauliness and straightforwardness of it: while any one who has had much to do with publishing books, will readily aympathize with the writer's anxieties.

It may be well to point out that the word 'letter' occurring in it is used technically in the sense of 'type,'

A note of the state of the Company of Printers, Bookesellers, and Bookebunders comprehended buder the name of Stacioners, with a valuation also of all the licttires patentes concerning printing.

In the tyme of king Henry the eighte, there were but fewe Printers, and those of good credit and compotent wealth, at whiche tyme and before, there was an other sort of men, that were writers, Lynners of bookes and dyverse thinges for the Church and other vese called Stacioners; which have, and partly to this daye do vse to buy their bookes in grosse of the saide printers, to bynde them vp, and sell them in their shops, whereby they well mayntayned their families.

In King Edward the sixt his Dayes, Printors, and printing bogan greatly to increase: but the provision of letter, and many other thinges belonging to printing, was so exceeding chargeable, that most of those printers were Dryven throughe necessitie, to compound before[hand] with the bookesellers at so lowe value, as the printers themselves were most tymes small gayners, and often loosers /

In the tyme of Qiueen]. Marie the Company procured a Charter for the establishing of a corporation; in the which the Queene gyveth aucthoritie to all Stacioners, and none other, to print all laufull bookes, excepting suche as had ben before grannted, or should by special licence be after granuted to any person.

excepting suche as had ben before graunted, or should by special licence be after graunted to any person. Therein lacked this word Printers-Stacioners, so that printing is free, to bookesellers, bookesinders, Joyners, Chaundlers and all other being firemen of the said corporation vader the name of Stacioners, whether they be Masters or Journemen

This Charter was ratified and confirmed by our soueraigne Lady the Queenes Maiestie that nowe is, so that the Bookesellers being growen the greater and wealthier nomber haue nowe many of the best Copies and keepe no printing howse, neither bears any charge of letter, or other furniture but onlie paye for the workmanship, and haue the benefit, both of the imprinting, and the sale of all Commentaries of the Scriptures, and (till of late yeres of all Schoole bookes, Dictionaries, Cronicles Histories) bookes of Phissich, and include the property of the sale of the control of the sale and infinite others; most whereof are generally free to all: so that the artificer printer, growing every Daye more and more vnable to provide letter and other furniture, requisite for the execution of any good

ICHRISTOPHER BARRER'S REPORT IN DECEMBER 1592, ON THE PRINTING PATENTS OF 1889-1882.1 worke; or to gave mayntengunco to any suche learned Correctours as are behouefull, will in tyme be an occasion of great discredit to the professours of the arte, and in myne coinion prejudiciall to the comon wealth.

These consideracons have enforced printers to procure grauntes from her Maiestie of some certayne Copies, for the better mayotenance of furniture, Correctours, and other workmen, who cannot suddaynely be provided, nor suddenlye put awaye: and if they should must of necessitie, either wantt necessarie lyving, or print bookes, pamphlettes, and other trifles, more daungerous then profitable.

I speake not this (thoughe it be very true) as wishing any restraynt to Bookesellers, or Bookebinders, but that they may print, and have printed for them such good bookes, as they can orderly procure: for even some of them, though their skill be little or nothing in the execution of the art, have more indgement to governe, and order matters of printing, then some Printers themselves: But vnlesse some fewe printers be well mayntayned, it will bring both the one and the other to confusion and extreme povertye /

Item a note of the offices, and other speciall licences for printing, graunted by her maiestie to dinerse persons; with a confecture of the valuation /

ffirst her maiesties Printer for the Latin tongue, hath among other thinges the Grammar, and accidens first her malesties Printer for the Latin tongue, hath among other thinges the Grammar, and accident for the instruction of youth: which being but a small booke, and occupied by children, is greatlie spent; and therefore the most profitable Copie in the Realme for the quantitie which is yet so muche the more gaynefull, for that the Printer with some greater charge at the first for furniture of letter, hath the most part of it alway ready set: otherwise it would not yeeld the annewitie which is paide therefore: And I have heard those five men saye that occupie the same, that they would willingly geve two, or three hundred pound, to be rid thereof. But if any intrusion shoulde be made, by compling and publishing any other but the same, (as it happeneth often in other cases) they should suffer extreame losse, or els master procure must losse his annewity.

Christofer Barker.

Myne owne office of her Maiesties Printer of the English tongue gyven to Master Wilkes, is abbridged of the cheefest comodities belonging to the office, as shall hereafter appears in the Patentes of Master Seres and Master Days: but as it is I have the printing of the olde and news testament, the statutes of the Realms, Proclamations and the books of common prayer by name, and in generall words, all matters for the Churche.

The benefit of the booke of common prayer is very small, by reason of Master Seres his patent as will appeare in the same

The Statutes of the Realme wholy as they were enacted in the Parliament, are alreadye printed by dyvers [of] my predicessours in so great nombers, that there need be no more printed these twentye yeres or more : so that when her Maiestie is to be served of them in any her highnes Courtes or otherwise, I am dryven to buy them of other.

The abridgement of the Statutes (by reason of a contract, made by master Jugge vnto master Tottle) I am awarded by the Company to have but half the benefitt During his lief, though they be printed in my name only.

Proclamations come on the suddayne, and must be returned printed in hast: wherefore by breaking of greater worke I loose oftentymes more by one Proclamacon, then I gayne by sixe, before my servantes can comme in trayne of their worke agayne, and in many yeres there hapeneth not a proclamation of any benefit at all,

The Paraphrasis of Erishus upon the Epistles and Gospelles with the booke of Hamilies, I offer to as many as will print them, geving me good assuraunce for the true imprinting thereof that I may be blamelesse.

Testamentes alone are not greatly commodious, by reason the prices are so small, as will scarcely beare

the charges

The whole bible together requireth so great a somme of money to be employed, in the imprinting thereof; as Master Jugge kept the Realme twelve yere withoute, before he Durst adventure to print one impression: but I, considering the great somme I paide to Master Wilkes, Did (as some have termed it since) give a Desperate adventure to imprint fower sundry impressions for all ages, wherein I employed to the value of three thowsande pounds in the terms of one yere and an halfe, or thereaboute: in which tyme if I had died, my wife and children had ben viterlie vindone, and many of my frendes greatlie hindered by disbursing round sommes of money for me, by sucrtiship and other meanes: as my late good master Master Secretary [Sir T. Wilson] for one: so that nowe this gappe being stopped, I have little or nothing to doe, but adventure a needlesse charge; to keepe many Journemen in werke, most of them seruantes to my predicessours /

Master Daye /

In the priviledge, or private licence grainted to Master Days, are among other thinges the Psalmes in meeter, with notes to singe them in the Churches aswell in foure partes, as in playne songe, which being a parcell of the Church service, properly belongeth to me. This booke being occupied of all sortes of men women and children, and requiring no great stock for the furnyshing thereof, is therefore gaynefull /

The small Catechisme alone, taught to all lyttle children of this Realme is taken oute of the booke of common prayer, and belongeth to me also which master Jugge solde to Master Daye, and is likewise included in this patent procured by the right honorable the Earle of Leicester, and therefore for Duties sake I hold my self content therewith This is also a profitable Copie for that it is generall / and not greatly a charge the content therewith the charge the c greatlie chargeable /

Master Seres

Master Seres hath the Psalter of Davio, the primer for little children, with the same Catechisme, and all books of private prayer whatsoever in latin and Englysh: he also encrocheth farther to take oute of the books of common prayer, the morning and Evening prayer, with the Collectes, the Letany and other thinges, framing as it were a booke of common prayer to himself.

This Psalter is likewise a part of the Church service, belonging to me, and as aucthorised by Parliament

as the books of common prayer. |

The primer for children likewise consisteth of the Catechisms and certayne select Psalmes of DAVIDE. How I am hindred by this Psalter, it happeneth thus, that where I sell one books of common prayer, which few or none Do buye except the minister, he [i. e. Seres] furnysheth ye whole parishes throughoute the Realme, which are comonly an hundred for one [of mine].

This patent being procured by your honour to that vertuous honest man your Lordships late servant William Seres the elder, and his some, I ever did, and Do willingly holde my self content, for reverend Dutie to your honour: yet your Lordship may perceave, that in these two patentes lieth the greatest commoditie of my office.

Towching the generalitie of all books of pryvate prayers graunted to the said Seres, they are in trueth of no suche value as they seeme: but rather Do kepe back the infinite number of vnfrutefull prayer of no suche value as they seeme: but rather Do kepe back the infinite nomber of vnfrutefull prayer bookes, which vnskilfull persons do contynually offer to make:

And these wrangling persons that so contemptuouslye Disobey her Maiestics grauntes and commandementes / Do not offer to printt any prayers included in the generall wordes, but the Psatter with the morning prayer, and the primer with the Cathechisme atcresside and other bookes what like them best of all mens printleges and so arrogate to them selves a priviledge of printledges: yea they get into their handes, by what meanes they care not, great quantitie of paper for that purpose, printing them most falsely, and selling so cheape *: as if they had bin men of reasonable wealth before, they must nedes be viterlie vndone, and vndoe the Patentees also; and by their great Disorder, turne the whole Companye to losse and hinderanuce in their occupying, among whome one [i. e. Roger Ward] Doth alreadye pretend at the least to be a prysoner of Ludgate, to defraude men of their right, and to avoide his Due desertes, and yet contynueth printing by his servantes, and such evell Disposed persons as will work with hym: an other lieth in prison by your honours commandement of her Maiesties pryvie Counsell, and Doth the like: who (no Doubt) will in the ende exclayme saying they are vndone by priviledged mon, whereas the who (no Doubt) will in the ende exclayme saying they are vadone by prulledged mon, whereas the contrarye is manifest to your honour.

This Patent is [now] executed by Henry Denham.

Master Tottle

The patent [for books] of the Common Lawe hath ben very beneficiall, and hath had a tyme, the circomstaunces how, are to long to troble your honour with: but nowe it is of much lesse value then before, and is like yet to be rather worse then better, except a man should with exceeding charge take another course therein, then hetherto hath ben observed : and as these dayes requier.

master Bynneman

In this patent is conteyned all Dictionaries in all tongues, all Chronicles and histories whatsoever. This generality carieth a great shewe, and in doed to be executed with commendation doth requirer a stock This generality carieth a great showe, and in doed to be executed with commendation doth requyer a stock of ten thowsand pounds at the least: But if the printer should print many of the said volumes, he must needes stande betwixt two extremes, that is, if he print competent nombers of each to mayntayne his charges, all England Scotland and much more, were not able to vtter [dispose of] them; and if he should print but a few of each volume, the prices should be exceeding greate, and he in more Daunger to be vidence, then likely to gayne, the provision of varietie of letter and other thinges, would be so chargeable: ffor even my poore printing howeve which is but onlye for the Englishe, and som Hebrew, Greeke and Latin letter if any suche work happen, hath cost me with in these few yeres twolue hundred pound. Wherefore this Patent in my mynde maye be more Daungerous to the Patentee; then profitable: for if any intrusion should happen to be made uppon him, he were easely undone, and never able to recover it: and if I shoulde have my choyse of it and the least that is already graunted to any of our Company, I would chuse the lesse: yea even these bad men that pretend to be hindered greathe by this generality would print few or none of these if they might. Notwithstanding the generalitie of this patent and Seres his also (the honour of her Maiesties grauntes reserved) is offred to be qualified at the Discretion of the auncientes of the Companye! auncientes of the Companye /

[CHRISTOPHER BARKER'S REPORT IN DECEMBER 1582, ON THE PRINTING PATENTS OF 1558-1582.] man do therein; but in myne opinion he that hath it is the vnfittest man in England, in deed neither profiting himself, nor the realme /

R[ichard] watkins

This patent conteyneth all Almanackes and Prognostications, which by reason a few persons and a small stock will suffice to the execution thereof, is a pretty commoditie toward an honest mans lyving.

Master Birds and Master Tallis of her Maiesties Chappell

In this patent are included all musicke bookes whatsoever, and the printing of all ruled paper, for the pricking of any songes to the lute, virginals or other instrumentes: The paper is somewhat beneficiall, as for the musick bookes, I would not provide necessarie furniture to have them. This patent is executed by Henry Binneman also. /

THOMAS VAUTROVILLERE

Hath the printing of TULLIE, OVID, and diverse other great workes in Latin. He doth yet, neither great good, nor great harme withall. This patent if it were fully executed, it were verie doubtfull, whether the Printer should be a gayner, or a looser: He hath other small thinges wherewith he keepeth his presses on work, and also worketh for bookesellers of the Company, who kepe no presses.

