PREFACE

I take this occasion to acknowledge my great debt to Professor F. F. Abbott of Princeton University. At his suggestion, I undertook this investigation, and, during the course of my work upon it, his advice and criticism have been invaluable. I desire to express my deep gratitude also to Professor Edward Capps and Professor D. R. Stuart, both of Princeton University, for their helpfulness and interest in my work.

INTRODUCTION

The object of this investigation is to gain from a study of the Latin inscriptions additional information in regard to the use and meaning of two groups of words: terms of endearment and names of family relationship. In the former group are included all adjectives expressive of personal affection or regard, e. g., carissimus, optimus, and piissimus. In the second group are included (1) words expressing the relations which exist within the close family group (familia in the narrower sense), and (2) words indicating certain relations existing outside the family, but within the household (familia in the broader sense).

It may seem at first glance that there is slight connection existing between these two groups of words, but when one considers that in sepulchral inscriptions terms of endearment are applied almost exclusively to members of the family and that, on the other hand, names of relationship appear usually with at least one endearing epithet, it is seen that the two groups form a convenient and logical unit for study.

The sixth volume of the Latin Corpus has been chosen as the field for investigation because, in the first place, it contains so large a number of inscriptions (over 35000) that generalizations based on a study of them will have weight; secondly, because, owing to the fact that an index is yet lacking, this great mass of inscriptions is quite inaccessible to the casual investigator; and, finally, because these inscriptions, coming as they do from the city of Rome, will, on account of their comparative freedom from dialectal peculiarities, be a more valuable commentary on usage in literature than would inscriptions from the provinces or other sections of Italy.

Only a very small percentage of the inscriptions can be dated. Hence any systematic attempt to trace in detail the development of usage or meaning would be extremely difficult, if not quite impossible. It would, indeed, be very desirable to ascertain with definiteness the period in which a particular term of endearment had vogue, and the stages by which another epithet supplanted it in popular favor; to determine the period during which a given name of relationship had a certain meaning, and the approximate date at which it developed a slightly different meaning. But it is not the object of this dissertation to make such an attempt. In only a few cases, in which a word exhibits a striking shift of meaning, has the probable course of development been traced out. The results obtained are, therefore, as it were, composites of usage or meaning from the second century B. C. to the middle of the sixth century A. D.

My method of work has been as follows: All inscriptions containing each word have been collected and compared and the results reduced as far as possible to statistical form. These statistics for the various words have then been compared and the results of the comparison set forth in compact form. The completeness with which references are given depends first on the frequency of a word's occurrence. Obviously to cite all inscriptions in which carissimus or dulcissimus occurs (each is found over 1500 times) would be quite useless. My plan, therefore, has been to quote a few inscriptions in which such a word appears in its ordinary meaning and then to illustrate by citations all unusual forms or meanings. On the other hand, in the case of rarer words (that is, words found less than 15 times) full references are usually given. Another consideration which has influenced me in determining the number of references which should be given under a particular word, has been the interest which the word has for us. For instance, I have given references to every inscription in which tata or mamma is found, although each occurs far oftener than 15 times, because these words are not frequent in literature and much is still to be learned in regard to them. Quotations have been made rather freely since the Corpus may not be readily accessible to some who may have occasion to consult this thesis.

In quoting from an inscription, it has not seemed needful to indicate omissions save when such omissions fall within the limits of the portion quoted. In such cases, the usual sign of omission, ..., is used. The sign [...] denotes a break in the stone. Restorations accepted by the editors which seem reasonably sure are not indicated. Where the words appear on the stone, however, I give them as they stand regardless of errors in spelling or syntax.

CHAPTER I.

TERMS OF ENDEARMENT.

In this chapter all adjectives expressing regard or love¹ are considered. Those which are found over 20 times are treated separately in the order of their frequency. Those occurring less than 20 times are collected into one section at the end of this chapter and are arranged in alphabetical order.

MERENS AND MERITUS.

These two participles of mero occur on the stones with such extreme frequency that it has not seemed advisable to collect the instances of their use and work out complete statistics² as has been done in all other cases. In order, however, to get a basis for forming our estimate as to the number of times they occur in volume VI, two groups of inscriptions (13000-14000 and 28000-29000³) have been examined. In the 2000 inscriptions the two words, alone and in phrases, appear 474 times. We may say with safety then, I think, that in the 36000 inscriptions of the volume, they occur 8000 times or 5 times as often as carissimus which stands second in point of frequency. The two words and the phrases in which they appear are:

merens: Infrequent. It occurs 20 times in the first 15000 inscriptions, e. g., 6604 conservo suo merenti, 14247 maritae s. mer., 14252 filiae suaec fec. me. merentissimus: Rare. e. g., 9533 fratri...merentissimo. bene merens (or benemerens). Very frequent. It occurs 461 times in the 2000 inscriptions examined. In about $\frac{1}{5}$ of the instances it is written as one word. The following is a fairly complete list of the forms in which the phrase appears: (1) Spelling (dat. sing.): benae merenti 13419—baenae merenti 13875—vene merenti 10708—benemereti 13714—bene merinte 28448—bene merite 28503—bene menrenti 28261. (2) Abbreviations: bene merent. 10566—bene meren. 3193—bene mer. 10745—bene m. 13609—ben. mer. 28180—ben.

³ References without volume number are to volume VI.

me. 28218—be. me. 28480—b. mer. 28893—b. merenti 13630—b. n. m. 13165—benemerent. 28088, benemer. 28129—benem. 2561—b. m. t. 21872—b. m. 29022. The abbreviation given last is by far the most frequent. In the first 3500 inscriptions bene merens is found 623 times. In 231 cases or $\frac{1}{3}$ of the total, it appears in the form b. m. benemerentissimus (3):⁴ 13023 coiugi benemerentissimae, 14322, 19028. de se bene merens: Found 31 times in the first 15000 inscriptions. Three arrangements of the parts of the phrase occur as follows: de se bene merens (20): 14936—bene merens de se (9): 14110—bene de se merenti (2): 14732. bene de se meritus: Found 25 times in the first 15000 inscriptions. The phrase appears in the following arrangements: bene de se meritus (14): 14146—bene meritus de se (6): 11617—de se bene meritus (5): 10450. optime de se meritus: Found 6 times in the first 15000 inscriptions, each time in the order given: 12161, 14043. Miscellaneous phrases: omnia de se merenti 11252—bene de univers [...] merito 14134—erga se benemerenti 14926—bene merenti a se 28415.

CARISSIMUS.

This adjective is found 1713 times, that is, on an average, in one out of every 21 inscriptions.

I. FORM.

(a) Spelling: Initial k (645): 11339, 14008—dat. fem. carissima: 10438, 34421—dat. fem. carissimai 35592—dat. fem. carissime (26): 3420, 17325, 29205—dat. fem. carissimi: 8958, 33206, 35863—dat. masc. karissimae 23009—carisimus (7): 21273, 23386, 29324, 33507, 20094—cariccimus 13327—carisstmus 20211—carissumus 6593—carrissimus 27820—carssimus 27002—karisimus: 31869, 32297—krissimus 13334. (b) Abbreviations: carissim. (57): 8412, 10170, 25785; at end of line 48 times—karissim. (39): 16885, 18066, 22162; at end 30 times—kar. (30): 8447, 14251, 20847; at end 14 times—cariss. (27): 6902, 13605, 23619; at end 20 times—kariss. (27): 8116, 12457, 22561; at end 18 times—car. (24): 14284, 21121, 28293; at end 11 times—k (11): 2443, 10557, 21232; at end twice—karis. (11): 3160, 8575, 18233; at end 7 times—carissi. (10): 5227, 11114, 15454, at end of 7 times—karissi. (8): 8065, 16633, 21871; at end 6 times; broken at end of line twice: 4779 ka|rissi., 29363 k|arissi.—caris. (6): 4624, 16188, 23738; at end 4 times—ca. 29397—carism. 28999—carisi. 24007—karisi. 32297—karisn. 17412—krm. 19037—carissum. 6593—c. 3218 (?).

We have seen that in the 1713 times that carissimus appears, initial k is found 645 times, that is in but a little over a third of the cases. But k as an abbreviation for carissimus occurs 11 times, c as an abbreviation, but once. The indices of the other volumes show but one other c. for carissimus (X 3148) and the editors are in some doubt regarding it in that case. The extreme infrequency of c. as an abbreviation may be explained by the fact the sound of c before a was recognized by the Romans as differing slightly in quality from the sound of c before e and i (Seelman, Aussprache d. Latein, ⁴ A number in parentheses standing after a word indicates the number of times the word occurs. When no number is given, the occurrences of the word are all referred to.

p. 341; Sommer, Hand. d. lat. Laut. u. Formenlehre, p. 31). In early times, the k had been used to represent this sound before a and the feeling that there was a propriety in using k before a persisted. The k must have suggested to the reader of the inscription a following a and so have given a clue to the word. Note the use of ca. once (cf. also IX. 2088). It would be the practical equivalent of k. Perhaps, too, the frequency of c. for clarissimus in later times was an additional reason for the rejection of c. for carissimus.

2. COLLOCATION.

(a) Order: Variations from the usual order noun, adjective are produced: (1) by the addition of the poss. pron. (270) : inserted between noun and adj. (254) : 21860 coniugi suo carissimo—placed after adj. (14) : 19195 filio carissimo suo, 20164, 28815—placed before the noun: 27352 suo fratri carissimo, 2371. (2) by the insertion of other words between noun and adj. (4) : 16204 mater filio fecit carissimo, 16793, 16394, 23472. (3) by inversion (22) : 20397 fecit Euhodus carissimae coniugi, 15660, 20397, 26853. Of instances of inverted order 5 are from metrical inscriptions: 25617, 6593, 18385, 24808, 16230. Carissimus is joined with one other adjective 105 times. 84 times it stands first.

The prevalence of the order carissimus, pientissimus and carissimus, piissimus is particularly noticeable. With optimus, on the other hand, the order is in every case optimus, carissimus.