Thus (right honorable and my very good Lord) I have gone through all her Maiesties grauntes concerning printing, and have faythfully yelded myne opinion, even as I would be credited to your honour; which I ought not a little to esteeme: and I protest before God, that if I could see how it might honour; which I ought not a little to esteeme: and I protest before God, that if I could see how it might tends to the honour of this Realme, or to the credit of the professours of that science, or might be any way beneficiall to the common wealth, that priviledges were dissolved, I would yeeld myne opinion so: but I haue alwayes wished that more power might be geven, yea and strict commandement also, to the Master, the wardens and assistantes of the Stacioners, to oversee and correct the negligence, aswell of printers priviledged, as not priviledged; who by false printing, evell paper, evell workemanship and such like faultes, abuse her Maiesties subjectes, and procure the infamye of Barbarisme to the whole companye / There are 22. printing howses in London, where, 8, or 10, at the most would suffise for all England, yea and Scotland too, but if no man were allowed to be a Master Printer, but such whose behaviour were well knowne, and auctorised by warrant from her Maiestie, the arte would be most excellently executed in England, and many frivolous and vnfruitfull Copies kepte back, which are dayly thrust oute in prynt, greatly corrupting the youth, and prejudiciall to the Comon wealth manye wayes / There hath ben some negligence heretofore partile growen by the disordered behaviour of Journemen,

There hath ben some negligence heretofore parties growen by the disordered behaviour of Journemen, that men haue taken to themselves too many apprentizes, whereby the multitude hath greatlie increased, for the arte, of necessitie requireth the help of many persons, and therefore there must nedes be Journemen, of whome the number is nowe aboute threescore, who Do both knowe and confesse that if priviledges were Disolved they were vtterlie vndone, having no other qualitie to get their lyving, whereas Bookesellers, bookebynders and makers of writing tables all which are of ourc Companye, have dyvers other meanes to lyve. But we have taken order for this, so that any man not being of the lyvery can hereafter have but one apprentize, being of the lyvery but twoe, and having been master or vpperwarden but three at the most, except the Queenes Printer who is lymitted as the occasion of her highnes service shall requier: so

These persons (my lord) that are the cause of troubling your honour so oft (of whose behaviour I am loath to speake, but that this occasion enforceth me therevato) are for the most part idle, vadiscrete, and vathriftis persons, pretending suche skill in lawe, as to Discourse what the Prince by her highnes kingly office may Doe, what other magistrates ought to doe, and in the meane tyme forgett their owne Dutie of which company being five in nomber, one John wolfn now prysoner in the Clinck is the cheif, who after many loose pointes of behaviour, obtayned his freedome of the ffishmongers, by what meanes I know not; after which he sued for a printledge which was thought vnreasonable by some serving her Maiestic which when he coulde not obtayne, began of his owne aucthoritie to print of all mens printledges what liked him best: but being somewhat gaynesaid therein, fell to impugning and deniyng her highnes whole grauntes and for mayntenance of his insolent attempte gathered dinerse Conventicles in his howse, in Churches, and other places, seducing and perswading as manye as he could allure, to contemne her majesties said grauntes: yea incensed the whole Citie, saying their auncient liberties were thereby infringed. And one firanck Adams and william Lobley of great Counsell with hym, made collections of money among poore men, to retayne Lawyers to furder their purpose, promising ten for one, if they money among poore men, to retayne Lawyers to furder their purpose, promising ten for one, if they had not good successe.

Vito worker yet still, being in pryson, (as I heare saye) there is contynuall accesse by some of the saide parties, and also by one sometyme a Scrivener, pretending skill in Lawe; who doth much seduce these indiscrete fellowes to spend their money, and aggranate the trouble. Of whome, some when they are charitably demanded what they should gayne, if all were in common, and made havock for one man to vindoe another? they aunswere, we should make them beggers like to our selves: meaning those that have Patentes. By their aunsere your honour maye perceyve what they be, and by your wisedome remeadye the outerage.

It Doth not becomine me to offer vinto your honour a meane of redresse: but if it please your Lordship to commaund me that service, I will most willingly set downe my simple opinion for your Honour to consider of. Whome I beseech the Lord to his pleasure long to preserve / Landowne MS. No. 48, pp. 189-194.]

Anthonye Clerke Received of for his fyne and quart[e]rages which he was behynde for xvi veres the vi of mave [1561]

[This is a most significant entry, inasmuch as it shows that quarterage [i.e. a great (4d.) a quarter] was paid in 1545, 36 Henry VIII.; and is incontestable proof that the Brotherhood existed at that time, to say the very least: and also that its Organization then was virtually the same as after the Company had been incorporated.

The quarterage for 16 years would be 21s. 4d., but A. Clerke was let off with the

[The Livery was revived on the 30th June 1560, see p. 138: but these were the first who were subsequently admitted into it. The fee for admittance into the Livery has gradually increased in amount from this 15s, to its present one of £51 3s, 0d. The feast day was usually the Sunday after St Peter's day (29th June), see p. 164; which in 1561 fell on a Sunday: and therefore this feast was probably held on the following Sunday, the 6th July 1561; which would be the date of these promotions in the Company.]

[Stow says of the early summer of 1561:—

"This years was such a scarcity of wheat and other grains, that sir William Chester major of London, and other the principal magistrates of the city, were forced to make provision for wheat and rie from beyond the seas, to a great quantity, which was a releefe, not only to the citizens, but also to the counties neare adioyning." p. 1095, Ed. 1600.

It would therefore seem, (1) that the Lord Mayor contracted a general loan for the City, and required subscriptions to pay the interest of the same; the loan itself being repaid as the corn was sold: (2) that the capital so allotted to be provided for by the Stationers' Company was £40 [= £400 or £500 at the present dayl, requiring £5 interest (which, if for one year, would be 12½ per cent.; or if for 15 months, 10 per cent.); and, lastly, (3) that the generosity of the Company exceeded the demand, £2 more being raised than was required.]

[Special attention is called to the testimony of these Apprentice-Entries, in respect 1. To the flow of the country population to London; so much complained of in those days, as leading to the decay of the smaller towns and villages: and 2. To the most excellent charity of the Company, in thus providing an honourable livelihood for so many orphans and fatherless children of those who were not in any direct way connected with this London guild: which was, to a large extent, most effectually doing in its way, what is now attempted by the many orphan asylums.

It is also pleasant to imagine the wondering journey of such a youngster from his native village or hamlet, to the great City; and its—for him—astounding higher and more rapid life; and how, as timidity lessened, and strength and knowledge increased; he would grow up into the active Apprentice, the skilled Workman, and ultimately, in many cases, the Master-Founder, the Master-Printer, or Master-Binder.]

After this mischaunce Edmond Randoll was appointed knight Marshall." p. 1108, Ed. 1600.]

	[The publications of the following six or nine months—both as to tone and subject—must be associated with the plague imported from Håvre, which was then raging in London and the outlying parishes; in which, Srow states, 20,136 persons died in the course of the year 1563. The following notes by him will help us to understand the position of affairs. Forasmuch as the plague of pestilence was so hot in the citie of London, there was no Terme kept at Michaelmasse: to be short, the poore Citizens of London, were this yeere plagued with a three-fold plague, pestilence, scarcitic of money, and dearth of victuals: the miserie whereof were too long heere to write, no doubt the poore remember it, the rich by flight in the countries made shift for themselues. p. 1,112, Ed. 1600. For that the plague was not fully ceased in London, Hillarie Terme [24 January—12 February 1564] was kept at Hertford castell besides Ware. p. 1,113, idem. (Richard Tottle's Account (about 1585) of why English Books were PRINTED ON FRENCH PAPER.

The following application is in State Papers. Don. Bliz. Vol. 185, No. 69, p. 156, in the Public Record Office of London. It is simply endorsed 'Blohard Tottyll making of vapier,' and has no date, but is attributed to the year 1986. It is evidently addressed to Lord Burghley. As it throws much light on the paper supply of previous years; it is inserted here. If 1685 be the date of the composition of this letter. Tottle and his friends must have commenced their scheme for an English paper mill about 1573; and therefore the two or three previous attempts were considerably before that year. Consequently the action of the French manufacturers may be roughly assigned to about the year 1564 and onwards. Tottle's application does not appear to have been successful.

T is almost twelve yeres past (right honorable and my verie good Lorde) sithens I and some other of my companye [i. c. of the Stationers'], seinge the want and dearth of good paper in this Realme, and also the disceite that is used Dailye in makinge therof / Did fullie agree to bestowe some labour and cost for the ereccion of a paper Mill heare in this lande / In the means tyme it hathe so fallen out, that my companions in this travaile, have thought good to surcefalsse and not goe forwardes therin alledginge that it hathe twise or thrise bene begonne before this present, but it coulde never take good effects, and that they feared and thought verific it wolde so fall out in this our attempte / But I was and yet am of a contrarve mynde and thinke that the evell successe of other mens former doinges wolde give vs occasyon to looke the more dilligentlye to oures, and laye a surer foundacon then they did, and so to builde a more perfecte worke, ffor nowe knowinge that the Ffrenchemen did by all meanes possible labour to distroye theire worke begonne, and were ever castinge blockes in the waie for the overthrowe therof, as by procuringe all our ragges (beinge the chief substance that paper is made of) to be brought over to them, by bringinge in greate aboundaunce of paper at that tyme and sellinge it (although to losse) better chepe then they were hable to doe, therby to bringe the doers therof in this Realme out of credit, and so to beggerye, and lastlye by practisinge the destruction of the workmen / and by writings and callings them Travtours to theire Contrey, and sendings men of purpose to slaye them, as it hathe byn credeably declared vnto me / wee maie I saie (beinge taught by their harmes) foresee thies thinges, and very well provide remedye for all other myschiefes whiche they either sawe not or coulde not redresse /

I therfore right honorable, contynuynge in my former mynde, and desirous to finishe this worke, Have thought good most humblie to praie your Honour to be a patron herof / and that it will please your Lordeship of your accustomed favour and good will ever borne to the well willers of the common weith. favorablye to further this my attempt, so that I maye not onlye have your Lordships good furtherance in the provison of a convenyent plott for the ereccion of this Mill, But also that a proviso maye be hadde, that hereafter no ragges may be transported out of the Realme And lastlie yat in consideracon of my travaile and charge, I onlie maye have privilege for xxxj' yeres to vse makinge of paper withto this Realme / So shall I be encouraged to venter some parte of my substaunce in the perfeccion of that worke, Hopinge well that I (the rather through your Lordships furtheraunce) in fewe yeres, shall make Englands hable not onlie sufficientlye to serve it selfe, but also Iriellande and Scotlande with good and substaunciall paper, to the greate profitt and commoditye of this my natyve countrey / whiche thinge chefelye hathe moved me to travaile herin.

Humblie besechinge your honorable Lordships furthersunce in this my sute, wherby I trust the Common welth shall receave commoditye, and I shalbe bounde duringe life to praye for your honorable Lordships most prosperous estate in honour longe to contynue.

(The Bishop of London's search for, and list of printing presses in London in May 1583.

[Though it is another insertion in advance of its date, the following will be found very useful. State Papers. Dom. Eliz. Vol. 161 (Nos. 1—3) in the Public Record Office of London, consists of the following letter and its enclosures. It is endorsed '1 Jun. 1583. The Bishop of London touching ye erecting of printing in Cambridg.' The printed 'prophane and blasphemous toy' referred to, has not however been preserved with these papers.

t male please your good Lordship Where of late there hathe bene directed to me and others a Comission by lettlres from your Lordship and the reste of the moste honourable Counsell, willings amounge other thinges that good and carefull orders shoulde be decised and taken for restrayninge the excessive number of printinge presses to be erected, and that suche as were suffred shoulde be bounde to good vsage for avoidinge of manyfold daungers, beside that the Diligent regard to this perill parteigneth to me in this place where printings is chiefelie vsed as Ordinarye [i. e. as Reclesiastical Judge of the dioces of London], and alsoe by vertue of the hie Commission ecclesiastical / I did my endevor to performe what in this case was requisite for satisfienge my charge and your expectacons. Hearinge therefore yat of late there were presses sette vppe in secret Corners and a purpose to sett vppe other presses in places remote from the citie, and from The ordinarie serche of the wardens and personnes skilfull and of the officers attendinge the Comission before whome their matters Commonlie be disclosed, and the rather because I was enformed that printinge of laufull bookes and suche as be not otherwise appointed by hir Maiesties grauntes is not matter sufficient to maineteigne anye man withoute his losse in other place, whereby the intention to sett vppe suche presses was suspicious and thoughte to be procured by the worst disposed of that Arte in this Citie and the greatest Contemners of aucthoritie, which suspicon was the more encreased because I was also eenformed that the Master of suche presses was never broughte vppe nor anye waye skilfull himself in that feate, I gaue warraunt to the wardens of the Stacioners to make serche and to staic sucho presses and printinge stuffe till such a time as order might be taken for the well vsinge thereof accordinge to your Lordships Directors /

By meanes of that warraunt there were found sundrie presses and furniture for printinge in By meanes of that warraunt there were found sindrie presses and furniture for printinge in secrete corners and Darke cellers, and those vsed in printinge thinges forbidden to them to prynte. There was also found one presse and furniture which is saide to belonge to one Thomas a man (as I heare) viterlie ignoraunte in printinge, and pretendinge that he entendeth to be the printer for the vniuersitie of Cambrige. This was stayed amonge the rest till order [be] taken. Herevppon master D[octor]. Bell vicechauncellor of the vniuersitie hath written to me requiring the same to be releassed, and sente me a Copie of your Lordships I[ett]re in allowaunce of the vniuersitie to sette vppe printings, And a Copie of their princledge to that effecte in and vnder which your Lordships I[ett]res I finde verye homorable provission for Cautions and Assurance that the same be well vsed, bothe for laufull matters and for good workmanship, which matter of warkemanship main seems hard to be perfourmed of the man workmanship, which matter of workemanship maie seeme hard to be perfourmed yf the man himself be not skilfull, and the mater of good vsage male be feared yf yt be executed by servanntes from hence, of the worste qualitie, and speciallie when laufull vsage will not mainteigne his livings. Nows yt is not my meanings nor of anye that I knows to contende againste the vniuersities priueledge, but for the causes aforesaid I made state and yett doe till I vinderstand your pleasure for good Assuraunce to be had bothe of that prynter and his mynisters for good and laufull veage and workemanshippe of that presse, and speciallic for matters perillous to religion and state, and for Copies parteigninge to others by hir maiesties grauntes and laufull aucthoritie without which provision I think yt mighte be perillous to permitte him, speciallie because yt is farre from ordinarie serche and beinge executed by suspicious persons, And because there is taken and intended to be taken carefull order for the like in this Citie.

This I thoughte meete to informe your Lordship that vppon youre pleasure knowen I mais bothe Doe as your Lordship shall finde meete in a matter of soe greate consequence as publishinge thinges in prynte and Contempte of his Maiesties prerogatyve, And I maie reasonable answere master vicechauncellour to his good likinge and my louing regard to the vniuersitie and avoidinge of perills Soe I leave to trouble your Lordship. at Haddenham, this firste of June 1583

[The following document is apparently the earnest printed mass against Company.