3. MEANING.

In attempting to determine the meaning of a term of endearment, it is necessary first of all to ascertain the relationship of those of whom it is used. To this end, I have classified the persons to whom carissimus is applied, first, on the basis of their rank in relation to the person applying the epithet, and, secondly, on the basis of their relationship to the person applying it. I have also determined as nearly as possible the average age of those included in each category, taking the cases where the age is definitely stated, or where it can be determined with some accuracy, as when the length of married life is recorded. The results are as follows:

Applied to superiors (71) : (a) related by blood (63) : avia (2)—⁵; mater (34) 30; parentes (6) 45; pater (21) 59. (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (8) : dominus (1)—; patrona (2)—; patronus (5) 50. Applied to equals (1121) : (a) related by blood (71) : cognatus (1)—; frater (5) 32; geminus (1)—; soror (17) 23½. (b) related by marriage (979) : concubina (3) 18½; coniunx (f.) (572) 34; coniunx (m.) (291) 40; contubernalis (f.) (30) 25; contubernalis (m.) (7) 28; maritus (14) 41½; uxor (55) 34; vir (7) 46½. Carissimus is used with the various names of relationship 1644 times. If no preferences were shown it would be applied to parents 181 times; to master or patron 49 times; to brother or sister 99 times; to husband or wife 591 times; to friends, fellow-slaves, or fellow-freedmen 66 times; to children 592 times; to slaves or freedmen 66 times. By comparing the table on page 49, we see that strong preferences were shown. Actual frequency of occurrence compared with the normal is as follows: with parents 1:3; with master or patron 1:5; with brother or sister 7:10; with husband of wife 5:3; with children 3:5; with slave or freedman 4:3. Clearly, then, carissimus is the term chosen to express the affection of husband for wife and wife for husband. The frequency of its use with such words as conservus, conserva, collibertus, colliberta, and with libertus and liberta is to be explained no doubt by the fact that in very many cases persons so designated really stood in the relation of husband or wife.

The average age of the son to whom the epithet carissimus is applied is $11\frac{2}{3}$ years, the average age of the daughter $9\frac{2}{3}$. These averages are some 2 years higher than with dulcissimus, some 4 years lower than with pientissimus.⁶ The explanation of this is not far to seek. Since, as we have seen, carissimus is used most freely of adults, it would quite naturally be more often applied to grown sons and daughters than dulcissimus which, as we shall see, is used particularly of children. On the other hand, carissimus, like dulcissimus, is of very wide application and could be used properly of the youngest infant while piissimus and pientissimus imply that the person to whom they are applied possesses pietas and therefore could not be rightly used of very young children.

Instances of the substantive use of the adjective carissimus are:

6887 Tifaniae Tycheni fecit Iulia Helpis mater et Sex. Tifanius Cresces frater carissime,⁷ 7479, 8697a Phoebus fecit carissimis M. Antonio Phoebo v. a. VII et Pannychus v. a. Instances in which the author of the inscription applies the epithet carissimus to himself:⁸

DULCISSIMUS.

Dulcissimus stands third in point of frequency, occurring 1634 times.

⁸ These instances, together with the cases of similar usage with other adjectives, are discussed at the end of this chapter.

Dulcissimus is joined with one other adjective 99 times. 76 times it stands first. With amantissimus it stands 8 times and is first each time. With incomparabilis it stands 27 times, first 26 times. With piissimus, 19 times, first 13 times. With carissimus on the other hand, it is second 16 times out of 22, and with sanctissimus it is second in every one of the 8 cases.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons with whom dulcissimus is used (v. s. carissimus, p. 4) follows:

Applied to superiors: (162): (a) related by blood (145): avia (1)—;⁹ avus (1) 87; mater (89) 50; parentes (23) 85; pater (31) 66. (b) related by marriage (1): vitricus (1)—. (c) related otherwise (13): dominus (1)—; patrona (4)—; patronus (8)—. Applied to equals (317): (a) related by blood (62): frater (43) 24; soror (19) 15½. (b) related by marriage (242): coniunx (f.) (152) 29; coniunx (m.) (55) 42; contubernialis (f.) (1)—; marita (3) 24; maritus (15) 40; uxoris (13) 24; vir (3) 50. (c) related otherwise (13): amica (2)—; amicus (2)—; collactaneus (1)—; conliberta (1)—; conlibertus (1)—; conserva (3) 21½; homo (2)—; puella (1) 16. Applied to dependents (1092): (a) related by blood (983): delicata (1)—; filia (353) 8; filius (602) 9; infans (19) 4½; natus (1) 8; nepos (7) 6. (b) related by marriage (2): filiaster (1)—; filiastra (1)—. (c) related otherwise (107): alumna (21) 8; alumnus (34) 9; educatrix (2)—; liberta (2)—; libertus (6) 23; mammula (1)—; nutritor (1)—; nutrix (1)—; puer (2) 7½; verna (f.) (13) 5; verna (m.) (24) 6.

Dulcissimus is used with the various names of relationship 1571 times. If no preferences were shown, it would be applied to parents 173 times, to master or patron 47 times, to brother or sister 94 times; to husband or wife 565 times, to friends, fellow-slaves, or fellow-freedmen 64 times; to children 566 times; to slaves or freedmen 62 times. But by comparing the table at end of this chapter we again see, as in the case of carissimus, that strong preferences are shown. Actual frequency of occurrence compared with the normal is as follows: with parents 6:7; with master or patron 1:4; with brother or sister 15:23; with husband or wife 12:24; with friends, fellow-slaves, or fellow-freedmen 1:5; with children 208:113; with slaves or freedmen 5:6. Evidently dulcissimus was the term applied to children. The average age of the son to whom the epithet is applied is 9 years; the average age of the daughter, 8 years; the average age of the alumnus and the alumna is also 9 years and 8 years respectively. These averages are about 2 years lower than with carissimus, 6 years lower than with piissimus, pientissimus and incomparabilis, and 7 years lower than with optimus. The age of the filius dulcissimus is recorded 448 times. Only 62 times is it over 17 years. 195 times is it 5 years or under. The age of the filia dulcissima is recorded 229 times. Only 38 times is it over 15 years; 87 times it is 5 years or under. Infans is found with a term of endearment 26 times. In 19 cases that term of endearment is dulcissimus. Everything points to the conclusion that dulcissimus is the particular epithet not only of children but of younger children.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom the epithet piissimus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 4) follows:

Applied to superiors (190): (a) related by blood (181): amita (1)—; avia (3)—; mater (86) 37; parens (5) 20; parentes (19)—; pater (67) 66; (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (9): patrona (2) 20; patronus (7) 35. Applied to equals (181): (a) related by blood (87): cognatus (1)—;¹⁵ frater (59) 30; soror (27) 26. (b) related by marriage (83): concubina (1)—; coniunx (f.) (38) 39; coniunx (m.) (19) 48½; contubernialis (f.) (5) 37; contubernalis (m.) (2)—; marita (1) 23; maritus (6) 41; uxor (10) 27½; vir (1)—. (c) related otherwise (11): amica (1)—; conlibertus (1)—; femina (2) 21½; iuvenis (1) 37; virgo vestalis (5)—; vir (1)—. Applied to dependents (336): (a) related by blood (328): delicium (2) 6; filia (76) 14; filius (249) 15; puer (1) 12. (b) related by marriage (2): filiastra (1) 7; privigna (1) —. (c) related otherwise (6): alumnus (2) 4; nutricius (1)—; nutrix (1)—; praceptor (1)—; verna (m.) (1)—.

The meaning of pientissimus and of piissimus is treated here in one paragraph since their identity in meaning is apparent from these facts. In the first place, they are never used side by side as modifiers of a substantive. Again, in 29639 we find the phrase pientissimorum piissimo which seems to be the same sort of a phrase as the English "bravest of the brave" and therefore equal to pientissimorum pientissimo or piissimorum piissimo. Finally and most convincing, the preferences shown in the application of the two words are in every case the same, as may be seen from the following comparison of the actual frequency of application to the persons in the various categories, with normal frequency of application. With parents: pient. 37:18, piiss. 9:4; with master or patron: pient. 14:25, piiss.

¹⁵ Cf. note 5.

3:7; with brother or sister: pient. 19:12, piiss. 29:14; with husband or wife: pient. 1:3, piiss. 1:3; with friends, fellow-slaves or fellow-freedmen: pient. 7:16, piiss. 11:28; with children: pient. 7:5, piiss. 4:3; with slave or freedman: pient. 5:8, piiss. 1:7.

Regarding pientissimus and piissimus then as really different forms of the same word, let us consider the meaning. They occur with nouns of relationship 1525 times. If no preferences were exhibited, they would be found applied to parents 167 times; to master or patron 46 times; to brother or sister 92 times; to friend, fellow-slave or fellow-freedman 61 times; to children 549 times; to slaves or freedmen 61 times. Actual number of occurrences compared with the normal is: with parents 11:5; with master or patron 3:11; with brother or sister 7:4; with husband or wife 1:3; with friend, fellow-slave or fellow-freedman 5:12; with children 18:14; with slave or freedman 2:5. It is sufficiently evident that these two terms were applied most freely to the small circle of close blood kin. The articles on pius in the lexicons lay most stress on its meaning, dutiful to one's parents. For example, the statement in Forcellini, pius proprie dicitur qui parentes, maiores, sanguine coniunctos, amicos, patriam amat colit, foveat iisque obsequitur et inservit, would hardly give the reader the proper conception of its use as revealed by the sepulchral inscriptions namely: that pius piissimus and pientissimus are used much more often to express the tender love of parent for child than the dutiful love of child for parent. It is used oftener of the love of sister for brother or brother for sister than of child for parent. The average age of the filius piissimus is 15 years, of the filius pientissimus 15 $\frac{1}{9}$, of the filia piissima 14 years, of the filia pientissima 13 $\frac{1}{2}$. These averages are 4 years higher than with carissimus, 6 years higher than with dulcissimus. This higher average age is natural considering the fact that piissimus or pientissimus could not properly be applied to a child not yet capable of possessing pietas. However they were in some cases used improperly of very young children. The parent's eye is keen to detect the first evidences of developing virtues in his child, but it seems that a child of 4 years or under could not with strict propriety be called piissimus. The filius pientissimus is 4 years old 7 times, e. g., 8642, 10643, 3 years old 7 times, e. g., 12366, 12957, 2 years old 9 times, e. g., 12670, 16161, and once 11 months old: 29148. The filia pientissima is 4 years old 7 times, e. g., 10898, 18805, 3 years old twice: 19196, 20563, 2 years old 5 times, e. g., 18805, 25011, 1 year old 3 times, e. g., 10550, 35558. The filius piissimus is 4 years old 8 times, e. g., 11506, 16400, 3 years old 5 times, e. g., 5525, 25510, 2 years old 3 times, e. g., 18831, 25056, 1 year old once: 9083, 5 months old once: 11395. The filia piissima is 4 years old twice: 16723, 18566; 3 years old once: 18462; 2 years old twice: 26266, 20080; 1 year old twice: 13802, 35937.