A printed copy of the ensuing Star Chamber Decree forms Broadside No. 57 in the Library of the Society of Antiquaries of London. The decree is dated 29th June 1866; but there is no printer's name or date of printing upon the broadside; which—judging from its being in white or modern, and not in black letter—may have been printed at a later period than the date of it. Be that as it may; the Decree itself would come into force from its date; and was undoubtedly the origin of that Search conducted by T. Purfoot and Hugh Singleton described at pp. 346—348; which leading to numerous fines, rebounded so heavily on Purfoot, through the raking up against him of an old-fine of £6 18s. 4d. [= £60 to £70 now] decreed in 1886 for selling Primers [1. e. Prayer Books] to the Haberdashers.

2. That whoseeuer shall offend against the said ordinance, shall not onelie forfait all such Bookes and Copies, as shall be so printed or brought in ; but also shall from thencefoorth neuer vse or exercise, nor take benefit by anie vsing or exercising of the feate of printing, and shall susteine three moneths imprisonment, without baile or mainprise. And if he be not before such offence bound with sureties, in forme hereafter expressed, then he shall also forfait for everie offence. x.li.

3. That no person shall sell, wtter, put to sale, bind, stitch, or sowe, anie such Bookes or Copies, so printed or brought in, contrarie to the said ordinance, vpon paine to forfait all such Bookes and Copies, and for every Booke, xx.s.

4. That all Bookes to be so forfaited, shall be brought into the Stationers hall in London, and there the one moitie of all such forfaitures of monie shall be reserved to the Queenes Malesties vse, and the other moitie shall be delivered to him or them that shall first seize the same Bookes or Copies, or make complaint theref to the Wardens of the said Companie. And all the Bookes so to be forfaited, shal be destroied or made waste paper, by the discretion of the said Wardens.

5. That it shall be lawfull for the Wardens of the said Companie for the time being, or anie two of the said Companie, thereto deputed by the said Wardens, as well in anie ports, as other suspected places within this Realme, to open and view all packs, drifats, maunds, and other things, wherein Bookes or Paper shall be conteined, brought into this Realme: and also to make search in all workshouses, shops, warehouses, and other places, of Printers, Bookesellers, or such as bring Bookes into this Realme to be sold, or where they shall have reasonable cause of suspicion: and all the said Bookes to be found against the said ordinance, to seise and carrie to the said Hali, to the vses abouesaid, and the parties therein offending, to lead and present before the Queenes Maiesties hie Commissioners in causes Ecclesiasticall.

6. That eueric Printer, Stationer, Bookeseller, Merchant, and other person, vsing aute trade of Bookes, printing, binding, seiling, or bringing into this Realme, shall before the said Commissioners, or before anic other persons therevato to be assigned by the Queenes Maiesties most honourable privie Councell, enter into scuerall recognisances of reasonable summes of monie to her Maiestles vse, with sureties or without, as to the said Commissioners shall be thought expedient; that he shall trulic observe all the said ordinances, well and trulic yeeld and paic all such forfaitures, and in no point be resisting, but in all things aiding to the said Wardens and their deputies, for the true execution of the premisses.

The 'Book of Copies'—unhappily now lost—was the original Register of Books kept by the Company at this time; from which it would seem that only such entries were ordinarily transferred to this Register as had reference to fees paid to the Company. [Having, at this point, met with the following important Memorandum in the Public Record Office (State Papers, Dom. Eliz., Vol. 15, No. 37), we insert it here. It is evidently a summary of 'our boke,' for the penning of which Master Farsett was paid xx' at p. 106. See also p. 164. The document is undated, but was undoubtedly written in 1 Eliz.; for it craves the confirmation of the Company's Charter, which, as we know, was effected on the 10th November 1669, see p. 134.

How far this Memorandum recapitulates existing facts and customs, or how far it seeks for the obtaining of fresh powers, must be settled by other evidence.

[The search for, and a list of John Stowe's unlawful English books on 21st February 1569.

Of the circumstances occasioning this search of the Study of our celebrated Annalist, we can get a glimpec in the Proclamation issued by the Queen on the 1st March 1569 (i.e. eight days after this Inventory was made); which we have reprinted at p. 430. We have added, so passent, a few bibliographical particulars to the information given by the Bishop's chaptain; not, however, from the actual inspection of copies as we trust to do for the Apachtiz, but from good ordinary authorities. A large portion of these (at this time) forbidden works have become exceedingly rare in the present day.

It will be seen that Robert Caley was the chief Roman Catholic theological printer in Queen Mary's reign: though, strangely enough, his name does not occur in the Stationers' Company's Charter of the 4th May 1856.

The following, forming Landa MS. No. 11, Arta 2—5, in the British Museum, consist of a latter of Bishop Grindal to Sir W. Cecil and its enclosures.

IR I haue enclosed in my Lettres to my Lords off the Cownsell, sente herwith, a Catalogue off Stows the Taylour his valuefulle bookes, taken by my Chapleyn Master Watts. And thatt we mave we better understande the disposition off the sayd Stown: I sende vo[u] enclosed herein Master Wattes his letter to me, concerning the sayd Stowe and his bookes.

I have not ben well sithence I spake laste with you: wherfore I entred yesterdaye into a piece of physicke, and am lyke by reason thereoff to tarie here these 3. or 4. dayes godde kepe you.

from Fulham 24. Febr. 1568 [i. s. 1569]

Yours in Christe.

IThis Proclamation is a general warning, provoked doubtless by a partial knowledge of the Conspiracy brewing among the Roman Catholics, which ultimately exploded in the Rebellion of the North on the 14th November 1569.

By the Queene

Heras divers bookes made or translated by certayne the Queenes Maiesties subjectes, for the more part remayning on the other syde of the sea, without lawfull licence, contayning sundry matters repugnaunt to trueth, derogatoric to the souersigne estate of her Majestic. and stirring and nourishing sedition in this Realme, are commonly in secrete sort here dis-pearsed by malicious persons among sundry her Maiesties subjectes, to thickintent to drawe them to errour. and withdrawe them sediciously from their dueties and allegiance due to her Maiestie, as their onlys soueraigne. For redresse hereof, lyke as of late tyme some mylde example hath ben made in the starre chaumber at Westminster, in correction of certayne persons founde faultie in the secrete dispearsing, buying, and allowing of sundry of the sayde seditious bookes: So her Maiestie meaning of her clemencie neither to have any advauntage taken for thinges herein alredy past, nor any her honest and quiet subjectes to be entangled with the lyke hereafter for lacke of admonition in due type; wylleth and earnestlye chargeth all maner of persons, to forbeare vtterly from the vse or dealing with any such soditious bookes. made or translated by any person, contayning matter derogatorie to the soueraigne estate of her Maiestie. or impugning the orders and rites established by lawe for Christian religion and denine service within this Realme, or otherwyse styrring and nourishing matter tending to sedition: and that such as alredy haue any of the sayde bookes, shall present, or cause to be presented the sayde bookes, within twentic and eyght dayes after the publishing of this proclamation, to the byshop of the diocesse, or ordinarie of the place, and to recease of hym a testimoniall of the tyme of the deliverie thereof: and without expresse licence in wryting of the sayde byshop or ordinarie, or some archbyshop, or other byshop of the Realme, not to kepe or reade any seditious bookes, vpon payne of her Maiesties greeuous indignation, and to be punished severely, as the qualitie and circumstaunces of the offence shall require and deserve.

Gyuen at her Maiesties pallaice of Westminster, the first day of March. 1568 [i. c. 1569]. the eleuenth yere of her Maiesties raigne.

[* This side note is very important. For though not signed, it is evidently written by John Fayreberne; who here makes a note that he had only received one half of his annual wages of 40s., and that the other half had gone in part payment of his debt to the Company of £4. This being true, an inspection of the handwriting of this Register is at once convincing that the greater part of it, down to the end of p. 452, is in the same handwriting as this side note; and consequently that Fayreberne was to a large extent the Transcriber of all entries of an ordinary character from the several books of first entry into this one single Volume.

See also a similar side note at p. 460; which is likewise in the same handwriting.]

[* Stow's account of this Show—which was the wind-up of a five-week' drill—is as follows:—

The flue and twenty and sixe and twenty of March [1672], by the commandement of the queenes maiesty her counsell, the citizens of London assembling at their severall hals, the maisters chose out the moste likely and active persons of cuery their companies, to the number of three thousand, whom they appointed to be pikemen and shot. The pikemen were foorth with armed in faire corslets and other furniture, according thereunto: the gumers had every of them his caliuer, with the furniture, and murriaus [morrions] on their heads. . . . On May day [1672] they mustred at Greenewich before the queenes maiesty, where they showed many warlike feates, but were hindered by the weather, which was all day showing. They returned that night to London, and were discharged on the next morrow. p. 1136, Ed. 1600.]

[The following Proclamation was issued at a most anxious time for the English government. The Rebellion in the North under the Earls of Northundermann and Westmongland—which had lasted from the 14th November to about the 21st December 1689—had been followed by John Frinon's hanging the Papel Bull of Excommunication on the gate of the Bishop of Lordon's palace in Paul's Churchyard on the 26th May 1670 (for which act Frinon's himself was subsequently hanged for before the Bishop's gate); and there had now been newly detected the Compiracy in Norfolk, under John Timognorton, which—undannted by the grievous failure of the Northern attempt—had been planned to commence on Midsummer's Day at Harleston fair. So that there was no knowing as to where these conspiracies would end, or how many more 'simple folk' would die through them; the victims of the Romish propagandism. In this Notification, we seem to see the Privy Council striving to sound the darkest depths of treason, and we can hereby realise the perpetual strain on their minds, to be seer on the watch for such rebellious explosione as those they had lately witnessed. Most certainly was this a fierce hand-to-hand fight between the Crown and State of England and the priest-king of Rome and his abstors, luit open force (especially moral force) did at length vanquish—as it ever will in this country—secret treachery; though, as Mr Proclamation also heave testimony to the activity of the Romanist presses, both at home and on the Continent; and likowise shows us what a deadly thing the mere possession of onc of the books or tracts produced by them was; at a time in which Sir Gronen Bowes, as he himself told John Stow, executed rebels in every market town between Newcastle and Wetherby, that is, over a district 60 miles in length by 40 miles in breadth.

I A Broclamation made analyst seditious and travterous Bookes. Billes, and Writinges son the 1st July 1570]

HE Queenes Malestie being of late certenly infourmed of the trayterous boldnes of certen wicked and seditious persons, that couying and malicing the good voluersall quiet of this her Realme and subjectes, do by secrete maner contrine and scatter certain infamous scrolles and billes in some partes of her Realme, and into some other partes bring in trayterous bookes and Bulles, as it were from Rome, therby with vntruthes and falsehodes, yea with divers monstrous absurdities to the slaunder of the Nobilitic and Counsell of this with queers monstrous absurdance to the siamneer of the Nobilitic and Counsell of this feeline, and not sparying also in the same to viter high Treasons against the estate and Royal dignitic of her Maiestic, to ingender in the heades of the simple ignoraunt multitude, a mislykyng or mumurying against the quiet government of the Roalme, and namely in malitious depraying of such actions as are and have been by good counsel providently devised, necessarily attempted, and wel atcheeued by her Maiesties order, for defence not only of her Maiestie, but of the very hole body and people of the Roalme from the open furie of Rebelles, and intended invasions by outwarde enemies: Hath hereupon thought good and necessary to warne al her her good faithfull subjectes, that if any such trayterous or levide and slanderous hilles or hookes, in writing or in print, shall any was come to the handes of any thought good and necessary to washe a new transport reads and standard to the handes of any person that can or may by readyng of any part of the same, finde the same to be of suche lewde qualities agaynst her Maiestie, or the Nobilitie of the Realmo, or any of her Counsell, or tending to the stander of any other publice estate and officer: that immediatly without shewing or report or speeche theref to any person, he shall bring and deliuer it to the handes of the Lieuetenaunt of the same Shire, or to his Deputie. Or if in case the same Lieuetenaunt or his Deputie shalbe so farre of, as the finder for on to his Deputite. Of the case the same heldestatult of the population is a first of a size that of a population of the recessary impediment cannot speedily resort to them therwith: Then the sayde tynder shall without making any other privile thereto, bring it to the next Instice of peace, or head Officer that can reade: who being informed therof, shall examine the fynder of the maner and other circumstatunces, to his discretion necessary, how the same was founde: And thereupon shall scale it up close, with the examination of the fynder, if any person be thereby chargeable, and shall sende it immediatly to her Maiestie, and shall sende it immediatly to her Maiestie, and her Counsell, without geuyng knowledge of the contentes thereof to any other maner [of] person: And shall also vpon the examination of the fynder, do his vttermost by his owne aucthoritie, or by aduertising to any other hauving aucthoritie in the same Shire or libertie, or otherwise, to cause to be saperehended all the persons charged or suspected as aucthours, or any wyse participantes of the sayd slaunderous and seditious billes, bookes, or scrolles, to the intent the same persons so charged or suspected may be further tryed and ordered, with such severitie as their desertes shall require.

And furthermore, if any maner of writing or scrolles shall happen in any suspitious maner to come to the handes of any person, the same beyng not able by readyng to discerne what the same is, not knowyng who the person is by whom he shall attayne to it: The sayde person so beyng ignoraunt of readyng, shall foorthwith shewe the same to some honest discrete Officer, nearest to the place, that can reade it. Who fyndyng it to be any wyse seditious or slaunderous, shall foorthwith cary it and the brynger also, and deliner them both in lyke maner to the Lieuetenaunt of the Shire, or other Officer, in lyke maner as if he had ben the first fynder therof hym selfe.

And if any person can by any meanes discouer who are the aucthours or writers, counsellers, or conveyers of any such trayterous or slaunderous bylles, bookes, or writinges, that alredy hath ben or shalbe hereafter dispersed; the same so doying in such sort as it may come to the knowledge of her shalle hereafter dispersed; the same so doying in such soft as it may come to the knowledge of her Maiestie, or her Counsell, shalle so largely rewarded, as durying his or their lyues they shall have inst cause to thinke them selues well used. And if he have ben any wyse a partener in the same faulte, and yet wyll discouer the principal anothours or offenders therin; he shall not onely be fauourably pardoned for his concealement or offence, but shall also be so well rewarded, as he shall never have cause to repent of his discouerie. And if cause shall so require, both such discouerers shalle preserved from the note of blame of accusing, as faire foorth as may be any wayes deutised.

And contrarywise, if any person after the publication hereof, shalbe proved to have found or ben made prime to any suche slaunderous Bookes, or Writinges, and not to have used them as afore is prescribed:

Or that any person, other then suche Officers as are in maner afore expressed and appoynted to receaue suche scrolles of the fynders, shalbe made priuie thereto by the Fynders, or by any other person, and shall not disclose their knowledge in maner aboue expressed, as yf they had ben the fyrst fynders: Her Maiestie willeth it to be vnderstand, that all suche persons so concealing the same, shall vpon proofe theref, be attached and committed closely to the nexte Gaole, as concealers and mayneteyners of sedition and tumultes, and shall not be hayled nor deliuored, without expresse commaundement or knowledge of the Lieuctenauntes of the Shires, or the Queenes Maiestic, or her prinie Counsell.

And for the suppressing of these kindes of seedes of Treason and Sedition: Her Maiestic chargeth all

And for the suppressing of these kindes of seedes of Treason and Sedition: Her Maiestie chargeth all her Lieuetenauntes and Officers, to whom the execution hereof may any wise appertayne, to be ready, carefull, and diligent to the apprehending of these kinde of wicked sowers of sedition, and to the straight examination of all persons that may be any wise suspected by their disordered lines or speeches, or by any other probable meanes, to be parteners hereto, or otherwise sowers of seditions Tales, with such seueritie as the same requireth: For so is it seene very necessary at this time. Wherein appeareth a malitious, hidden, and cankred purpose of some wycked number of lewde people, that haue an inwarde and greedy desyre to styrre vp tumultes and vprores, and violently to burst a sunder the bandes of the publike peace whiche the Realme enioyeth, whereby they and theyr like confederates might make spoyle and hauceke of all the good Subicctes of the Realme, and as Truytours make their gayne by conspiring and confederating with forreyn enemies, to the hazard, or at the least to the great charges of the Realme, to be necessarily susteyned for the defence of the same, agaynste suche attemptos, cyther at home, or from abrode.

Genen at her Maiesties manor of Otelande the fyrst day of July. 1570. in the twelfth yere of her Maiesties raigne.

Magnetamation against magnetyners of seditious persons, and of trapterous bookes and writinges.

HE Queenes Maiestic consydering with her selfe, howe it hath pleased almightic God at this present to conserue her Realme in an valuersall good peace, and her subjectes in a constant obedience vnto her Maiestic, notwithstandyng the sundry secrete malitions sollicitations of certayne fugitiues and rebelles, beyng fled, and nowe remaynyng out of the Realme, by their seditions messages and false reportes sent into the same, tendyng to prouche others to be partakers of their malitious treasons: Can not but first geue the due thankes and prayse theref to alwightie God, and therwith commende both the loyaltie of her good subjectes for their obedience, and allowe of this their vniuersall constancie in the conservation of them selves together within obedience, and allowe of this their vninersall constancie in the conscruation of them selves together within the bande of common peace. And furthermore also to gene admonition and warnyng, specially to the simple sort of her good louyng subjectes, that they be no wyse abused with the wicked practises of the sayd fugitiues and rebelles, by any their adherentes secretly remayning or repayring into the Realme, and wandring in corners, mouyng good subjectes to be disobedient to the lawes, and scattering false rumors and newes, both by speache, and by bookes and wrytinges, onely of intent to breake the common peace of the same, and to procure more partners with them in their treasons and rebellions. And therfore her Maiestic chargeth and commandeth all maner [of] her good subjectes, to be earnestly ware hereof, and to employ their vttermost diligence in the apprehention of such secret perswadors of disobedience, and breakyng of lawes, and of the sowers and stirrers of sedition, and specially of such as do or shall bring into this Realme any seditious bookes, wrytinges, or such lyke trayterous denises agaynst the lawes or gouernment of the Realme, or any wyse prejudicial to the royal states of her Maiestie. And if any shalbe founde wyllingly to ayde or comfort any such seditious persons in their sayd malitious attemptes, or government of the Reame, or any wyse premidical to the royal states of her Malestie. And if any shalbe founde wyllingly to ayde or comfort any such seditious persons in their sayd malitious attemptes, or shal recease and kepe, or conceale any maner of such seditious bookes, wrytinges or bulles, in print or written, and shal not presently discouer the said persons, and procure them to be apprehended, nor cause the said kynde of writinges to be spedyly presented to the superiour officers, as hath ben by Proclamation lately last ordered and deuised: her Malestie geneth it to understande, that then all and enery such person so offending after this admonition, shalbe taken, reputed, and punished, as abottors and mayntcynors of the principall Traytors that were aucthors of the same: Meanyng in this behalfe, consydering this playne admonition, not to be hereafter moused to smare the execution of such offendors, yoon pretence or alleraadmonition, not to be hereafter moved to spare the execution of such offendors, vpon pretence or allegation of simplicitie or ignorance, to excuse their defautes.

Two letters of Archbishop Parker to Lord Burghley.

1. On the 25th August 1672. Respecting the ADMONITION TO THE PARLIAMENT.

This work was written by two Puritan Clergymen, the Revs. John Field and Thomas Wilcocks. For writing it, they were imprisoned in Newgata: whence their Latin petition to Lord Hurchley (now Lond. MS. 15, Art. 73) is thus dated, 'E nova ports 3° Septembris 1572.' See the Proclamation of the following year against this work at p. 464.

Ir for all the Deuises that we can make to the Contrarie, yet sum good fellowes still labor to printe owte the vaine admonition to the narliament. Since the first printing it hath been twise printed, and nowe with addicons wheref I send your honour one of them / we wrote lettres to the Major and sum aldermen of London to laie in waite for the Charectes, printer and Corrector, but I feare they deceane vs. they are not willing to disclose this matter / . . .

Lansd. MS. 15, fol. 75.

We shall reprint in our next Volume another letter from the Archbishop written on the 22nd November 1672, in which he confesses the fruitless search made by the Hierarchy for the secret Puritan printing press. ? Was this the one found at Hampstead on the 26th August 1573, see p. 467.

2. On the 13th December 1572. The Archbishop's Patronage of John Day, and REPRESENTATION OF HIS TROUBLES.

In order to understand the following very interesting letter, it may be necessary to recollect that Niceolas Sandras published in 1571 a large follo volume, divided into cight books, De Visibili Monarchia Reclesia; his dedication of which to Rope Plus V, is dated the 20th June 1571. The following letter was written on the 15th December 1572.

Doctor Bartholomew Clerk's official roply to Sandras is a small quarto, entitled 'Fidelia Servi, subdite infidelia Responsio ... Londini Apud Johanness Dayum Typographum. An. 1573.' and is a beautiful specimen of English printing. It is, at the present time, a very rare book.

But what will ever give a special interest to Dr Clerke's Responsio is the new 'Italian letter', as the good Archbishop calls it, which was east by Day expressly for this work. By this we must not understand the modern Italia type, but a white letter or modern-faced Kompan type. It is in English size, and very handsome it looks.

Dr Clerke also made a translation from the Italian into Latin of Count Baldessas Cashillo's R Corteguio, which sponsared in 1571.

appeared in 1871.

[Lansd. MS. 15. fol. 99. [What s fight was this, about a little shop; in which John Day, the Stationers' Company, the Dean and Chapter of Saint Paul's, the Lord Mayor and Aldermon of London, the High Commission, and the Privy Council were all concerned, and appearantly in vain. It needed the Queen's rayal authority itself to say whether Day should have his shop or not. [It needs but little sequaintance with our history to see that one of the two Councillors of State specially defended in this Proclamation was Lord BURGHLEY.

By the Queene.

Hereas certayne obstinate and irrepentant traytours, after theyr notorious rebellions made against this theyr naturall countrey, have fledde out of the same, and have remayned in forraigne partes, with a continual and wylful determination (as it appeareth) to contriue al the mischeefe that they can imagine, to impeache and subverte the valuersall quiotnesse and peace of this Realme, whereof they do behold with deadly ennie this theyr natural countrey, by Gods speciall grace directyng her Maiestie in her gouernment, to have ben of long tyme most comfortably possessed, both inwardly at home, and with all outwards countreyes next adioynyng: and that nowe synce they have wasted theyr whole tyme for the prosecutyng of theyr rooted malice, by congregatyng themselves together in routes, with shewes of conventicles, and of forces (wherin they have condemned and despised such of their former companions, as have dustifully sought for mercy for their offences) and by combination with others of this countrey byrth, of lyke disposition, beyng founds as persons vagarant and wylful fugitives, they have sought by and with them to excite by all kinds of sinister meanes, divers estates and governours abroade, to mislyke, and to enter into enimitic agaynst the Queenes Maiestic, her Realme, and people: and that notwithstandyng these theyr labours and practises, they see that neyther they have nor coulde prevaile as they desyred, by reason of the great wysdome, bonour, and grave consyderation of the sayde persons of estate, whom they have much troubled and annoyed with theyr importantee suites and clamours, and specially with theyr false, malitious, and traiterous suggestions, and calumniations against the Queenes Maiestie, her government, and this Realme:

Therefore at the last beyng desperate of those theyr former trauayles and practises, and fyndyng her Maiesties amitie is had in good estimation with other the greate prynces and estates her neyghbours, and the amitie also of the same princes reciprocquely imbraced by her Maiestie, to the honour and benefite both of her Maiestie, and her alies and confederates, and their countreyes and subjects, they are fallen into another crooked course of malitious persecutyng the happy estate of this countrey and government, by choosyng out of certayne shamelesse, spiteful, and furious braynes, having a trade in pennyng of infamous libelles, not only in the Englishe, but also in Latine, and other strange languages.

And by these meanes they have lately caused certayne seditious bookes and libelles to be compiled, and printed in divers languages, wherein their final intention appeareth to be to blaspheme, and as it were to accurse their natiue countrey, with al manner of reprocheful tearmes, agaynst the peaceable government thereof, condemnyng generally the whole pollicie of the present estate, as having no religion, nor pietie, nor instice, nor order, no good ministers at al, either for dinine or humane causes: and yet to abuse such as are strangers to the state, they have glosed some of theyr late libelled bookes with argumentes of discoveries of treasons, intended, as they do craftly alleage, by some special persons beyng counsaylers, agaynst her Maiestie, and the state of this crowne and Realme, with reprocheful tearmes of most notorious false assertions and allegations; bendyng theyr mallice moste specially agaynst two, who be certaynely knowen to have alwayes ben moste studiously and faythfully careful of her Maiesties prosperous estate, and vertuous gouernment, employing therto al theyr cares, trauayles, diligence, and watchyng, with the manifest losse and hynderaunce of theyr owne health, that no treason myght approche to hurte her hyghnesse, nor trayterous malice to disturbe the quiet of her prosperous raigne. These cheefely, besyde theyr general reprocuing of al other, hauynge charge in his government, they studie by theyr venemous and lying bookes, to have specially myslyked of her Maiestic. contrary to theyr manyfolde desertes, so appropued by long and manifest experience, whiche both her Majestie, and al the rest of her good counsaylours and nobilitie, with other the states of the Realme, haue had, and dayly haue of the very same counsaylours, who also are the more to be allowed of her Maiestie, in that she seeth, and of her owne meere knowledge truely understandeth, that all the perticular matters wherewith the sayd libellers labour to charge the sayd counsaylours as offences, be utterly improbable and false, as in like maner generally, all others her Maiesties counsellours, ministers, and subjectes of understanding, in every degree, do repute, accept, and know the same to be: so as both of her Maiestie, and of all other her good counsaylers and noble men, this they rattempt is understanded to be the worke of canckred envie and malice, and the accustomed wont of suche men as be possessed with those spirites, when they can not, ne dare not openly assayle her princely Maiestie by force or open doynges, then to goe about to pull from her Maiestie her faythful and trustic counsaylours, by false calumnies, or with faigned and surmised tales, to make variance, yf they coulde, gelousie, and discorde amonges her highnesse counsaylours, who hytherto with muche concorde and good agreement, haue, as it is well seene, served prosperously her hyghnesse.

And therefore her Maiestie hauyng regards to be thankeful to almyghtie God for his blessyng of her with his protection in her gouernment these many yeeres, and for that cause myslykyng to suffer the same to be in this sorte by suche infamous libelles obscured, defamed, and blasphemed, eyther presently, or in tyme to come, by the secrete dispearsyng of the same bookes and libelles, eyther within her Realme, or abroade in forraigne language: and in lyke manner, beyng vnwyllyng to haue suche as be her wyl tryed and approoned faythful sernauntes and counsaylours to be thereby taxed, altograther with manyfest vntruethes impudently vttered, to the dishonour of her Maiestie, to whom they are counsailours: hath therfore thought necessary, and so by aduice of others of her counsayle and nobilitie, whose reputation is also moste certainely taxed by the said manyfest slaunders and entruethes, she willeth that by this her Maiesties publique declaration, it be knowen, that the sayde bookes and libelles be of her Maiestie, and of her counsayle, esteemed, judged, and condemned, to be the workes of despisers of Gods true religion, of obstinate traytours against her Maiesties person, estate, and dignitie, and of vanatural and malignant enuiers of the common good tranquilitie of her Realme, who the more to abuse some sympler sort of people, do delyuer and shewe of certayne thynges pretended for the safetie of her Maiesties person and estate, the same being in deede moste manyfest and direct practises to ruine her person, and to ouerthrowe her estate: And therewith chargeth al manner of persons, to despise, reject, and destroy suche bookes and libelles, whensoener they shal come to theyr handes, for the malitious slaunders and vntruethes contoyned in them, and that no man wellyngly do bryng into this Realme, dispearse, dispose, or delyuer to any other, and keep anye of the sayde bookes or libelles without destroying, excepte the same person be one of her Maiesties privie counsayle, or otherwyse for reasonable respectes, be duely licensed to have the same to peruse, and to reproone, according to the qualitie thereof, vpon payne to be by any publique officer, who may have notice thereof, apprehended, and thereupon to be punished as sowers of sedition, and abbettours to the treasons vttered in the same. xxviij. die Septembr. 1573.