Optimus is found joined with one other adjective 100 times. It stands first in every case but 3. Incomparabili et optimo is found in 29617, sanctissime optime in 28449.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom optimus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 4) follows:

Applied to superiors (161): (a) related by blood (88): avus (1)—;¹⁸ mater (30) 45; parens (8)—; parentes (10)—; pater (39) 66½. (b) related by marriage (1): prosocer (1)—. (c) related otherwise (72): domina (2) 29; patrona (12) 40; patronus (58) 69. Applied to equals (428): (a) related by blood (22): consobrinus (1)—; frater (19) 29; soror (2)—. (b) related by marriage (257): coniunx (f.) (108) 38; coniunx (m.) (62) 43; contubernalis (f.) (6) 22; contubernalis (m.) (3) 22; marita (2)—; maritus (28) 44; mulier (1) —; sodalis (1)—; uxor (41) 33; vir (5) 70. (c) related otherwise (149): adulescens (1)—; amica (9)—; amicus (95) 36½; colliberta (1)—; collibertus (5)—; conservus (3)—; contubernalis (2)—; femina (14)—; homo (12) 68; iuvensis (1)—; municeps (4) 42; puella (1) 21; vir (1)—. Applied to dependents (74): (a) related by blood (40): filia (7) 17; filius (32) 15; infans (1)—. (b) related by marriage (1): privignus (1)—. (c) related otherwise (33): alumna (1)—; liberta (9) 36½; libertus (19) 26½; nutricia (1)—; servus (1) 14; verna (1)—; vicarius (1)—.

Optimus is used with names of relationship 663 times. If no preferences were shown, it would be used with parents 73 times; with master or patron 20 times; with brother or sister 39 times; with husband or wife 239 times; with friends, fellow-slave, or fellow-freedman 27 times; with children 239 times; with slave or freedman 26 times. Comparing the table at the end of the chapter, we see that the actual frequency of occurrence is to the normal as follows: with parent 6:5; with master or patron 18:5; with brother or sister 1:2; with husband or wife 14:13; with friend, fellow-slave, etc., 11:2; with children 1:6; with slave or freedman 16:13. Optimus is a general term of commendation and properly implies that the person of whom it is used has faithfully fulfilled his obligations to the person applying it. It does not imply any strong bond of affection between the two. Naturally, therefore, it is the term most often applied by friend to friend, by freedman to patron, by slave to master, by patron to freedman and by master to slave. It is used of a friend more often than all other epithets combined and of a master or patron nearly as often as all others together. It is also used quite freely of a parent and of a wife or husband. When so used it, no doubt, emphasized the respect and esteem felt for the dead rather than the affection. It is used very rarely of children. The average age of the filius optimus is 15, of the filia optima 17. The cases are so few, however, that these averages do not have the significance of those obtained with dulcissimus, carissimus, pientissimus and piissimus.

Instances in which optimus is used as a noun:¹⁹

11602 hic sita est Amymone Marci optima et pulcherrima, 9857...fratres optimo et piissimo, 14568 L. Castrici Vestalis qui vixit annis XXIII...Ti. Cl. Euhodius amicus optimo et benemerenti, 26268.

Instances in which the author of the inscription applies the epithet optimus to himself:

23368 Octaviae C. f. Volusiana...mater pientissima et...frater pientissimus et...maritus optimus, 14005 Caesiae Daphni Diana Inventianae sanctissimae coiugis optimus maritus, 22005 Manneiae Epicarpte et Cl. Valent. et Manneio Ramulo fec. Iulia Bona amica optim. (Cf. discussion at end of this chapter.)

With incomparabilis, it stands first 12 times out of 13, with carissimus 6 times out of 16, with pientissimus 11 times out of 13, with piissimus 7 times out of 15, with optimus once out of 10, with dulcissimus every one of the 6 times.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom the epithet sanctissimus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 4) follows:

Applied to superiors (24): (a) related by blood (18); mater (8);²⁰ parentes (1)—; parentes (2)—; pater (7)—. (b) related by marriage (1): socer (1). (c) related otherwise (5): domina (2) 47; patrona (1)—; patronus (2)—. Applied to equals (317): (a) related by blood (5): frater (2) 17; soror (3) 22. (b) related by marriage (264): coniunx (f.) (208) 36; coniunx (m.) (13) 33; contubernialis (f.) (4)—; maritus (5) 50; uxor (32) 33; vir (2)—. (c) related otherwise (48) amica (1)—; amicus (1)—; colliberta (2)—; collibertus (1)—; conservatrix (1)—; femina (25) 38; vir (3)—; virgo vestalis (14)—. Applied to dependents (23): (a) related by blood (15): filia (8) 13; filius (6) 21; virgo (1) 12½. (b) related by marriage (1): nurus (1)—. (c) related otherwise: ancilla (1); liberta (3) 19; libertus (3)—.

Sanctissimus occurs with a name of relationship 364 times. If no preferences were shown, it would be used with parents 40 times; with master or patron 11 times; with brother or sister 22 times; with husband or wife 131 times; with friend, fellow-slave or fellow-freedman 15 times; with children 131 times; with slave or freedman 15 times. Incomparabilis is joined with one other adjective 76 times. It stands first but 9 times. With carissimus, it stands first once out of 11 times; with dulcissimus, twice out of 28 times; with sanctissimus, once out of 13 times; with piissimus, once out of 5 times; with optimus, once out of 7 times; with pientissimus, it stands second in every one of the 4 instances.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom the epithet incomparabilis is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 4) follows:

Applied to superiors (16): (a) related by blood (12): mater (5) —;²² parentes (1)—; pater (6)—. (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (4): domina (1)—; patronus (3)—. Applied to equals (223): (a) related by blood (5): frater (5) 39. (b) related by marriage (193): compar (1)—; coniunx (f.) (123) 31; coniunx (m.) (24) 47; contubernalis (f.) (1)—; marita (1) 33; maritus (31) 42½; mulier (1) 62; uxor (11) 47. (c) related otherwise (25): amica (2)—; amicus (7)—; femina (27) 38; homo (2) 46½; mulier (2)—. Applied to dependents (24): (a) related by blood (20): filia (7) 13; filius (13) 15½. (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (4): liberta (3) 22; servus (1) 18.

Incomparabilis is used with names of relationship 263 times. If no preferences were shown, it would appear with parents 29 times; with master or patron 8 times; with brother or sister 16 times; with husband or wife 94 times; with friend, fellow-slave or fellow-freedman 11 times; with children 95 times; with slave or freedman 10 times. By comparing the table we see that with husband or wife it is used over twice as often as it should be normally, and with friends, etc., nearly 2½ times as often. In none of the other categories is it used more than ½ as often as it should be normally.

Incomparabilis, like optimus, is a term of esteem rather than endearment. It does not imply affection necessarily as does carissimus or dulcissimus. In such an inscription as 9077 coniugi karissimae et incomparabili, the first adjective emphasized the husband's affection for the wife, the second, his appreciation of her virtues. The phrase marito...incomparabili erca uxorem, which we find in 35839, must be explained as a pregnant use, the meaning being "preëminent in his dutiful love for his wife."

The author of the inscription terms herself incomparabilis in 12725: Attio Crescenti bene merepti qui vix. ann. L...fecit uxor incomp. See the discussion of such cases at the end of this chapter.

Pius is joined with one other adjective 27 times. It stands first 14 times. With frugi, it stands first in each of the 3 cases; with sanctus it stands first 4 times out of 5. Pius is joined with two or more other adjectives 21 times. In but a little over half the instances does it stand alone. There is a noticeable tendency to heap up the positive forms. There appears to have been an attempt to compensate for the omission of superlative forms by the use of a greater number of positive forms.

3. MEANING.

A classified list of the persons to whom the epithet pius is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 4) follows:

Applied to superiors (19) : (a) related by blood (17) : mater (11)—;²³ parentes (1)—; pater (5)—. (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (2) : patronus (2)—. Applied to equals (23) : (a) related by blood (7) : frater (3) 22; soror (4) 19. (b) related by marriage (11) : coniunx (f.) (8) 26; coniunx (m.) Rarissimus is joined with one other adjective 11 times. It stands first but 3 times: with incomparabilis once, with amantissimus once, and with fidelissimus once.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of the persons to whom the epithet rarissimus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 4) follows:

Applied to superiors (1): pater (1)—.²⁴ Applied to equals (54): (a) related by blood (4): frater (3) 29; soror (1) 46. (b) related by marriage (35): coniunx (f.) (25) 25; coniunx (m.) times; with husband 6 times; with friend, fellow-slave, etc., 3 times; with children 23 times; with slave or freedman twice. Actual frequency of occurrence compared with normal is as follows: with parents 1:7; with brother or sister 1:1; with wife 2:1; with husband 1:2; with friends, etc., 5:1 (the ratio in this category is raised by the presence of femina, which, in a great many cases, is really the wife); with children 1:3; with slave or freedman 1:2. Rarissimus, therefore, an epithet of about the same meaning as incomparabilis, is like incomparabilis used most freely of the wife.

Rarissimus is apparently used as a noun in 15500 Nigidiae Martinae et Cl. Martinae filiae et matri. Nigidius Martius et Q. Nigidius Teuthrans filius et pater dulcissimis sanctissimis rarissimis. (Cf. note 7.)

Fidelissimus is joined with one other adjective 27 times. It stands first only 4 times: once each with amantissimus, incomparabilis, dulcissimus and piissimus. It stands after carissimus 6 times, after optimus 7 times and after sanctissimus 4 times.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom the epithet fidelissimus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 5) follows:

Applied to superiors (1): patrona (1)—.²⁵ Applied to equals (43):
 (a) related by blood: none. (b) related by marriage (29): coniunx (f.)
 (24) 39; coniunx (m.) (4) 30; contubernalis (f.) (1)—; contubernalis (m.)

 (1)—; servus (5) 18; verna (m.) (2)—; vicarius (2)—.

Fidelissimus occurs with names of relationship 71 times. If no preferences were shown, it would appear with parents 8 times; with master or patron twice; with brother or sister 4 times; with wife 19 times; with husband 6 times; with friend, etc., 3 times; with children 26 times; with slave or freedman 3 times. Actual frequency of occurrence compared with the normal is as follows: with master or patron 1:2; with wife 23:19; with husband 1:1; with friends, fellow-slave or fellow-freedman 4:1; with children 1:13; with slave or freedman 8:1. Only once in the 71 occurrences is it used of blood kin. This clear-cut distinction in the application of the epithet is precisely what is to be expected from its root-meaning. Fidelissimus is properly used of one who is strictly observant of fides, an obligation which does not arise from blood relationship but from contract. Hence its disproportionate frequency used of an underling who is faithful in the performance of his task, of a friend faithful to the trust placed in him, and of a husband or a wife faithful to the marriage vows.

Dignissimus is joined with one other adjective 10 times. It stands in first place 6 times, twice with praestantissimus. With optimus it stands second in every one of the 3 cases.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom the epithet dignissimus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 4) follows:

Applied to superiors (20): (a) related by blood (6): mater (2) 85; parens (1)—; parentes (2)—; pater (1)—. (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (14): domina (1)—; dominus (1)—; patrona (3)—; patronus (9) 96. Applied to equals (22): (a) related by blood (5): cognata (1)—;²⁸ cognatus (1)—; frater (2) 50; soror (1)—. (b) related by marriage (10): coniunx (f.) (4)—; coniunx (m.) (5) 30; maritus (1)—. (c) related otherwise (7): amicus (3) 23; colliberta (1)—; femina (1)—; homo (1)—; mulier (1)—. Applied to dependents (2): educator (1)—; liberta (1)—.

Dignissimus is used with names of relationship 44 times. If no preferences were shown, it would appear with parents 5 times; with master or patron once; with brother or sister twice; with wife 12 times; with husband 4 times; with friend, fellow-slave or fellow-freedman twice; with children 16 times; with slave or freedman twice. But striking preferences are discernible. It is applied to dependents very rarely; to equals it is applied more freely, but yet not as often as it should be normally; to superiors it is applied $3\frac{1}{2}$ times as often as it should be normally, and to superiors not related by blood 15 times as often as we would expect normally. A term of respect and esteem, it has been chosen as the peculiar epithet of the master or patron.

Instances in which dignissimus seems to be used as a noun:

2141, 3548, 10956 matri dulcissimae... Flabius Chryseros filius dignissimae fecit, 11482, 17455, 24243... 24867, 29700 corporis curat. ex aere collato dignissimo posuerunt. (Cf. note 7.)

Amantissimus is joined with one other adjective 16 times and every time it stands second.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of the persons to whom the epithet amantisimus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 4) follows:

Applied to superiors (4): (a) related by blood (2): mater (1)—²⁷ parens (1)—. (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (2): dominus (1)—; patrona (1)—. Applied to equals (30): (a) related by blood (2): frater (1)—; soror (1)—. (b) related by marriage (24):

concubina (3)—; coniunx (f.) (4) 31½; coniunx (m.)—; marita (1) 23; maritus (1) 45; uxor (2)—. (c) related otherwise (4): amicus (1)—; femina (3) 51. Applied to dependents (14): (a) related by blood (11): filia (3) 11; filius (6) 7; natus (1)—; nepos (1) 1. (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (3): alumna (1)—; liberta (1)—; nutrix (1)—.

Amantissimus is used with names of relationship 48 times. If no preferences were shown, it would appear with parent 5 times; with master or patron twice; with brother or sister 3 times; with wife 13 times; with husband 4 times; with friend, fellow-slave, etc., twice; with children 17 times; with slave or freedman twice. By comparing the actual number of occurrences, we note a slight tendency to apply it more freely to a wife, but since the preference is not great nor based on a great number of cases, we would be hardly justified in attempting to make generalizations.

The meaning of amantissimus is often clearly active as in the following cases:

9375, 12056 Antoniae L. f. Maurae maritae...suique amantissimae, 12526, 13293, 19753, 20935, 23308, 24441, 28809, 31955, 31665, 35912, 35868 ego Provincius amantissimus tibi benemerenti feci, 27088 L. Tacilius Androma amantissimus familiae.

On the other hand the meaning is often clearly passive, as in the following cases:

8011, 8999, 9133, 11669 cupit ad suam amantissimam pervenire, 24525 Pompeia Asclepias heic sepulta est amantissima suis, 12303, 16280, 17430, 28138, 11005 filio iucundissimo et ab omnibus amantissimo, 26850.

In many cases it is quite impossible to determine whether the meaning is active or passive, e. g., 9987 coniugi amantissimae b. m. f.

Amantissimus is used as a noun in 11669, 17469 domum hanc haeternalem amantissime fecerunt. (Cf. note 7.)

Instances in which amantissimus is applied to the author of the inscription:

9133 Porcia M. C. I. Chreste amantissima suis...se viva fecit, 31665 nato amantissimo sui...parens amantissimus eius 35868. (Cf. p. 50.)

INDULGENTISSIMUS.

This adjective is found 56 times.

1. FORM.

(a) Spelling: abl. masc. indulgentissime 15473—indulgentissimus 27941.

(b) Abbreviations: indulgentissim.| 8528—indulgentiss. (3): at end: 9177, 11307. In 28964 we find the abbreviation broken thus: in|dulgentiss.—indulgent.| 29693.

2. COLLOCATION.

(a) Order: Variations from the normal are produced: (1) by insertion of poss. pron. (4): 9177, 19851, 25280, 25796—(2) by inversion: 2278, 15473.

(b) Phrases: 2125 collectaneo...indulgentissimo erga se, 8467 homini... indulgentissimo mihi. (c) Nouns with which used: collectaneus 2125—coniunx (f.) 22404—coniunx (m.) 28964—filius(?) 12932—frater 8528—homo 8467—mamma 23556—maritus (2) 1860—mater (5) 1839—parens 36124—parentes (2) 12773—pater (12) 8529—pater sacrorum 2278—patrona 12954—patronus (13) 5483—uxor 27941—vir 27901. With proper names (2): 20277, 28858. (d) Adjectives joined with it: carissimus (3): v. s. Carissimus. dulcissimus: 2125 collectaneo dulcissimo et i. erga se. optimus (12): v. s. Optimus. pientissimus (4): v. s. Pientissimus. piissimus (8): v. s. Piissimus. praestantissimus: 29445 patrono optimo ac piissimo et i. praestantissimo erga suos omnes, 28805 patrono i. praestantissimo.

Indulgentissimus is joined with one other adjective 20 times. Only once does it stand first: indulgentissimus pientissimus. Optimus indulgentissimus occurs 10 times and piissimus indulgentissimus 6 times.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom the epithet indulgentissimus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 5) follows:

Applied to superiors (34): (a) related by blood (20): mater (5);²⁸ parens (1)—; parentes (2)—; pater (12) 56. (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (4): patrona (1)—; patronus (13) 50. Applied to equals (15): (a) related by blood (1): frater (1)—. (b) related by marriage (12): coniunx (f.) (1)—; coniunx (m.) (7) 65; maritus (2) 42; uxor (1)—; vir (1)—. (c) related otherwise (2): collectaneus (1)—; homo (1) 25. Applied to dependents (2): filius (1)—; mamma (1)—.

Indulgentissimus is used with names of relationship 51 times. If no preferences were shown, it would appear with parents 6 times; with master or patron once; with brother or sister 3 times; with wife 14 times; with husband 5 times; with friends, etc., twice; with children 18 times; with slave or freedman twice. By comparing the actual number of occurrences, we see that it is used of superiors 5 times as often as it should be normally, of a husband twice as often, of equals exclusive of husband $\frac{1}{4}$ as often. With dependents it is very rare.²⁹

The epithet indulgentissimus implies that the one to whom it is applied is not only kindly and tender, but also in a position to grant favors. It is the term chosen to be applied to the father by the son, who remembers the many times his childish desires have been indulged, or to be applied to the patron by the freedman mindful of past kindnesses. The frequency of its application to the husband, singling him out, as it does, from the group of equals is significant of his place of authority in the household.

²⁸ Cf. note 5.

²⁹ It is used once of a nurse. But although the nurse was a slave or a freedwoman and so in the class of dependents, the author of the inscription no doubt let his mind run back to the time when she had been in authority over her childish charge. In 12932, it is according to the restoration of the editors of the "Corpus" applied to a son four years old. If we accept this reading, the epithet must here have a passive sense. Forcellini cites a similar usage in Quintil. "Declam.", 10, 18.

Indulgentissimus is applied to the author of the inscription once: 22897 carissimi et piissimi Nedymus et Iusta parentes indulgentissimi fecerunt vixit annis V. (Cf. discussion at the end of this chapter.)

CARUS.

This adjective is found 51 times.

1. FORM.

- (a) Spelling: initial k (9): 17365, 15258, 21852—dat. fem. cara 9275.
- (b) Abbreviations: c. 25013 (?).

2. COLLOCATION.

(a) Order: Variations from the normal order are produced: (1) by the insertion of the poss. pron.: 23363a coniugi suo karo—(2) by the insertion of other words or phrases: 11511 filio Amantio caro—(3) by inversion (4): 3593, 15258, 17365—(4) by inversion and the insertion of a word or phrase: 8047, 26680 cari lugent sine fine parentes. (b) Phrases: carus suis (17): 4963, 13660, 21981, 26467, 26932 Suetiae Rusticae cara suis lib.—carus meis: 28877 cara meis vixsi, 35887—carus mihi 21848—carus suo 8047—carus suis et coniugi 24807—his foribus carus 20569—carus cunctis: 7243, 15806—suis carus 11251, 29072 Vitalis vixit annis XVII parentibus suis cara—6098 Iucunda Mari. kara suis viva et mortua.