[We have had several Proclamations against Papistical traitors; here is one directed against loyal Puritans. The Anglican Hierarchy were carrying on a triangular duel; fighting the Romanists with one hand, and their own reforming Clergy supported by a large portion of the laity, with the other. This Proclamation appeared, as we have seen from p. 464, about a year after the event; and was, as the Bishop of London's letter at p. 466 tells us, perfectly useless. It is reprinted from a copy in the Grenville Collection of Proclamations, p. 150.

By the Queene. He Queenes Maiestie consydering that notwithstanding that by great and mature deliberation of the wysest of this Realme, a godly and good order of publique prayer and administration of the Sacramentes hath ben set foorth and allowed by Parliament, and commonly through the whole Realme, in al the tyme of her Maiesties raigne received and vsed; yet some persons of theyr natures vnquietly disposed, desyrous to change, and therefore redy to fynde fault with all well established orders, do not only refrayne from comming to the Church, where the divine service and common prayer is of riderly vsed, but also do vse of theyr owne decises, other rites and ceremonies then are by the lawes of the Realme received and vsed; and besydes that, some of them have rashly set foorth, and by stealth imprinted certayne bookes under the title of an admonition to the Parliament, and one other in defence of the sayde admonition, the whiche bookes do tende to no other ende, but to make division and dissention in the opinions of men, and to breede talkes and disputes agaynst common order. Her highnesse therefore, both to represse suche insolent and inordinate contemptes of suche as refuse to come to common prayer and divine service, according to the order established by Parliament, to the cuil and pernitious example of others, and to kepe her subjectes in one vniforme, godly, and quiet order within her Realme, to auoyde al controuersies, scismes, and dissentions that may aryse: doth strayghtly charge and commaunde al her Maiesties faythful and true subjectes, them selves to kepe, and to cause others suche as be vader them, to kepe the order of common prayer, divine services, and administration of the Sacramentes, according as in the sayde booke of divine service they be set foorth, and none other contrary or repugnant, vpon payne of her highnesse indignation, and of other paynes in the sayd acte comprysed.

And as concerning the said bookes, called, The admonition to the Parliament, and all other bookes made for the defence of the sayd admonition, or agreeable therewith, the whiche bookes do cheefely tende to the depraying and fyndying fault with the sayde booke of common prayer, and administration of the Sacramentes, and of the orders received here in this Churche and common wealth of Englande: Her highnesse strayghtly chargeth and commandeth all and every Prin er, Stationer, Booke bynder, Marchaunt, and all other men of what qualitie or condition he or they be, who hath in theyr custodie any of the sayd bookes, to bring in the same to the Byshop of the diocesse, or to one of her hyghnesse privile Counsel, within twentie dayes after that he shall have notice of this Proclamation, and not to kepe any of them without licence or allowance of the sayde Byshop, ypon payne of imprysonment, and her highnesse further displeasure.

Two more letters to Lord Burghley about this time.

1. THE BISHOP OF LONDON TO LORD BURGHLEY ON THE 2ND JULY 1573.

thought it my dutie to advertise your Lordship that althoughe the date of the late proclamation for bringinge in of the admonition to the parliament and other sediciouse bokes, is alredy expired, yet the whole Citie of London, where no dowt is greate plentle. hath not brought one to my handes and I can hardely think yat your Lordships of hir Maiesties privey Counsell haue receyued many, whearby it may easily appeare, what boldenesse and disobedience thes new writers have alredy wrought in the myndes of the people; and that agaynst the Civill Magistrates, whome in wordes they seme to extoll, but whois authoritie in very dede they labor to east downe, for he seeith litill yat doth not perceyue how that their whole procedings tend to a mere popularitie. The Articles which your Lordship delinered to the Archbishop of CANTERBURY are as Common in London in ye Innes of Court and ells wheare, as is ergo in the scholes and as I heare they were abrode before yet they camme into your Lordships handes. I trust that your Lordship will remember Master Mullyrs who of long tyme hath bene sore burdyned withe vnthankfull guestes. if it wold please your Lordships of ye Counsell to give authoritie to ye Master of ye Rolles, ye Attorney generall or to some other, to examine the matter, I Could soon fynd owt the writer of ye infamouse libell which was cast agaynst me, but this I like not in respect of my self, but as it may seme good for ye Commonwelth.

Thus I humbly take my leave of your good Lordship commendings the same to ye good direction of goddes holy spirite. At Fulham This Julii 2, 1573

2. The Archembop of Canterbury informs his Lordship on the 13th November 1573 of THOMAS ASPLYN'S DESIGN TO MURDER JOHN DAY AND HIS FAMILY.

[Thomas Asplyn, son of a cooper of London, was apprenticed to John Day for eight yeres from the 25th March 1567, ses 9, 327. As there were no apprenticeships for less than seven years: Asplyn must therefore have been still bound to John Day. It is noticeable that being still an apprentice he should have been able to leave his master, and work—no doubt tempted by a high remuneration—at the secret production of Thomas Cartwelent's Second Administration to the Parliament, 1872.]

ir, this mornyng cam the warden of the printers, harrison, and brought me one other boke in quayers, and told me that one asplyn a printer to Cartweightes boke, was after examination suffred agayn to go a brode, and taken in to service in to master Dayes house, and purposed to kyl hym, and his wyf &c and beyng asked what he ment, he answered

'The Spryte moued hym,' so that then be[ing] all taken and in preson as he told me / syns I sent to your Lordships this massanger this he told me /

I can not yet learne that the boke is newe printed syns queen manys Dayes: but I have set this harrison and other a worke to serche out more

[The following unsigned Representation (which forms Land, MS. 48, Art. 78, fol. 176, in the British Museum) is another evidence of the great keenness of the competition for exclusive privileges. It argues great assurance, and indeed impudence, for any man then to have asked for the sole monopoly of printing ballads and all books of twenty-four sheets and undor. It was almost tautamount to asking to become sole printer for England. Such a Representation as this could not but be successful. It is addressed:

[NOTE AS TO THE PRINCIPAL RECORDS OF THE CORPORATION OF LONDON.

we shall naturally have frequent occasion to quote from the muniments of the City of London; it may be useful to mention the four principal Series of which they are composed: as they are described in the two excellent (privately printed) Reports of the Library Committee presented to the Court of Common Council; the first on the 16th December 1869, and the second on the 24th November 1870.

"LETTER BOOKS. The Series from A to ZZ &c., 1275-1688. These Books commence about 140 years before the Journals of the Common Council, and about 220 years before the Repertories of the Court of Aldermen, and contain almost the only remaining Records of those Courts prior to the commencement of such Journals and Repertories. They are written on vellum, in Latin, Norman-French, and English, and consist of entries of a miscellaneous character. . . . Many of the entries in the later Letter Books will also be found in the Journals and Repertories." Report of Library Committee &c., p. 25.

the later Letter Books will also be ready in the Colmon Council. Commencing 1416, and continuing to the Co., p. 25.

"Journals of the Proceedings of the Court of Aldermen were also entered in these Books. They are written on paper, in Latin, French, and English." idem.

"Repertories of the Court of Aldermen. Commencing 1495, and continuing to the present time. On paper, in French, Latin, and English." idem.

[We have already quoted from one of these Repertories at p. 138.]

orasmuch as within these few dayes there have been certaine infamous Libels full of malice and falshood spread abroad, and set vp in sundry places about the Citie and Court, tending to sedition, and dishonourable interpretations of her Maiesties godly Actions and purposes, and especially invented of cankred malice colourably, to the destruction or ruine of some of good estimation and fidelitie towards her Maiestie, by lewd persons not worthy to enjoy the benefit of this her Maiesties quiet government, no more then cuill and corrupt limmes, whiche for lacke of speedie remedie may infect more of the body; The sufferance whereof cannot but breed a further disorder to the good quietnesse of her Maiesties most peaceable government. And because her Maiestie would have such villanous, treasonable and seditions attempts both repressed and punished, and also would come to some certaintie for the discovering of the Authors thereof, whereby she would not enter into any scruple of suspition of any other manner of person then the offenders or their partners: Therefore her Maiestie willeth, that whoseeuer can, and will discouor the Authors or parteners of those Libels, and will open it to her Maiestie, or to some Attendant about her Person, the same shall be rewarded in this sort: If the partie that shall discouer the same be vnder the degree of a Gentleman, he shall have foorthwith fortic pounds; and if he bee a Gentleman, he shall have one hundred pounds: And if hereafter it shall be prooued, that any person hath been in any wise priule hereto, and shall not now very shortly after this Proclamation discouer it, the same shall at no time hereafter be thereof pardoned.

And furthermore, her Maiestie chargeth all manner of persons that shall hereafter at any time finde any such seditious Billes, to bring the same to the Lord Major of London, or to some speciall officer of London, or of any other Towne where such shall be found And if the same shall be found in or about the Court, then to be secretly brought to some of her Maiesties Councellers, or other her faithfull seruants attendant about her Person, vpon paine, that if any bee found remisse herein, then the same to receive such like punishment as the Author of sedicious Libels ought to doe. For her Maiestie cannot thinke that these things are so much given out in respect of any private persons as they are in contempt of the present government and proceedings, wherein her Maiestie cannot but find her selfe touched.

[With this Annual Account we resume in Register B, our detailed knowledge of the Company's affairs. As he states at II. 35; Richard Collins, of the Goldsmiths' Company, was on the 30th May 1575 sworn the Clerk of the Stationers' Company; which office he held for some thirty-eight years, dying about 1613 A.D. Naturally with the change of Clerk came a variation in the mode of keeping the Company's Books; as we shall see on reaching Register B. About eighty pages further on in the same Letter Book is a Transcript of what is probably the above 'booke' of assessments 'nowlyo rated.' The date of its place in the Letter Book is about the lat July 1674; but it may be earlier. It is important as giving us the names and comparative wealthiness of all the Companies of London at that time; the first twelve greater once in their order, the thirty-two minor once in no precise order. It is remarkable that the Stationers rank—with the exception of the Brewers and the Leuther-sellers—in the first class of the minor companies; though they were then only in the 17th year of their existence as a Company. This was evidently in consideration of the individual substance of its members; for the 'stock of the hall' could not even meet the first of the Precepts.

🛏 A Broclamation against certaine seditions and scismatical Bookes and Libelles &c.

[It may be advisable to give some account of the two Puritan writers whose works were thus honoured by a special Production against them. The books have so far perished, that I doubt if any one slive has ever read them all.

It is not yet absolutely certain how many books Horder Brown, the Brownist, had printed for him at Middleburgh in or about 1882. (1) The following is often quoted as if it consisted of several distinct works. A Book which shought the Life and Manners of all true Christians and how unlike they are to Turkes and Papiets and Hadden Polis. Also there goeth a Tratise before, of Reformation without tarretail the Magistrate command and compel them. By me Robert Browns, Middleburgh. Imprinted by Richard Painter, 1882, ato. [f an imperfect copy in Bodleian Library, Oxford.]

(2) An Answer to Master [Tranns] Carrentonin's Letter to Rightsh Darry, Oxford.]

(3) A Treatise on the 25rd Chapter of Matthew, which is also known (strangely enough) as His book against Logick and Rethorick. See Pering Paintanner, The Reconstation of a Brownist, or a Reformed Peritain. London, 1806, 4to.

(4) Fairlander quotes another printed hook of Robert Brown, The gathering and joyning together of certains persons in Norfolke.

Norfolke.
(? 5) He also quotes the following as a separate work: but it is at prosent uncertain whether it be included in (1). His Invective against Parish preachers and hired Lecturers, and against Preaching at Paules Crosse.
(? 6) FAIRLAMBE also states that he had read in MS., Brown's dissect to Stephen Bredwell's Rasing of the foundations of Browning, J. Windet, 1888.
In FAIRLAMB's list is a work by Master Harrison on The 122 Praim. Its full title is as follows, A little treatise appearance of the 122 Praim, striving up and carefull desiring and dulifull labouring for true church government. [The copy in the British Museum is catalogued under R. H.]

He Queenes most excellent Maiestie being giuon to vuderstande that there are sent from the partes beyond the seas, sundry seditious, scismaticall, and erronious printed Bookes and libelles, tending to the depracing of the Ecclesiastical government established within this Realme, set foorth by ROBERT BROWNE and RICHARD HARBISON, fled out of the Realme as Realme, set foorth by Robert Browns and Richard Harrison, fied out of the Realme as selitious persons, fearing due punishment for their sundry offences, and remaining presently [i. e. at present] in Zealande: which severall bookes, doe manifestly conteine in them very false, seditious, and seismatical doctrine and matter, and have notwithstanding bene secretly solde, published, and dispersed in sundry places within this Realme, to the end to breede some seisme among her Maiesties subjectes, being persons vulcarned, and vnable to discerne the errors therein contained: Her highnesse therefore perceiving the wickednesse of these evil spirits, and the malicious disposition of lewde and entill disposed persons to be readie to violate and breake the peace of the Churche, the Realme, and the quictnesses of her people, and knowing it also to be most requisite and convenient for her highnesse to vee those meanes which God hath appointed for preventing thereof, doeth will, and also straightly charge and commande that all maner of persons what so ever, who have any of the sayde Bookes or any of like nature in his or their Custodie, that they and every of them doe foorthwith you the publishing hereof, bring in and deliner up the same vnto the Ordinarie of the Diocesse, or of the place where they inhabite, to the intent they may bee humed, or vtterly defaced by the sayde Ordinary. And that from henceforth no persons or persons whatsoever, be so hardy as to put in print or writing, soll, set foorth, receive, give out or distribute any more of the same or such like sedicious bookes or libels, as they tendor her Maiesties good favour, and will answere for the contrary at their vttermost perils, and vpon such further paynes as good fauour, and will answere for the contrary at their vttermost perils, and vpon such further paynes as the Lawe shall inflict vpon the offendours in that behalfe, as persons maintayning such seditious actions, which her Maiestic myndeth to have senerely executed.