18 times out of a total of 26 occurrences, these phrases are found in short inscriptions of the type of 4963 A. Hirtius A. l. Malchio v. a. XL carus suis. Once not even the age is indicated: 20360. Three are from the columbaria: 6098, 4968 and 4963; five are of the freedman class: 26932, 27534, 20763, 13898, 4963; and the subject of one (14642) is a slave. Evidently, then, carus suis was a favorite formula among the lower classes who desired a comprehensive term of endearment and were at the same time compelled to seek brevity. Carus is joined with one or more other adjectives only 7 times. With one adjective only, it stands 3 times, first in every case.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom the adjective carus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 5) follows:

Applied to superiors (3): (a) related by blood (3): mater (2)—³¹ parentes (1)—. Applied to equals (13): (a) related by blood (1): soror (1)—; (b) related by marriage (11): coniunx (f.) Out of 34 occurrences, castus stands alone with its noun but 12 times; it is joined with one other adjective 10 times; with more than one other adjective 12 times. When joined with one other adjective, it stands first 6 times.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom the epithet castus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 5) follows:

Applied to superiors (3): mater (3) 25.³⁸ Applied to equals (15): (a) related by blood: none. (b) related by marriage (13): coniunx (f.) (11) 32; uxor (2)—. (c) related otherwise (2): puella (2)—, Applied to dependents (1): liberta (1) 18.

Castus is used with names of relationship 19 times. In every case it is applied to a woman, in 13 cases to a wife. (See discussion under Castissimus.)

Castus is used substantively in 14404 Iunia, castarum hoc es in orbe decus.

PRAESTANTISSIMUS.

This adjective is found 21 times.

1. FORM.

(a) Spelling: prestantissimus 1578. (b) Abbreviations: none.

2. COLLOCATION.

³⁸ Cf. note 5.

max. sanctissimae religiosissimae pudicissimae p. sanctissimus: 2141 v. s. religiosiss.

Praestantissimus is joined with more than one other adjective twice; with one other adjective twice. In the latter case it stands second both times.

3. MEANING.

The classified list of persons to whom the epithet praestantissimus is applied (v. s. Carissimus, p. 5) follows:

Applied to superiors (15): (a) related by blood: none. (b) related by marriage: none. (c) related otherwise (15): dominus (1)—;³⁷ patrona (3)—; patronus (11)—. Applied to equals (3): (a) related by blood: none. (b) related by marriage (1): coniunx (f.) (1)—. (c) related otherwise (2): vir (1)—; virgo vestalis (1)—.

Praestantissimus is used with names of relationship 18 times. It is applied almost exclusively to superiors related otherwise than by blood, marriage or adoption. The proper meaning of the word is, according to Forcellini: qui praestat sive ante stat adiuvandi causa. In early times the duty of the patron was precisely this. So this term has come to be applied to a patron as a sort of stereotyped epithet to express efficiency in performing the duties of a patron. This active meaning is shown by such phrases as praestantissimus erga se.

It seems clear, however, that it is not a proper name here, but an adjective with carissimus. The authors of the inscription are Greek, as shown by their names, and therefore it would be quite natural for them to transliterate the Greek word familiar to them. exopatissimus: 1767 socero exoptatissimo. facilis: 9693 v. s. doctus. felicissimus: 25802 Saloniae felicissimae et fidelissimae. felix: 30113 sic pia sic felix, 15927 coniunx viris quibus opsequens et felix vixit. fidelis (7): 1815 frater pius et fidelis, 9275 v. s. coniugalis, 11794 coniugi dulci fideli piae coniugali, 25876 Pontiae Saturnine piae sancte fideli castissimae, 26660 patronus fidelis, 34728 coniugi dulcissimae...virginiae pudicae fideli, 32049 coniux...communis fidelibus amicis. fidissimus (4): 20610 matri suae fidissimae, 21473a amico fidissimo, 25427 coniunx fidissima fecit, 26787 feminae fidissimae. fidus (3): 6208 coniux fida viro, 9499 coniunxs una meo praedita amans animo fido fida viro, 33953 concolor Victor suavis fidus, formosus (4): 9693 v. s. doctus, 14404 Iunia formosas inter memora-

That it sometimes had little of its proper meaning "submissive," is amusingly shown by 20158, wherein the son is called obsequentissimus and at the same time huius loci totius dominus. In 33087 husband and wife are called obsequentes, with some such meaning as "yielding one to the other." So, also, we may understand matri obsequentissimae in 22454 as verging toward the meaning matri indulgentissimae. observatus: 3346 fratri observato piissimo. officiosus: 14397 v. s. gratissima. opulentus: 9693 v. s. doctus. pauper: 9545 v. s. frugi. perpetuus: 19008 coniugi perpetuae. praestans: 1773. primus: 6593 prima et carissum. coniunx, 34116 gavia P. l. femina prima (the reading is not sure). probatus: 21225 pius bonus probatus, 23685 Pacilia Sospita pia proba bonis probata, 34001 invida sed rapuit semper fortuna probatos. probissimus (4): 17404 sod. probissimo, 19604 vernae probissimi, 23890 homini probissimo...coniugi, 27448 iubeni probissimo. probus (4): 8047 v. s. dignus, 9693 v. s. doctus, 21975 haec est quae vixit semper natura proba, 23629 castior ut probior servatior ulla marito! prudentissimus: 1587 prudentissimo et benignissimo patri. 1747 prudentissime puelle.

STATISTICAL TABLE.

In order to present in as compact a form as possible the general results of my investigation as to the frequency and application of the adjectives of endearment, I append the following table. A few words of explanation are perhaps necessary. The totals given in the column at the right side of the page indicate the number of times each adjective appears with a word expressing relationship. These totals do not include the cases in which the adjective is used as a noun nor those in which the relationship of the person to whom it is applied cannot be determined. The totals at the foot of the page indicate the number of times an endearing adjective is applied to each group of persons. The sum of the totals at the side of the page equals the sum of the totals at the foot of the page. This general total, the number of times a term of endearment and a word indicating relationship appear together, is 6810.³⁹

From the data given in this table, we are able to determine the normal frequency of application of any given term of endearment to any given group of persons. For instance, carissimus occurs 1644 times with a word indicating relationship. Now 1644 is 24 per cent. of the number of times all endearing terms are used with words indicating relationship. Hence, since a term of endearment is applied to the parents 824 times, carissimus should "normally" be applied to the parents 24 per cent. of 824 times, or 198 times. By this means it has been possible to ascertain with accuracy the preferences shown in the use of the various terms of endearment.

³⁹ Bene merens is, of course, not included; Cf. note 2.

DISCUSSION OF THE TERMS OF ENDEARMENT APPLIED BY THE AUTHOR OF THE INSCRIPTION TO HIMSELF.

The adjectives to be considered under this head fall into two groups. The first group, containing words of active meaning, presents no difficulty. It is quite natural that the person setting up the stone should, being conscious of duty fulfilled, style himself piissimus as in 18008 filio dulcissimo...pater piissimus, or pientissimus as in 8108 Veturiae Eutychiae matri dulcis pientissimae fecit M. Annus Iustus fil. pientissimus. It is likewise quite natural that the bereaved, desirous of leaving a record of his love for the dead, should refer to himself as amantissimus in 35868 Midie Heliogratie...ego Provincius amantissimus tibi feci, or as indulgentissimus in 22897 parentes indulgentissimi fecerunt.

The second group, however, is more difficult to explain. It contains carissimus, carus, dulcissimus, incomparabilis, optimus, and bonus. Here again we may distinguish two sub-groups. The first three are endearing epithets, the last three complimentary epithets. Considering the first group separately, the following possible explanations presents themselves. First, the words carissimus and dulcissimus may have an active sense.⁴⁰ This supposition is rendered less daring when we remember that amantissimus and indulgentissimus have both an active and passive sense. Moreover, in 25537 Rubria Sp. f. Donata et C. Iul[...] coniuges dulcissimi, we have an expression apparently modeled after such phrases as those found in 7420 duo fratres amantes and in 28650 Vettidae Parthenope et M. Antio Hermiti duobus amantibus. Coniuges dulcissimi could easily suffer a shift of meaning from "husband and wife sweet to each other" to "husband and wife mutually affectionate." The next step would then be such an expression as we find in 14353 filio dulcissimo...mater dulcissima, and, finally, the full-fledged active form, with no trace of the reciprocal idea left, would be developed.

A second possibility—one which, on the whole, appeals to me more strongly—is that the author of the inscription in applying such a term as carissimus or dulcissimus to himself intended it as a reminiscence of the days past when this expression of endearment was often on the lips of the one now dead. A tender pride impelled him to leave record of the fact that he had been so loved. Epistolary literature, to which sepulchral inscriptions are similar in many respects, furnish examples of such a usage. A writer of a letter may for, instance, subscribe himself "Your dearest son," thus applying to himself the endearing epithet which the recipient of the letter has been wont to use in addressing him. Such an inscription as 22102 in which the dead husband is represented as addressing the bereaved wife with the words: Have, casta coniunx, may be regarded as an example of this usage in a semi-developed stage. Cf. also 14211.

The author's application to himself of epithets of a purely complimentary nature admits of the second explanation suggested for similar use of endearing epithets. More probably, however, it seems to me, optimus and incompar- abilis developed a meaning similar to the meaning of praestantissimus in the phrase praestantissimus erga se (v. s. Praestantissimus). In this case the writer of the epitaph would call himself optimus or incomparabilis as naturally as he styled himself piissimus, the thought being that he had been "best" or "incomparable" in the performance of his duty as husband or son or father. How little self-praise such an expression might have applied is shown by our own English phrase "I am a good friend of his."

DISCUSSION OF ABBREVIATIONS.

The variety of forms taken by the abbreviations is remarkable. For carissimus we find k., ca., car., caris., cariss., carissi., and carissim; for dulcissimus d., dul., dulc., dulcis., dulciss., dulcissi., and dulcissim. So it is through the whole list of words. Other interesting facts are shown by the following statistics compiled from the 12 most frequently used superlatives: The forms lacking only the case ending (carissim, incomparabil, etc.), occur 284 times. They stand at the end of the line 220 times, but are carried over the end and finished in the following line only 7 times. The forms cariss., dulciss., etc., occur 47 times, stand at the end of the line 35 times, but are carried over the end and finished in the next line but 3 times. The forms cariss., dulciss., etc., occur 155 times, stand at the end of the line 100 times, but are carried over the end and finished in the next line only twice. The forms cariss., sanctis., etc., occur 51 times and stand at the end of the line 39 times, but are never carried over. The shorter forms (car., dul., dulc., opt., pient., etc.), occur 151 times and stand at the end of the line 62 times, but are never carried over.

We see at once that the long abbreviations far outnumber the short and that the cumbersome dulcissim, dulcissim, incomparabil, etc., occur most frequently of all. Why was so unwieldy a form used more than twice as often as the short and convenient car. or dulc.? Our statistics give the answer to the question which they raise. First, one notices that the longer forms of the abbreviation stand with disproportionate frequency at the end of the line. This suggests that, in very many cases, the quadratarius had no intention of using an abbreviated form, but having failed to measure his space accurately, found himself at the end of the line with no room for the last letter or two. Rather than place the final letters in the next line or place them above reduced in size, he usually chose to let this clipped form stand. The less the space into which he attempted to cut the word lacked of the requisite length, the more likely was he to be deceived. Hence the great number of forms lacking but one or two letters. Again, we note that although words are broken at the end of a line very freely in inscriptions, in very few instances is an abbreviation so broken. In other words, when the cutter found that he had space enough left in the line for only caris., if he carried the word over at all, he did not stop with the form caris|si. or caris|sim. but wrote the word out in full. We may conclude, then, that no thoroughly conventionalized abbreviation existed and that the long forms carissim, carissi, etc., in particular were merely clipped forms whose frequency is due to no deliberate preference for them but to the exigencies of the stone-cutter's art.

CHAPTER II.

WORDS INDICATING FAMILY RELATIONS.

In this second division of our treatise are considered the words used by the Romans to designate the persons related either by blood, marriage, adoption, or intimate service. The Latin words used to express each relationship, (e. g., father) are treated in alphabetical order in the section on that relationship. At the end of each section the endearing adjectives applied most freely to the person standing in that particular relation are given and the more elaborate eulogies and expressions of affection are also gathered together.

The classification of relatives followed throughout Chapter I (cf. p. 5) is observed. The first group to be considered, therefore, is that of superiors.

SUPERIORS RELATED BY BLOOD.

A. IN DIRECT LINE.

1. FATHER: A term of endearment is applied to the father 280 times. From the table at the end of Chapter I we see that this number is somewhat less than 5 per cent. of the total number of times an endearing epithet is applied to members of the close family circle. This percentage would probably be but slightly changed if the whole body of inscriptions relating to the family were taken into account and we may safely say, I think, that inscriptions to the father constitute about 5 per cent. of the number of inscriptions in honor of persons related by blood, marriage, or adoption. The words used to express the relationship are:

genitor (8): 11407, 12845 Tuder est mihi nota propago|Aufidius genitor, 19007 Faventius|nutritor plus quam genitor qui solam amavit, 25063 funera maerens|plango vir et genitor flebili mersa deo, 24520, 27140 nomine quo genitor mihi dicitur hoc ego vixi, 27852, 31826, 35423. Genitor is found only in metrical inscriptions. papa: 16273 L. Cornelio Pausaniae pape b. m. fecit Cl. Cethegilla (Cf. Archiv. f. lat. Lex. vol. 13, p. 157). parens⁴¹ (65): 1825 filii parenti suo pientissim., 16604, 23019, 19683 fecit Insteia Tyche mater et T. Fl. Optandus parens filio, 25711 Sabiniana fecit parenti naturali suo Hermeti benemerenti. Sabiniana, being a filia naturalis, calls her father parens naturalis.

In 12464, we find the expression patri parenti in which pater is added to give definiteness. (Cf. pater et mater parentes: 2321 and elsewhere.) pater:⁴² Very frequent. Worthy of notice is its use in contrast to filius, in the following cases:⁴³ 408 Antonii Mariani pater et filius, 3700 Ti. Ti. Iulii Staphylus et Nymphius p. et f., 9828 duorum Marcorum Iuliorum Claudioianorum patris et fili, 34839 duo Sexti...pater et filius.—In 16398 occurs the phrase pater consummator applied by a wife to the father of her children. The meaning of the epithet consummator is apparently “the author of my children's existence.” (Cf. causa vitae in 14213.) *tata*⁴⁴ (20): 2371 M. Gellio Helio... Gellia Nymphidia suo coniugi karissimo et Gellia Florentina tatae pientissimo, 3098 Magia Ianuaria tatae suo bene merenti fecit C. Megisto filio duio (=dulc.) et Hermes tata et sibi.

Terms of endearment are applied to the father as follows: piissimus (70), pientissimus (66), optimus (43), dulcissimus (34), carissimus (22), indulgentissimus (13), all others (32). More elaborate expressions of love and esteem are:

5271 in quo fuit fides amicitia veritas incomparabilis, 15060 vix....sine macula, 31965 omnes filii bonum patrem clamitant. The father is called dominus in 21787 and dulcis anima in 10083.

⁴² Cf. pater collegi 10284.

⁴⁴ Tata does not express any definite relationship. It may mean father or grandfather or nurse-attendant. In fact, it apparently may be used to designate any man who has had to do with a child during its early years and to whom the child has stretched its arms and lisped the syllables which are the same in all ages among all peoples. Hence it is often quite impossible to determine the meaning of tata. Since the father is mentioned in inscriptions so much more frequently than grandfather or nurse-attendant, there is much less chance of error in assuming that doubtful inscriptions refer to the father. Therefore, I have placed under Father not only the inscriptions which clearly refer to the father but also those which have in them no evidence that the person referred to is other than the father. Tata appears as a proper name in 4709 and in 4783.

2. MOTHER: Using the same basis for forming an estimate that we used in the case of the father, we may say that inscriptions to the mother constitute about 6 per cent. of the total number of inscriptions in honor of the members of the family group. The words used to express the relationship are:

genetrix (8) : 1135 dominae nostrae venerabili Helene Augustae genetrici d. n. Constantini, 1134, 10971, 25084, 25128, 25369 pater mei et genetrix germana oro atque obsecro desinite luctu, 30128, 32031. In 6 times out of the 8, genetrix appears in metrical inscriptions. *mamma*⁴⁵ (45) : (mama 6571—mammia 11714) 4567 Flaviae Zosime Agathemerus mammae b. m., 4639, 5425 C. Hostilius C. f. ⁴⁵ mamma, like tata, is not a definite word of relationship. It may be used to designate any woman who has had to do with the young child—mother, grandmother, nurse or mistress (domina). Therefore as in the case of tata and for the same reasons (Cf. note 44) we include under Mother not only the inscriptions which surely refer to the mother but also all those in which there is no evidence to show in what relation the person referred to as mamma stands. Mamma is used as a proper name in 20823 M. Iunius Phepsi I. Philotecnus Iuniae Mamme contibern, suaee. 11397, 11487 and 35270 are so fragmentary that nothing can be made out as to the meaning of mamma in them.

⁴⁶ In none of the inscriptions here quoted is there any proof that the mammula is the mother. I have placed them here because of the great probability that in some of the cases mammula does mean mother and in these, such may very well be the meaning. In 21910 mammula is the pet name of a young girl: Mammulae vixit annis XIII Marcia Hellas filiae piissimae posuit.

the concubine of Valentinus and the mother of his children, at least the mother of Valentina whose age renders impossible the assumption that she was the daughter of Primigenia the coniunx 33603 ...]ypatulus Probus se vivo donavit soleum virginem matri sue legitimae et Q. Magrio Victorino et Iuniae Longine parentibus suis et Magrie Victorine filie eorum. The words matri sue legitimae et are in much smaller letters and seem to have been cut later than the rest of the inscription. To determine the meaning of legitimus here is a puzzling problem. If we assume that it equals adoptivus, we may think of some such situation as this: Probus sets up a stone to his father and mother and later at the death of the woman who has adopted him (Cf. Hunter's Rom. Law, p. 211) adds the words in question. But why should he speak of his sister as filia eorum? If, on the other hand, we assume that legitimus is opposed to naturalis and is used by Probus to emphasize the legitimacy of his birth, the epitaph would be in honor of his own mother whose name is not given, his father Victorinus, and his step-mother Longina. In this case the phrase filia eorum would be more natural. Perhaps Probus, the son of Victorinus by a concubine, had after the death of Longina, the first wife of his father, been legitimated by the marriage of his father and his concubine mother. This method of legitimization was possible after the time of Constantine (Cf. Hunter's Rom. Law, p. 201). Another possibility is that parentes does not mean parents here but relatives. (Cf. note 48.)

monnula: 27009 Sulpicia Parthenopae Fructuosae alumne sue...quae supra monnulam suam supra vixit dies XXII. nonna: 15549 Gl. Prnaistin. Claudia Haelpis nona sua (= eius) et Aur. Quaestorio Fortunato et Iuniae Saturninae coniugi eius fecit M. Quaestorius Symphorus parentib suis. Possibly in 25257 Saturnina is a step-mother.

Terms of endearment are applied to the mother as follows: pientissimus (136), piissimus (87), carissimus (35), optimus (31), others (47). More elaborate expressions of love for the mother are:

(1) Love and esteem expressed in general terms: 10230, 11669 qui te viva officium tibi facere non potuerunt at sumnum supremum locum decorarunt ut meruisti, casta mater, 11793, 17694, 19174, 30217.—The phrase rarissimi exempli is applied to the mother twice: 13356, 19128—she is twice styled domina: 1470, 7968. (2) Specific qualities praised: (a) Attentiveness to her children: 21347 matri piae nutrici dulcissimae, 34143b matri et nutrici. (b) Tenderness: 10230, 12672 usi adfectibus eius matris, 19213. (c) Uprightness: 20354 vixit...sene phraude, 22703 vixit sene querella aut iniuria cuiusquam cui potuit recte facere. The mother honored by 10230 possessed the whole catalog of virtues: quod modestia, probitate, pudicitia, opsequio, lanificio, diligentia fide par similisque cetereis probeis feminis fuit.