Given at her Maiesties Mannor of Greenewich the last day of June, in the five and twentieth yeere of her highnesse Reigne. [i.e. 1583.]

God saue the Queene.

(It appears from Harrive's Voyages &c., II. 176, Ed. 1600, that these seven vessels were the 'London supplies' sent out for the fleet of Lord Thomas Howard who had been cruising all the summer about the Azores, waiting for the great Spanish fleets then expected both from the West and East Indies: in which cruize Sir Richard Grenville fought that wondorful sea-fight, losing both his ship (the Revenge) and his life in that most glorious defeat.

This London fleet was under the command of Master Robert Flicks, whose account Hakhuyt prints. They left Plymouth on the 17th August 1591: and he incidentally names the following of them, excluding his own ship; the Cherubin, Margaret and John, Conturion, and Costly. They were all scattered by violent storms; but Master Plican managed to reach Plymouth by the 24th October 1591, with one prize, the Nortra Scilora de les Remedies.

What became of these London ships in the winter of 1581-2 we know not; but they evidently formed part of Sir Walten Balenger's expedition of fourteen or fifteen ships, which left Plymouth on the 6th May 1592, and which, after his own recall by the Queen, was under the joint command of St Josu Brough and Sir Martin Prodisher. This floot also made what was then called the 'Island Voyage'; that is, they cruized to and about the Azores, waiting for the annual fleet of five Portuguese carracks—ships then thought to be of predigious size—which brought to Spain the spices, gons, ivery, silke, dra, of the East. The fleet of this year consisted of the Buen Jesus, Madre de Dios, San Bernardo, San Christopharo, and the Santa Cruz.

The Portuguese set the Santa Criz on fire off the island of the same name in June, in order to prevent the English possessing her: but our men put out the fire and saved somewhat of the cargo; and on the 3rd August they captured, after much fighting, the Madre de Dies; and brought her into Dartmouth harbour on the 7th September. The value of the cargo was predigious, and was probably equal to over a million of money of the present day. Thus it came to pass that all the compelled adventurers of 1691 received back in 1693-4 about Twenty-four shillings in the pound; including the Stationere' Company, as by the Special Account at p. 569 appears.

The following Act of Common Council was passed on the 15th December 1592.

At this Common Counsell it is Enacted graunted and agreed by the right honorable the Lord Majour, the right Worshipful Th[e]aldermen his Bretheren and the Commons in this Commen Councell assembled and by the kucthoritie of the same that Sir John Harts knight, Master Office Master Saltonstall Aldermen TROMAS BRAMLY baberdasher, THOMAS CAMBELL Ironmonger, and GROBGE SOTHERTON merchauntailor together with Sir George Barne knight, and John Castling mercer or see many of them as from tyme to tyme may Convenientlie be gotten together, shall and may for and one the behalf of all such of the severall Companies of this Cyttle as have adventured in the late fleete sett forewards by Sir Walfer Raleighe knight and others, Joyne with such honorable personages and others as the Queenes most Excellent Maiestie hath nominated and appoynted. And to take a perfecte Viewe of all such goodes, prizes, spices, Jewelles, Pearles Treasure and other Merchaundize and thinges whatsoever as weare lately taken in the Carraque. And to make Sale, Division, particion and delyuerie, to and for every severall Company owner and Adventurer of a full just and proporconable parte thereof accordinge to every of there adventures with paying of wages, freightes and all manner of Costes dueties and Chardges forth of the sayde Prizes goodes wares and merchaundizes as from tyme to tyme shalle dewe reasonable and Convenient. And also for the ordering and disposinge of all such goodes, wares, and Merchaundizes as are allready solde Delynered or taken owte of the sayd Carraque, and fore receaving of all Somes of money made or to be made upon the Sale thereof Journal 23, fol. 156.

(The Master Rows of this clause of this Act of Common Council of the 22nd May 1593 is the same as the Master Rows at p. 569.]

And it is lykewise Enacted by the aucthorytic aforesayd that all such Bondes as shalbe taken by the Committees appoynted by Commen Counsell for Sale of the Carrackes goodes shalle made Sealed and delynered vnto Heney Rows Mercer and John Newman grocer onlic yppon trust to and for the yee of such of the severall Companies of this Cyttie and others as are interessed in the sayd Carrickes goodes./

It will be seen at p. 575 that the Civic Authorities made an assessment on these 'Carrack gains' for the 'newe buildinges in the feildes,']

A Warrant of Lord Chancellor Sir N. Bacon in 1559-60.

It appears from the documents reprinted below and on pp. 570 and 576, that the Queen's Printers were paid for some if not all their Prochamations by a warrant of the Lord Chancellor on the Clerk of the Hansper, after their Account and the Warrant thereon had been examined by the Clerk of the Grown.

20 NOVEMBER 1558-[7 JUNE] 1559. THE QUEEN'S PRINTERS' ACCOUNT.

Unfortunately the lower half of this Account containing the Warrant &c., has been term off. It is evidently the very first one rendered by them. It is notleable that it is rendered in their joint names, though the first Proclamation was issued in R. Jugge's name only, see p. 129.

These Accounts are also of importance as proving that the Grenville Collection of Entragerra's Proclamations—probably the most comprehensive in existence—is not complete: while at the same time it contains several which are unaccountably omitted in them. Those we have inserted in square brackets [], as they are styled on the originals themselves or in the List (printed in 1818) profixed to the Grenville Collection, by Humpskey Dynon who formed it.

ADDENDUM.

THE CONTROVERSY, &c. OF 1643-5.

HE following, chiefly from printed originals in the British Museum, were set in type with a view to being incorporated in the Introduction: but not being required, they are inserted here with some additions, as throwing great light on the history of the Company about 1643-5.

[JANUABY 1643]

To the honourable House of Commons in this present Parliament assembled. The humble Petition of the Company of Stationers of the City of London.

HUMBLY SHEWETH,

Hat the Comittee for Printing appointed by this Honourable House, was pleased to direct the Printing of a new Impression of the Bible, of the last Translation, [i. e. the present authorized version of 1611] with Notes in the Margent, for the better exposition of hard places, and cleerer understanding of the Scriptures.

That diverse Reverend and Learned Divines of this Kingdome, were by Sir Edward Dearing (then in the Chaire of the said Committee) appointed for the making of the said Notes, and have now very neare perfected the same for the Presse;

Yet so it is, may it please this Honourable House, that a very few Persons of the said Company, but Eleven in number, (whereas the Company consisteth of many hundred Families) labouring to acquier the Printing and profit thereof to themselves, have privately gained some promise from some of the said Divines, intending to exclude all others of the Company, from having any benefit thereby.

And your Petitioners doe further shew, that they have not any common Stock (wherewith to pay the Subsidies charged upon their said Company by Parliament; nor to provide Armes or Corne, for the safety and provision of this City as they are assessed; neither to maintaine their owne Poore, which are very many: and hath cost them Communibus Annis, above 200th per Annum, neare upon 40 Yeares last past) excepting the benefit of Printing a few small Bookes, which now also by means of irregular Printing, they are almost quite deprived of: And that all the Free-hold they have, belonging to their Corporation, together with their Common Scale, lies now ingaged for 1500th which was borrowed at Interest, for the use and service of this present Parliament.

And their poverty is yet the greater, in that they have not so much as a Common Hall of their owne to assemble in; And that these Eleven men, who now labour to gaine to themselves the sole Printing of this Bible and Notes; are now, and have bin, (many of them) Pattentees, and Monopolizers of Printing the most vendable Bookes of worth and quantity now in use; To the great detriment of the Kingdome, and to the ruine and destruction of this poore Company.

THESE PREMISES CONSIDERED; and for as much as this is a publick worke, and was first moved from a Committee of this Honourable House; that therefore you would be pleased to Order that it may be Printed for the common benefit of the whole Company, which will much revive their languishing and miserable condition; wherein they (the aforesaid Eleven Parties) together with the many hundreds others of the said Corporation, may equally partake, both in the Charge and Profit thereof: Which will be a means, that the same will be printed with the greater care and circumspection.

And your Petitioners shall ever pray.

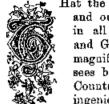

[E. 669, f. 6. in the British Museum.]

To the High Court of PARLIAMENT:

The humble Remonstrance of the Company of Stationers, London.

SHEWETH.

Hat the Mystery and Art of Printing is of publike and great Importance, and ought to be held worthy of extraordinary regard and consideration, in all well-govern'd States. China having had the use of Printing and Guns, long before they were invented in Europe, makes no doubt to magnifie her self, as seeing with two Eyes; whereas Europe (as she pretends) sees but with one. And in Europe the more civill and knowing each Countrey is, the more carefully they provide for the prosperity of this ingenious Craft, and it were strange if they should not; for as Learning must needs make us favour Printing, so Printing is a great means to advance

Learning amongst us. But France especially is famous for the value she sets upon that Profession and Trade of men (whom we in England incorporate by the name of Stationers) for there they are priviledged above meer Mcchanicks, and honoured with a habitation, as it were, in the Snburbs of Literature it self.

The like reason also which makes Printing, &c. favoured and promoted in generous Countries where Learning is esteemed, renders it odious amongst Barbarians, where superstition and darknesse is affected. Muscovy professes country to Printing, and so does Turkie, for Learning's sake: And therefore the setting up of a Greek Presse at Constantinople, sent thither out of England, had like to have cost Cyrillus the Patriarke there his Life, and the Greeks their fatall Buine. [RICHARD KNOWLES] Turkish history, page 1491. [Ed. 1638.]

Neverthelesse, it is not meere Printing, but well ordered Printing that merits so much favour and respect, since in things precious and excellent, the abuse (if not prevented) is commonly as dangerous, as the use is advantagious. Germany had the happy Sagacity to invent Presses, Watches, &c. yet now, for want of reglement, her reputation is lost in those Manufactures, a German Impression, or Watch, eo nomine, is undervalued. In the United-Provinces also, there are not above three or foure Eminent and rich Printers by reason of ill order, and were it not for the great Stocks of Moneyes which enable those men to print the greater Volumes, and of more generall use, that Trade would there also further decay. And commonly where Printing droops, and Printers grow poor by neglect of Government, there errors and heresies abound, also by the same neglect as in Poland, and some parts of the Netherlands is manifest, where the poyson of Socious and Arminius spreads unregarded. We must in this give Papists their due; for as well where the Inquisition predominates, as not, regulation is more strict by far, then it is amongst Protestants; we are not so wise in our Generation, nor take so much care to preserve the true Religion as they do the false from alteration: and for that cause not onely their Church is the more fortified, but the Art of Printing thrives, and the Artists grow rich also beyond any examples amongst us.

The first and greatest end of order in the Presse, is the advancement of wholesome knowledge, and this end is meerly publike: But that second end which provides for the prosperity of Printing and Printers, is not meerly private, partly because the benefit of so considerable a Body is of concernment to the whole; and partly because the compassing of the second end does much conduce to the accomplishing of the first, as is now to be further explained: For, upon further examination, it must needs cleerly appear, That the late decay of the Stationers (chiefly brought upon them by want of due and Politick regulation) has been an occasion of emboldning Printers to run into enormious disorders, and in the like manner the same disorders have been a further occasion of bringing a decay upon the Company. England was not heretofore without a regulation in Printing, as well knowing that the publike good was very much concerned in that Art and that no act did more depend upon the publike Care. Wholesome Ordinances therefore were provided and great circumspection was used, that those Ordinances might be punctually pursued. In the 8th and 28th of Queen Elizabeth divers good Decrees were made; and in the fourth of Queen Elizabeth such Orders of the same nature as had been before in force, were revised and approved of by our Reverend Judges CATLYN and DYER [see pp. 189-190]. Also the third and fourth of Edward sixth; and the third of King James; and other Statutes need not now to be instanced in.

1. But as to the first and publike aym of regulation in Printing, &c. Viz. The advancement of Knowledge, &c. The main care is to appoint severe Examiners for the licensing of things profitable, and suppressing of things harmfull: and the next Care is, That the endeavours of those Examiners may not be frustrated. The Starre-Chamber, and High Commission Court is now removed, and for supply of that Government which is faln therewithall, a now Bill is to be passed in Parliament; and till that Bill can be passed, sundry good temporary Orders have been made to redresse the exorbitancies of Neverthelesse, tis too apparent, that those Orders have not been so successefull as was wished and expected; and since the want of successe therein, cannot be imputed to the change of Judges, or change of Laws, it must needs be imputed to the change of prosecutors. The Parliament wants no power to punish Delinquents, the Orders of the Parliament want no vigour for searching of Printers houses, and seizing, taking away and defacing the Instruments of Printing, and for punishing and imprisoning all Delinquents; onely those that are the most fit Informers, want authority and encouragement to discover offences to the Parliament, or to put in execution the Orders of Parliament.

The Stationers therefore humbly desire to represent three things to the Parliament:

(1) That the Life of all Law consists in prosecution,

(2) That in matters of the Presse, no man can so effectually prosecute, as Stationers thomselves.

(3) That if Stationers at this present do not so zealously prosecute as is desired, it is to be understood, That it is partly for want of full authority, and partly for want of true encouragement.

2. In the next place also, as to the second aym of regulation, viz. The flourishing of Printing and Printers; the Stationers further humbly desire, That their advantage and benefit may be so far onely tendred and regarded, as it co-operates to the due ordering and reforming of the Presse; That authority and encouragement which they seek for, to engage them to activity and alacrity in this service of the State, if it be not such as is consistent with the publike good, if it be not agreeable to the Discipline of former times, if it be not vigorous and efficacious for the Reformation of Printing desired, they shall be no longer Suitors for it. As for matter of power, 'tis not the desire of the Stationers to be solely or confusedly entrusted with the Government of the Presse: They desire no authority in order to judgement or punishment, but onely in order to prosecution of Delinquents; and that power also they desire not to have it committed to the whole Company (though that lately hath expressed a good affection to the Parliament) but to some choice Committee, nominated by the Company, and further approved and allowed by the Parliament. Neither is it the Stationers desire that this Committee of the choicest Stationers should be enabled with too vast a Latitude of making Orders to binde the whole Company in all cases whatsoever, such limits as other Companies are confined to, such as preceding Stationers have submitted to, such as are consistent with the publike good, and Laws of the Land (according to their Charters granted by severall Princes) such and no other do they aspire to. But some abuses there are likely to arise emergently, which without extraordinary provisions pro re nata, can scarcely be suppressed; and therefore that favour which they desire, is, That they may not be abridged of all power in this kind.