3. FATHER AND MOTHER: When both father and mother are referred to, they are designated as follows:

*parentes*⁴⁸ (298) :⁴⁹ (nom. plu. parenti 12891; parntes 13075—gen. plu. parentorum: 12891, 29195) 8080 Ti. Claudio Drosero...Ti. With parentes meaning father and mother, the following endearing terms are used: dulcissimus (23), pientissimus (23), piissimus

⁴⁸ In the following inscriptions parentes has a wider meaning than parents: 3589 C. Fictorio [...] vasulario Fictoriae Pithusae matri C. Fictorio C. f. Attico...frati...Fictoria C. f. Atticilla parentibus suis fecit, 14170, 17436 Eutychiae coiugi karissimae F. Campanus et universi parentes (Cf. 16229 universi liberti), 17453, 18734 Fundiliae Crescentinae filiae dulcissimae...Iulius Elpideporus frater et Antia Victoria mater parentes fecerunt, 19007, 24354 Q. Caecilio Martiali patri et L. Tenatio Hermeti avunculo et Q. Caecilio Primioni avo et Caeciliae Eupliae matri Caecilia Marcellina par. dignissimis, 26026 L. Scribonio secundo et Scriboniae Hevodiae et L. Scribonio Pio fratri L. Scribonius et Scribonia Iusta parentibus pientissimis, 26268 L. Septimiiae Doxae...Maurus pater...et nuptiales parentes Elpidephorus maritus et Elpidephorus filius, 28262, 35414 C. Helbacius Lyrasus et Syntrophus et Lupula parent...Trophimo f. kariss., 33603(?) v. s. Mother. In these inscriptions, we find avus, avunculus, frater and even maritus and filius called parentes. The extension of meaning probably came about in this way: When the father, mother, and a grandparent were mentioned on the stone (as in the case possibly in 14170), the lack of a word which would include the three and yet be not too broad in its meaning was keenly felt. To remedy the lack the meaning of parentes was broadened from parents to ancestors. This was not illogical for, in a sense, the grandparent, as well as the parent, is the author of the child's life. When this usage became firmly established, such phrases as mater et pater parentes in 2562 and patri parenti in 12464 became necessary for clearness since parentes and parens alone might be misunderstood. The second extension of meaning is harder to explain because it involves the losing sight of the fundamental significance of the word. But we must remember that the feeling for the root meaning is very weak if not altogether lacking among the common people. Hence when a term was sought to designate such a group of relatives as we have in 24354 all but one of whom are ancestors, the uneducated man did not hesitate long over using parents which to him, no doubt, had the meaning close relatives. After this step had been taken the advance to the wide meaning of relative by blood or marriage was easy and natural. The phrase nuptiales parentes which occurs in 26268 seems to mean the relatives who were members of the familia which the wife entered at her marriage in contradistinction to the relatives who were members of her father's familia.

By the time of St. Jerome, the wide meaning had come to be well established among the common people as is seen from his remark in Rufn. 2, 2: nisi forte parentes, militari vulgarique sermone, cognatos et affines nominat. Also, like so many usages of the sermo vulgaris, this usage has been carried into all the Romance languages. Italian, parente; French, parent; Spanish, parinte, and Portugese, parente: all mean a relative by blood or marriage.

⁴⁹ The statistics in this section on Father and Mother are compiled from the first 15000 inscriptions. Beyond number 15000, only peculiarities of usage are noted.

(19), optimus (10), carissimus (6), others (10). A more elaborate expression of love for both father and mother is:

34386 Ampliatus parentibus dulcissimis quis hoc dico ex quo primum educasti me et in die mortis ipso sic amasti ut pauci perficiunt.

4. GRANDFATHER (42):

avus (27): (aus: 18073, 20261—avius: 16845, 20670, 20932—avos: 17957, 21024, 21465, 21943, 24011, 28706) 16283 L. Cornelius Pithyrat L. Cornelius Cossus avo, 21401 M. Livio Narciso...M. Livius Helius avo suo isdem patrone, 21465 M. Lolli Iusti...fecerunt parentes et avia et avos infelices.

An endearing epithet is applied to the grandfather but twice: dulcissimus once, and optimus once.

5. GRANDMOTHER (61):

avia (53): (abia 5314, 6156—*bia*⁵¹ 10716) 12571 Ataniae Noe matri et Iuliae Lupae aviae Atania Firmiana, 16845, 20486. mamma (7): 8021, 11714 M. Endearing epithets are applied to the grandmother as follows: carissimus (3), piissimus (3), dulcissimus (1), pientissimus (1).

6. ANCESTORS MORE REMOTE THAN GRANDPARENTS: The remoter ancestors are rarely mentioned on the stones. When we do find them mentioned, it is nearly always in inscriptions of the upper classes among whom more attention was paid to lineage. The names found are:

atavus: 1749 cuius a proavis atabisq.—maiores: 1789 digna maioribus suis oratio, 19578, 32993—mammula (?): 28047 Valerius Julianus Italico...et Honoratae mammulai huius fec...haec namque emeritos bis XXXX per annos vixit at hic tertio consule natus obit. Mammula is taken to mean grandmother in this inscription by Forcellini, but the great difference in age

Fortunata mater Silvanus frater Iulius Telesphor tata Cornelia Sees mamma Threptus tatula. In this inscription the ancestors of Domitius seem to be arranged in “ascending order,” and, if this is so, tata means grandfather, tatula, great-grandfather.

I. UNCLE (28):

avunculus (15): (avonculus: 3185, 6469, 7288, 11967, 18050, 18914, 20007, 21021, 24354—aunculus: 22366—anculus(?): 19004) 3562 P. Ael. Muciano... Vitalianus et Vitalis avunculi, 13565 Berullo f....Thalamis mater et Nicias avuncu. f., M. Memmi Rufini...fecit Postumelenus Fidelis avunculus. Although in most of the inscriptions it is quite impossible to determine whether the avunculus is the mother's brother or the father's brother, in 13565 and 20007 the statement that mater et avunculus set up the stone would seem to argue that the mater and the avunculus were sister and brother since blood-kin would be more apt to co-operate in such a way. What scanty evidence we have then indicates that avunculus is used in its proper significance of mother's brother. *patruus*⁵³ (10): (patryus 7393) 5132 T. Petilli C. f. patrui Rufae, 19156 Hateriae Pelagiae...Eutychus maritus et Cyrianus patruus. No epithet of endearment is applied to the uncle. The only expression of regard is found in 6469, Hermione C. Minuci Galli Philadelpho avonculo suo ob pietatem erga inse.

2. AUNT (17):

amita (5): 13759 Q. Caecilio Q. f. Metello vixit annis VIII Sergia A. f. Faustina amita, 16411, 24748. In 1153 amita clearly means father's sister: [Constantiae]...sorori d. n. Constantini Aug. et amitae d. d. n. n. beatissimorum Caess.; also in 2774, where the father's sister has married the ⁵² tatula, the diminutive of tata, is, like tata, indefinite in meaning. The inscription quoted here is the only one which contains the slightest clue to aid us in deciding the relationship of the person referred to by it. ⁵⁵ If we accept the reading here (the editors warn: vide ne novicia sit), alumno must mean foster-father because a foster-mother would hardly be called filiola—an assumption which we must make if we take alumno to mean foster-child. It was a well recognized fact that alumnus could be used to designate the nourisher as well as the one nourished (Servius Aen. 6. 595). The word alumnus is a participle of alo, formed with the Indo-Germanic middle and passive suffix—meno-. Possibly the active sense in Latin developed out of the middle “nourish for oneself.” Trophimos, the Greek equivalent of alumnus, had both an active and a passive sense—a fact which very probably had an influence.

Threpto alumno nutrix infelicissima Lamyra mater fecerunt, 25728 Sabina nutrix Martinae alumnae, 28120 nutrix mellitissima fecit alumno suo.

The foster-mother is called dulcissima twice: 1478, 14347. In 28120, she styles herself melitissima.

EQUALS RELATED BY BLOOD.

1. BROTHER: A term of endearment is applied to the brother 250 times, or slightly more than 4 per cent. of the total number of times an endearing epithet is applied to the members of the close family group. In one group of inscriptions (10500-11500) the brother is mentioned 22 times. In a second group (20000-21000), 20 times. In a third group (25000-29000), 13 times. Estimating on the basis of these 3000 inscriptions, we may say that the brother is mentioned in volume VI about 650 times. The only words used to express the relationship are:

frater,⁵⁷ e. g., 18840 P. Gabinius Urbanus fecit sibi et P. Gabinio Apto fratri, 21317. In 36468 a bastard brother is mentioned: C. Tullius Maron fecit sibi et...C. Tullio Moessio fratri naturali. Cf. also 2785 Val. Sarmatio ...Sudicentius frater genitius in which genitius probably is equivalent to naturalis. (Cf. Forcellini.) germanus: The substantive use of the adjective germanus occurs: 32000 dulci germano divulsa dolens fratremq. requirens Paula soror tumulum dedit, 32049 tibi germani tristis...imponunt. In 4 inscriptions the twin brother is mentioned: 8434 Rhodonis...Rhodinus fratri optimo piissimo et gemino. Geminus is used as a noun in sense of frater geminus: 10131, 19012 duorum geminorum Gemelli⁵⁸ Aug. 1. et Gemini. 21992 M. Mannei Amphonis M. Menneius Zethus frater gemino.

Terms of endearment are applied to the brother as follows: piissimus (59), pientissimus (52), carissimus (52), dulcissimus (43), optimus (19), all others (20). The inscriptions which contain more elaborate expressions of affection or esteem are:

1713 admirandae pietatis, 2120, 2242 per quem semper securior vixit, 4825, 5953 desine, soror, me iam flere sepulcro; | hoc etiam multis regibus ora tulit. 10226, 11570 qui ad diem mortis suae simplici affectione unoque animo egit mecum, 14093 consorti actus et animi, 22504, 25668 vix...sine crimen, 26155, 27728, 30106, 30139. In 9150, the brother is styled anima innocens.

⁵⁷ In 877 fratres means fellow-members of a collegium.

⁵⁸ The names of twin children are often significant. Sometimes they indicate the relationship, e. g., Didymus 7622, 7958, 11458—Geminus 10402, 29209, 31150—Gemellus 10699, 11429, 18980, 18983, 22999, 24600—Gemellinus 15855, 16397. Sometimes they are the names of famous twins of mythology, e. g., 21992. Sometimes they are merely strikingly similar, e. g., 8424, 25429.