Within these last four years, the affairs of the Presse have grown very scandalous and enormious, and all redresse is almost impossible, if power be not given by some binding order to reduce Presses and Apprentices to the proportion of those times which did precede these last four yeers. This is so farre from an Innovation, that tis the removall of a dangerous Innovation, and without this removall, the Company of Stationers being like a feeld overpostred with too much stock, must needs grow indigent, and indigence must needs make it run into trespasses, and break out into divers unlawfull shifts; as Cattle use to do, when their pasture begins wholly to fail.

Besides the same disorder which undoes Stationers by too great multitudes of Presses and Apprentices among themselves, causes also Strangers, as Drapers, Carmen, and others to break in upon them, and set up Presses in divers obscure corners of the City, and Suburbs; so that not onely the ruine of the Company is the more hastened by it, but also the mischief, which the state suffers by the irregularity of all is the lesse remediable. A multis quicquid peccatur, inultum est. Where Delinquents grow too numerous, they grow out of the Eye of government; tis not possible for the Stationers themselves at this day to discover their own trespassors, and tis not possible that the State should any way have the steering of the Presse, when Stationers cannot assist them therein.

This is of main consequence; For were there but a modest limited power in the Stationers to reduce Presses and Apprentices to a convenient number, by advice amongst themselves, the reformation of the Presse, would become a feasible thing; not onely all odious opprobrious Pamphlets of incendaries, Printed and invented at London, but penned in the Universities also, and re-Printed at London would be quashed: by the same means also, the shamefull custome of selling Pamphlets by Sempsters, &c. and dispersing them in the streets by Emissaries of such base condition; and the abuse of Printing in such despicable Letters [type], and base Paper, and many other exorbitancies, now offensive to the whole age, would be rectified.

3. The next thing is matter of priviledge or encouragement. As the case now stands, Stationers are so farre from having any encouragement to make them active and alacrious in the service of the state, that they cannot serve it without discouragement; and they are so farre from enjoying priviledge, that they are abridged of their ancient Right, Propriety of Copies being now almost taken away and confounded, if one Stationer preferre any Complaint against another, the Complainant shall be sure to have his Copy re-Printed out of spite, and so the ruine of bimself and family, is made the reward of his zeal and forwardnesse. And to instance onely in propriety of Copies, that in some mens understanding, is the same thing as a Monop[o]ly: Though it be not so much a free privilege as a necessary right to Stationers; without which they cannot at all subsist, Yet some men except against it as a publike injury and grievance.

Neverthelesse, Justice and Policy depend as much upon propriety [i.e. individual ownership] of some things, as upon Community of others; and 'twould as much dissolve the bonds of humane society, to lay open some benefits of nature, as to inclose others. Therefore that an orderly preservation of private Interest, and propriety in Copies is a thing many wayes beneficiall to the state, and different in nature from the engrossing, or Monopolizing some other Commodities into the hands of a few, to the producing scarcity and dearth, amongst the generality. The Stationers desire leave to offer these considerations.

(1) Books (except the sacred Bible) are not of such generall use and necessity, as some staple Commodities are, which feed and cloath[e] us, nor are they so perishable, or require change in keeping, some of them being once bought, remain to Childrens Children, and many of them are rarities onely and usefull only to a very few, and of no necessity to any, few men bestow more in Books then what they can spare out of their superfluities, and the gain of such as live by selling of Books is not so great, as to raise them to an equality of riches with many others of more sordid and ignoble professions. And therefore propriety in Books maintained amongst Stationers, cannot have the same effect, in order to the publike, as it has in other Commodities of more publike use and necessity.

(2) A well regulated propriety of Copies amongst Stationers, makes Printing flourish, and Books more plentifull and cheap; whereas Community (though it seeme not so, at first, to such as look lesse seriously, and intentively upon it) brings in confusion, and many other disorders both to the damage of the State and the Company of Stationers also; and this will many wayes be evidenced.

For first, If it be lawfull for all men to Print all Copies, At the same time severall men will either enviously, or ignorantly [i.e. of the others' impressions] Print the same thing, and so perhaps undo one another, and bring in a great waste of the Commodities, whereby the State shall be at losse, and discord, and enmitties will also follow, whereby Christianity it self shall be scandalized.

Secondly, The fear of this confusion will hinder many men from Printing at all, to the great obstruction of Learning, and suppression of many excellent and worthy peeces. Doctor Preston, Doctor Sibe[E]s his [or rather their] works, a large Concordance for the Bible, and very many other Books of singular use and esteem, are now out of Print, and the age must still be deprived of them, for no man dares, or can with safety Print them. In other countries where regulation is strict, the Tomes and Volumes of Fathers and Schoolmen, and some Books with costly Plates, are Printed to the honour and benefit of the publike many wayes, whereas the Printing of Pamphlets is now the utmost ambition of Stationers in England. And even in Pamphlets too there is a great hazard, for scarce one book of three sells well, or proves gainfull to the publisher, and therefore the certaine charge of Printing being so great, and the profit so unsure, it is no policy to venture too far.

Thirdly, Confusion or Community of Copies destroyes that Commerce amongst Stationers, whereby by way of Barter and Exchange they furnish bookes without money one to another, and are enabled thereby to print with lesse hazard, and to sell to other men for lesse profit.

Fourthly, Community as it discourages Stationers, so it's a great discouragement to the Authors of Books also; Many mens studies carry no other profit or recompense with them, but the benefit [copyright] of their Copies; and if this be taken away, many Pieces of great worth and excellence will be strangled in the womb, or never conceived at all for the future.

Fifthly, In many cases Community will [cause] injustice, as well as discouragement; for many Families have now their Lively-hoods by Assignments of Copies, some Orphans and Widows have no other Legacies and Dowries to depend upon; and there is no reason apparent why the production of the Brain should not be as assignable, and their interest and possession (being of more rare, sublime, and publike use, demoriting the highest encouragement) held as tender in Law, as the right of any Goods or Chattells whatsoever.

And as these and many other are the mischiefs of Community, redounding so many severall waves to Authors, Owners, to Printers, to the State, and to the Church, so propriety produces the contrary effects; for he that is sure of his Copy [Copyright], though the same cost 3 or 4001 if he cannot raise his money disbursed at the first Impression. vet being assured of benefit by after Editions, he may sell cheaper at first then he buyes, to the great ease of other men.

Besides, it will be a means to relieve the poverty of the Company of Stationers, and by that means remedy those many disorders which necessarily attend poverty; and if any disorders happen, it will animate and sharpen Stationers to be zealous in detecting them, and bringing the offenders to condigu punishment:

And as this may be truely said in defence of Propriety, as it concerns private men in their Interests, so much more may be said for Propriety of such Copies as the whole Company have a Right in, the good of so many hundreds being far more considerable then the good of any particular (which cannot be reputed a Monopoly, though of common and universall use, because common to the entire Profession.) For since Propriety has been confounded, and their Interest lost in those Copies which anciently belonged to them, the whole Company (whose chief, and almost sole Revenues and support, was the annual benefit accrewing from their Copies now Printed from them) has drooped and grown It has no common stock to provide Magazines of Corn, Arms, &c. for the States necessities, nor to pay Subsidies, or other frequent Assessements, charged by Parliament; nor to maintain their poor, being many, and requiring 2001 per annum. And all the freehold they now have belonging to the Corporation, together with their Common-seal, lyes at this present engaged for 1500, borrowed lately at interest for the service of the Parliament. Nor have they so much as a Common-Hall of their own to assemble in: nor can they any longer remain incorporate, or any way priviledged by their Charter, but must immediately moulder away, and dissolve without some redresse of this irregularity.

More of propriety needs not be said, nor of any other domestical Priviledges or Rights belonging to the Stationers.

And for forraign abuses, little need to be alleadged. Tis obvious to all, That (if we will establish a just regulation) forraign Books must be subjected to examination, as well as our own, and that all such Importation of forraign Books ought to be restrained as [it] tends to the disadvantage of our native Stationers. By the first of Richard the third. forraign Books were allowed, the manufacture of Printing being then rude, and imperfect in England. But by the 25 of Henry 8, the English being then grown more expert, for their benefit it was repealed. And in France where Printing eminently flourishes, if any Books be brought from Geneva to Lyons, or from Lyons to Paris Printed there [i. e. at Geneval, they are seized by the Searchers, and confiscate [d] without remedy; And nothing conduceth more to the flourishing of that profession there, then this rigid and severe observance of regulation.

Now therefore all these premises considered, and forasmuch as irregular Printing, hath of late been the fewell in some measure of this miserable Civill-Warre, by deceiving the multitude, and hath brought into both Church and State, sundry other mischiefs and miseries, as well as poverty and desolation upon the Corporation of Stationers. It is most humbly prayed, That some speedy course may be taken for such a perfect regulation of the Presse, as may procure the publike good of the State, by the private prosperity of the Stationers Company. [E 247]

It is one of the marvels of Thomason's Collection of Tracts, that such printed slips as this and the one at p. 594 did not escape him.

To all Printers, Booke-sellers, Booke-binders, Freemen of the Company of Stationers.

OU are desired by the Committee that was chosen by you at a Common Hall the first of Aprill last, to be at Stationers Hall the 23. day of this instant June, being Munday, at eight of the clock in the morning, to take an Account from the said Committee, of what they have done in pursuance of that trust you reposed in them, concerning Reformation and Printing, and to compleat the Subscriptions for the printing of the Bible &c. that the Manufacture of the Kingdome maye not be utterly lost: of which you are desired not to faile, it being for a generall good. Dated this thirteenth day of June 1645. [E. 288/9.]

This notice was only issued on the 19th of June, see p. 592.

THOMASON has marked on his copy of this Report of the Committee the following, "21 June 1645. Delivered"

To all Printers, Booke-sellers, Booke-binders, Free-men of the Company of Stationers.

Hereas there have beene many grievances and complaints in the Company of Stationers for a long time about and concerning severall Stocks, Monopolies, the Government of the Corporation, their Monies, Lands, and the Printing and Dispersing Seditious and Scandalous Bookes against the State; Concerning which latter the honourable Committee of the House of Commons for Examinations called the Master [Robert Mead] and Wardens [John Parker and Richard Whitaker] to an Accompt, and Ordered them to call a Common Hall the 23, day of January last [1645], for the redresse thereof, which was accordingly done, but no redresse concluded on:

After which, another Common Hall was held the first of April 1645. called (at the earnest request of them that were imployed in the Examination of what Master Underhill spake in the behalfe of the Company) the 23. day of January, who with his consent condescended that all that he said should be laid aside (though sufficiently proved) and that the Reformation of the government should be prosecuted, on purpose to Compose all differences, and for the Reformation of the Company, as the onely way to make it serviceable to the State, and profitable to it selfe:

In prosecution whereof, the Master, Wardens, and whole Commonalty did, by an Order then and there made, choose a Committee of 12. men of the Company, to fit the Ordinances of the Company to the present and future welfare of it (considering that whatsoever may be desired, as to Reformation, may be included in Ordinances;) also to compose the manner and way of the Companies [i. e. Company's] printing the Bible, &c, And to view over all the Accompts, Writings and Evidences belonging to the

Which Committee did with one consent meet many times, communicating their conceptions and endeavours to each other for the accomplishing the aforesaid ends, went to Counsell to know what was the undoubted power of the Commonalty, in case the Master or Wardens should oppose them, being loth to doe any thing against either the fundamentall constitution of the Corporation, Law, or Equity, that so (if possible) the mouthes of all opposers might be stopped.

And also demanded the viewing of the Books of Accompt, and Writings of the Corporation, according to their Order, the better to satisfie themselves and the Company, in and concerning the State of the same; which demand the Wardens in a icering manner denied.

Notwithstanding which discouragement, the Committee with one consent agreed. that the first requisite work to be done in the Reformation of the Company, was, that the Assistants should resigne up their places into the hands of the Corporation, and submit unto a new choyce (because the Company have for many years conceived that most of their grievaneos proceeded from thence) and accordingly took the voluntary Subscriptions of sixteen of the Assistants, to a paper of Resignation :

After all which, the Master, Wardens and Assistants upon the 28. of April [1645].

did vertually resigne up their places of Assistants unto the Company, upon the Committee condescending, in manner following; namely, That they were content, that the Master, the two Wardens, Master Downes and Master Stevens should jovne with them in the nomination of a certaine number of Assistants, to be presented unto a Common Hall for the Companies confirmation, the number agreed upon was 28. besides the Master and Wardens.

Upon the 29 April the Committee and the said five persons, namely, the Master and Wardens, Master Downes and Master Stevens, met at Stationers Hall, and there nominated 28, out of 42 [? proposed]. Yea, at the request of the Master and Wardens the Committee joyned with them in nominating three more, that is in all 31, besides the Master and Wardens; which being done, the said five gave the Committee thanks for their paines, which was the end of that dayes work :

But afterwards the said five persons or their Agents, privately among themselves, altered both numbers, figures and names of what was done, without the knowledge of the Committee.

The aforesaid nomination being past, the Committee met severall times, and having agreed upon their sence of the said nomination, viz. That notwithstanding the same, yet that the said nominated men were not properly Assistants, untill confirmed at a Common Hall, before which time, and upon all occasions since, both the Wardens have affirmed; that the Committee was no Committee, and that they had no more work to doe, which they would prove by a clause in the end of the Order, viz. And they are desired to finish these things by the end of May; as if it could in reason be thought that the Company would prejudice it self by limiting their Agents unto too short a time to doe their work in, or that those words, You are desired, could be construed, You must, shall, or, are appointed, &c.

Which carriage of the said Wardens the Committee took no notice of, but proceeded in their work, and resolved upon the Companies [i. e. Company's] sudden setting upon the printing the Bible by a new Stock; and (after their advising with the Master and Wardens, expressing their great willingnesse of a faire correspondency) it was agreed upon, that the Bible should speedily begin and be continued, and that it should be begun with the English Stock-money (if the Master, Wardens and Partners would,) and that it should be managed by the present Stock-keepers, and foure of the Committee added unto them, untill at a Common Hall the Subscriptions should be perfected, the new Stock-keepers and Treasurer chose by the new Partners, and monies brought in, and that the first money which should be received upon the said Subscriptions, should pay the English Stock all their disbursements about the same, which was all of it consented unto by the Master, Wardens, and all that sate at the Table, and accompted of that validity with the Stock-keepers, that they would not doe any thing in it, untill they had the Copy [i. e. the manuscript] of the said Agreement of the Committee, signed by one of the Committee appointed by the rest so to doe.

The Bible being thus begun, the Committee resolved upon a Common Hall, speedily to be called for the perfecting the Subscriptions, and the forming the new Stocke, and though by their order they (that is, all, or the major part) have power to call a Common Hall, yet were they willing it should be done by the Master or Wardens, as a testimony of their respect unto them, as such; and therefore importuned by the Master for a Common Hall, who was not willing to grant it untill he had consulted with the Wardens, who then were (one or both of them) out of Towne, yet promised one by a certaine day at the furthest.

The Committee staid till both of them were in Towne, and then renewing their request, were promised a Hall at a fixed day; but their minds being changed, another day they set, and yet in stead of a Hall the Committee were unexpectedly sent for, and demanded to declare what they would have done at a Common Hall; they answered, that it was to have the Assistants Table compleated and confirmed, and to perfect the Subscriptions for the printing of the Bible:

All this while no signe of their willingnes to call a Common Hall, untill at last they sent for the Committee, desiring of them that the aforceaid 31, might be reduced into 28, before a Common Hall were called, the Committee setting about that yory thing upon the twelfth of this June, there being present Master Bellamy, Master Sparke, Master Miller, Master Chappell, Master Partridge, Master Cotes, Master Thomasin, Master Medlicote, and Master Underhill; it was agreed upon by this Committee (though the Master and Wardens could not expect such a diminishing act from them. having oft times affirmed that they were no Committee, and had denied them the viewing over of such Writings and Books which they had need of, for their discharging that trust expressed in their order) that those 31 should be reduced unto 28. The Committee rising, sate again the same day, there being present Master Bellamy, Master Miller, Master Chappell, Master Cotes, Master Medlicote, Master Allen, and Master Underhill; and it was agreed upon, and condescended unto, that the 31 men should be reduced unto 28 by the Committee, and the forementioned five that were not of the Committee, namely, the Master, the Wardens, Master Downes and Master Stevens. And thus farre both sides agree.

At the same Committee it was decreed (on purpose as is conceived to make a breach) not as the desire, but as the positive resolution of the Master and Wardens, that Master Sparke and Master Partridge (though then not present) must and should enter into bond suddenly before a Common Hall, for the paying of their fines for Renter Wardens, which Master Allen and Master Underhill conceived they could not consent unto, but (* consonant to a former Order) earnestly moved, that their entering into bond might not be required untill they were confirmed by a Common Hall, and that they might be confirmed (if the Company would) upon those very termes, so that unlesse they should performe them, they could be no Assistants. reasons alleadged by Master Allen and Master Underhill to enforce this Motion, were, that this was a loving, smooth, safe way, against which the said two persons could not except, and by which the Company could not be prejudiced; their reasons against exacting their bonds before the Common Hall, were, because they conceived it would tend much to the prejudice and infamy of those men, when thereby they should seem, not onely to expect and bespeak the places of Assistants, but so to purchase and make themselves sure of them beforehand, although neither the one nor the other doth (as they professe) desire the places, and are as likely to be opposed at a Common Hall as any men, it being the great designe of some men, (whose spirits are coole enough in reference to the publike) to defame them by slanderous reports; which may so be called, except any thing can be proved against them, and if they should so (beforehand) engage thomselves, what ill use would men make of it? It would by some (as dirt perpetually east in their faces) be said, if they should have the places, that they purchased their Peace with money, and if they should not have them, that though they expected such places, yet they went without them: By such reasons as those, the whole Committee were of one mind, That their not sealing untill a Common Hall could no way prejudice the Company, and therefore did all of them as one man, desire the Master and Wardens not to stand upon it, who would not be perswaded, Whereupon some of the Committee were content to condescend to them, and some others dissented, and then the Committee rose before anything was agreed upon by the Committee, as to that thing pleaded for.

^{*}Of the 29 of April [1645], where it was agreed that they should give Bond for the payment thereof, but no expression that they should so doe, before they were confirmed at a Common Hall.

Thus you have a full, briefe and true Narration of the proceedings of the Committee, and wherein the present difference lyeth, between it, and the Master and Wardens, that so all men of the Company may judge, first, whether the Master and Wardens with some few whom they please to call unto them (without the knowledge or consent of the Company in Common Hall assembled) taking upon them to settle the Assistants Table, and to enjoyne men, to their great prejudice, to enter into such Bonds as aforesaid, upon penalty of not being capable of being chosen Assistants, nor of having the parts or priviledges of Assistants in any kind, be not an arbitrary Government, which is against the Oath of every free-man. Secondly, who have been the retarders of the Reformation of the Government of the Company, and of its printing the Bible, &c. whether the Committee (who can establish nothing without a Common Hall, as appears by their Order) or the Master and Wardens, who have denied, or at least, put off a Common Hall four or five times, after they at each time had agreed thereunto, without which the matter cannot be brought to perfection. Why should any just man feare a Common Hall?

As for the Committee, they did really intend the generall good of the Company by the Reformation of all things amisse in the Government of it, to its owne profit, and the States service, by searching out a way how seditious books may be suppressed, by the Companies [Company's] printing the Bible, and all books belonging to Patentees, so farre as may stand with the good pleasure of the State, by procuring the calling in of the Scotch Patent, and the suppressing the Importation of Bibles from beyond the Sea, (for while that continues, the Kingdome doth not onely lose that manufacture, but this Company their trade also among Haberdashers and such others as never served unto it, as we all find by wofull experience;) And by procuring that those who have been entrusted with the Estate and Immunities of the Corporation, may give an accompt thereof; from the accomplishment of all which they have been hitherto hindered by the Master and Wardens, and such other obstructions, as may be by all men collected out of this Relation: Yet are confident that the Corporation hath full power to reforms, and to establish what shall be for their owne good, and the good of Posterity, and therefore if we be ruin'd, it is from our selves: For the prevention whereof, the major part of the Committee (as under their handes may appeare) did agree upon calling a Common Hall, and caused five hundred Tickets to be printed to that purpose, which were delivered unto Master Hunsoot by Master Fetherston, June 19 1645, to be dispersed according to the accustomed manner; which Ticket here followes.

[Then follows the Ticket, as printed from an original above.]

Let all that desire the happinesse of the Company labour to be of one mind, seeking what is just, without respect of Persons, Amen. [E. 288/44.]

This is one statement. The Rejoinder to it consisted of the following Petition to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen which was subscribed at Stationers' Hall on the 14th June 1645 (that is the day after the date but before the issue of the Committee's Notice for a Common Hall, at p. 589), by twenty-nine Members of the Livery and one hundred and sixty-four Members of the Yeomany, in the presence of the Master, Wardens and twenty-eight Assistants.

I am indebted to the present Clerk for the following text of this Petition; taken from the copy at p. 153 of Record Book A, belonging to the Company. It has hitherto been the sole known proof of the Brotherhood of the Text Writers; of which we have now afforded independent testimony.

To the right honourable the Lord Major of the Citty of London and the right worshipful the Aldermen his Bretheren.

The humble peticon of the Master Wardens and Assistants of ye Company of Staconers—London

SHEWETH

Hat your petitioners predecessours were made a Brotherhood in ye 4th yeare of the raigne of King HENRY ye 4th And had then Ordinances for the good government of their fellowship and so continued untill the third and 4th yeares of the raigne of King Phillip and Queene Mary At which tyme they for the better strengthning of the government and good order of the Company had granted to them a Charter of Incorporation and their former ordinances being somewhat defective (about five years after the grant of their said Charter) with some alteracons and addicons were Confirmed according to the statute of 19° henry 7 By which the ancient Brotherhood and Charter, the said Corporacon hath byn governed for the space of 240 yeares without interruption But so it is that Certain persons members of this Society out of private humor and designe (perhapps) of profitt to themselves doe endeavor to the great disturbance of ye said Company in undue manner to sett aside the good order that hath byn in their said Company long Continued in peace by observance of the said ordinances both before and since their said Charter: ffor ye more Colourable effecting whereof ye said persons have laboured, to possesse the Comunalty of their said Company that ye choice of Master and Wardens and removeing of the present Assistantes is solely in their power and to that purpose have Completted for a Comon hall to bringe their designe to passe

Now forasmuch as this attempt is of very evill Consequence and strikes at the root of government and if suffred will not onely bring Confusion upon your petitioners but be exemplary for ye effecting the like distractions in other Companyes (your petitioners baveing used their utmost endeavours for their satisfaction in all things desired) And for that such a change of their present government doth tend not onely to the disgrace of those persons now in place but also to the utter ruinating of a joynt stock of great valew, upon the securing whereof the maine subsistence of divers widdows and many others of the said Company doth depend And (as your petitioners humbly conceive) it is proper to this honourable Court to respresse Such disturbances and to setle pr [?] in the Companies of London in case of such differences.

They therefore humbly pray That this honourable Court will be favourably pleased to order that the said parties (such as your petitioners shall nominate, whome they take to be actors for ye said Innovacon) may be aummoned to appeare before this honourable Court That so the deciding of all differences between them and your petitioners may be heard and Concluded as by this honourable Court shall be thought fitt.

And they shall ever pray &c.

It will be seen from p. xxxii that this petition is wrong in stating that the Confirmation of the 10th November 1559 made 'some alteracons and addicons' to the first Charter. If the 500 Notices issued by the Committee represented approximately the number of the members of the Society: it would seem that the above 224 who approved of this Petition only constituted a very large minority. But it is very likely from the result, that they outnumbered the active Reforming party.

The Saturday before the Meeting summoned by the Committee, the Executive issued the following notice apparently in the ordinary form:—

By the Master and Wardens of the Company of Stationers.

To all Free-men of the said Company.

OU are required (according to your Oath) to make your appearance at Stationers Hall on Monday the thirtieth day of this present Fune, at eight of the Clock in the morning, being Quarter day, and a Commonhall; whereof you are not to fail, and you are desired not to depart untill the Court shall dismisse you.

Stationers Hall the 21th of June, 1645. [E. 288/43.]

It would seem as if the Meeting on the 23rd June 1645 was unsuccessful for the Reformers; for four days later the following Minute was passed by the Mayor and Court of Aldermen of London.

Jovis vicesimo sexto die Junij 1645.

STATIONERS COMPANY.

Item This day vpon the humble peticon of the master wardens and assistants of the Company of Staconers London therby intymatings That certaine persons members of their societie Doe indeavour (to the greate disturbance of the said company) in vadue manner to possesse the Cominalltie of their said Company That the choyce of master and wardens and removeinge of the present assistants is solely in their power And to that purpose have completted for a Common hall to bringe their designe to passe And that master ffetherston master Sparkes master Tompson Master Patridge and master Vnderhill are Actors for the said innovacon. This Courte takinge this businesse into consideracon as a matter of ill consequence tendinge not only to the distracon and confusion vpon the said company But vpon the good and peaceable government of all other companies Doth order that the said parties be summoned to appeare before this Courte on Tewesday next [1 July 1645] to answer the contempt of the said peticoners./.

Repertory 57, (see p. 473) Part 2, fol. 146 b.

Thomason has dated the following anonymous paper, the "28th June 1645." It evidently expresses the dissatisfied mind of some of the radical reformers of the Society.

We desire to know of the Committee what Service they have done to the State, and what good they have done for regulating of Printing, and reforming the Company.

Our desire is that you give us, your Brethren, the best and fullest satisfaction you may or can in these Particulars following.

What the English Stock is worth in value, which was fourteen thousand pound at

What the Latine Stock is now worth? It was at first seven thousand pound, the addition to it four thousand pound.

What the Irish Stock is worth, which was three thousand pound.

What the Grammer produced: three hundred pound we paid towards it,

What became of the money we gave to defend us in the Latin-stock-Shute [i. e. suit].

Quære. What is become of the Livery Fines?

What is become of Renter-Wardens Fines?

What is become of Newton Farme?

What is become of Master John Nortons gift?

What is become of Master Standeshes gift?

What is become of Master George Bishops gift?

What is become of all the Pole-Money, and what left?

What is become of Master Thomas Adams his gift?

What is become of the Corn-money?

What is become of the 75, pound of M. B.

We desire to know to whom the Corporation [i. e. the Company's] money is Lent, and how Master Nortons money, with others, is and hath been disposed of? &c.

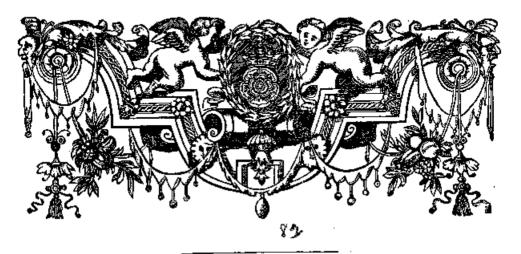

[E. 290/7 in the British Museum.]

For all the controversy however—probably through the Company being so equally divided—Robert Mead was re-elected Master this year; and John Parker and George Miller were elected the new Wardens.

CORRIGENDA.

It is suggested that these corrections should be mide at once. In the printing, the Small Paper impression was printed first, and an error in it has sometimes been detected ere the Large Paper impression went to press. The Breata marked † will therefore be only found in Small Paper copies.