2. SISTER: A term of endearment is applied to the sister 103 times, or about 2 per cent. of the total number of times an endearing epithet is applied to members of the close family group. In the 3 groups of inscriptions given under Brother, the sister is mentioned 17 times, 12 times, and 12 times respectively. Therefore in all of volume VI the sister is mentioned probably about 490 times. The only word used to express the relationship is:

soror,⁵⁹ e. g., 2144 Terentiae Flavulae...sorori Terentius Gentianus. The phrase *germana soror*⁶⁰ occurs once: 14578 (= 34083) mater et germana soror. The twin sister is spoken of but twice: 22151 nam geminas habui, 26783 sorori geminae piissimae.

Terms of endearment are applied to the sister as follows: piissimus (27), pientissimus (23), dulcissimus (19), carissimus (17), all others (16). In 20496 she is called domina: Iulia Hellas Hygiae dominae et sorori.

3. BROTHER AND SISTER:

frater et soror: The usual means of expression, e. g., 2673 Aur. Tertio ... Aur. Quintus frater et Aur. [...]a soror, 27498. fratres (6): 13095 Aur. Felicissimus et Felicissima frat...parentib., 14959, 16741 Daphni Caes. Junia Veneria et Hiaero fratres, 17303...parentes item Parapsyche et Adiaptetus parentium fratres, 18606, 19896.

4. COUSIN-GERMAN (11):

consobrinus (6): Properly the child of one's mother's sister but often loosely used: 3285, 17654 L. Fadio Mudei consobrino optimo L. Fadius Secundus, 18931, 20863 Euschemus consobrinae Samariae Arethusae, 32690, 32808. patruelis (2): This word properly means the child of the father's brother: 1540 Anniae Faustinae Imp. Caesaris M. Antonini Aug. et divae Faustinae Piae patruelis. Here Faustina is the daughter of a brother of Pia's mother and patruelis is loosely used. 29711 patruelis Sammiae Honoretiae. soror patruelis: 8409 Staphylo...Munatia uxor eadem soror patrelis. sobrinus: 1916 Anicio M. f. Daphnico sobrino...M. Apusceius M. lib. Hermaphilus, 34623.

5. WORDS NOT EXPRESSING THE DEGREE OF CONSANGUINITY:

agnatus: 13014 filis suis...et annatis eorum, 36740. cognatio: 1887 (?), 22847 Naeviae Elate...pientissimae cognatio titulum posuit. cognatus (64): (connatus: 13121, 18436—cognatus: 14931, 25828, 33708—cognat: 18987, 27879—cogna: 14981—cogn: 10323, 10651—dat. plu. cognati 26885.) (1) In the following cases the nomina of the cognati are the same, indicating that the relationship is through the father (11): 6827 Sex. Allidio Soteri et Allidiae Eutychiae Sex. Allidius Symphor. cognatis, 15031, 18104, 20229, ⁵⁹ In 377 sorores means members of the same collegium.

⁶⁰ The adjective germanus was first applied to a sister or brother born of the same mother but later came to mean "full sister or brother," i. e., born of the same father and mother. (Forcell.) Finally, by an easy step, it came to be used as endearing term. Cf. genetrix germana 25369.

EQUALS RELATED BY MARRIAGE.

I. HUSBAND: A term of endearment is applied to the husband 674 times, or slightly more than 11 per cent. of the total number of times an endearing epithet is applied to the members of the close family circle. We may assume, then, that the inscriptions to the husband constitute about 11 per cent. of the number of inscriptions in honor of persons related by blood, marriage or adoption. The words used to express the relationship of husband are:

comes(?): 25390 Regulia Materna Bibullio Prisciano comiti carissimo. compar (3): 31980...Darcia filia parentibus...una cum compare suo Paulino v. p., 32959, 36431 Tidati compar...cum quo bene fecit annus XIII continuus; ursday eius. *coniunx*⁶² (coiux: frequent, e. g., 2896—coniunxs 26127—coniug. 16200—coni. 2337—coni. 16097—coi. 2561—co. 3422). This word is by far the most frequent of words expressing the relationship of husband. In one group of inscriptions (16000-17000) the husband is mentioned 80 times; coniunx is used 69 times. In another group of inscriptions (26000-27000) the husband is mentioned 76 times; coniunx is used

58 times. Taking these 2000 inscriptions as a basis for forming our estimates, we may say that coniunx (m.) appears in volume VI about 2200 times, and that in 80 cases out of every 100 in which the husband is designated, coniunx is used. Again, to approach the question of the relative frequency of coniunx from a different angle, a term of endearment is applied to a husband 674 times; to coniunx (m.), 522 times. These figures indicate that in 75 cases out of every 100 in which the husband is designated coniunx is used. We are, therefore, probably safe in saying that coniunx designates husband 3 times as often as all other words put together. Coniunx is used by high and low alike, e. g., 1406 A. Egnatio A. f. Pal. Proculo cos. praef. aer. Sat....coniugi carissimo, 7264 L. Passieni...Cantinia Eutychia coniugi karissimo, 7383 L. Volusi Pelopis Volusia Lenoe coniug., 8558 Eridano Imp. (2) Freedman (37): (a) In 32 inscriptions both the husband, who is called contubernialis, and the wife are freed: 4935, 6203, 6628, 7300, 9823, 10363 *Antonia Chariessa...M. (b) In 5 inscriptions, the husband called contubernialis is a freedman, but the wife a slave: 9069 M. Ulpi 1. Primonis...Dionysias contubernali, 9891, 12831 (= 15309), 15015 Ti Claudio Aug. 1. Elencho Verecunda contubernali suo, 15258. maritus: (marit. 3170—mari. 3573). In one group of inscriptions (16000-17000) in which the husband is mentioned 80 times maritus is used 5 times. In a second group (26000-27000), the husband is mentioned 76 times; maritus appears 8 times. In a third group

⁶³ Often the only guide in determining the status of a person mentioned is the name. In such cases a single servile name is taken to indicate that the possessor is a slave; a praenomen, nomen and a cognomen of servile origin indicates a freedman. Many times a cognomen is said by Forcellini to be: tum ingenuum tum libertinum. In such cases our criterion fails.

(11000-12000), the husband is mentioned 79 times; maritus appears 16 times. Basing our estimate on these 3000 inscriptions, we may say that maritus occurs in volume VI about 350 times and that in 12 cases out of every 100 in which the husband is designated, maritus is used. We may arrive at an estimate of the relative frequency of maritus in another way. A term of endearment is applied to the husband 674 times; to maritus, 112 times. These figures indicate that in 16 cases out of 100, maritus is chosen to designate the husband. The lack of correspondence in the two estimates is to be explained, very probably, by the assumption that maritus is unusually rare in the first group examined. Maritus is used by all classes, e. g., 1422 L. Sometimes the word for husband is omitted, e. g., 26788 Statilia Marcella Aelio Acmazonti suo fecit, 6191 patrono indulgentissimo et pientissimo cum quo vixit ann. XXIIII fidelissime.

The table at the end of Chapter I shows the endearing epithets applied to the husband. More elaborate expressions of affection are as follows:

(1) Love for the husband and grief for his death expressed in general terms: 2960 memoria fruor quem viba amabi, 8707, 9446 tota Roma flebit, 9663 vixit sine macula, 10816, 14064, 18817, 19201, 22102, 26926 de cuius fama multi cum laude locuntur, 30115, 34338, 35050 cui iuravi ne post obitum huius coniugem .habere velim—The setting up of the stone a token of the wife's love: 9604 coniunx quod potuit titulum mihi reddidit uni, 9927—The husband is addressed as dominus 6 times. 1487 (= 31665), 3500 domino marito sanctissimo, 6705, 11252 domine Oppi marite, 12868, 29026. He is styled anima 4 times: 8984, 9150, 13197, 18817. (2) Appreciation of the happiness of the years of married life: The formula cum quo vixit...sine ulla querella occurs with slight variations 28 times: 2351, 80704, 8676, 8737 coniugi karissim... cum quo vixit sine ulla querel. ann. Similar formulae with the same general meaning are: 8438 cum quo vixit...sine ulla offensa—9663 cum quo vixit cum bona concordia sine alteritrum animi lesionem, 21165 cum quo vix...bona concordia—9927 cum quo per annos XVI semper bona vita bixi—15870 cum quo vixit...sine dolore, 21779—19205 cum quo vixit...sine iniuria—20241 cum quo vixit...sine controversia ulla—21925 cum quo sine ulla fraude vixit—26926 cum quo concordem vitam multosque per annos vixit—11137, 29131 cum quo vixit...sine lite ulla, 35368 cum quo vixit...bita sine lite—31956 cumq. vixi...sine ulla discordia, 31998 mecum vixit...sine aliqua discordia aut controversia. (3) Specific qualities of the husband praised: (a) Tenderness: 8467 indulgentissimo mihi in finem vitae suae, 8681 amorem habuit maximum, 30115. (b) Beauty: 30115. (c) Blood: 30115.

2. WIFE: A term of endearment is applied to the wife 1727 times, or about 27 per cent. of the total number of times an endearing epithet is applied to members of the close family group. We may assume that inscription to the wife constitute about 27 per cent. of total number of inscriptions in honor of persons related by blood, marriage or adoption. The words used to express the relationship of wife are:

In most of the cases, the concubine is the concubine of a freedman. Bithus in 2354 and Philoxenus in 4599 seem, however, to be slaves, and in a few instances (17170, 26556, 28431 and 33090) the man setting up the stone to the concubine appears to be free-born. The child of a concubine was considered illegitimate, as is clearly shown in 28431. coniuga: 13528 Bassa vatis Laberi coniuga. coniunx:⁶⁷ (coniux; frequent, e. g., 3375—coiux. frequent, e. g., 2495—coniuncxs 17985—coniunxs 25520—conius 25477—coiusx 25833—dat. sing. coigi 1904—dat. sing. conigi 13820—dat. sing. coiuci 2774). This word is by far the most frequently used to designate the wife. In one group of inscriptions (13000-14000) in which the wife is spoken of 146 times, coniunx (f.) appears 124 times. In a second group (18000-19000), the wife is mentioned 151 times; coniunx (f.) is used 137 times. In a third group (25000-26000), the wife is mentioned 128 times; coniunx (f.) appears 102 times. Taking these 3000 inscriptions as a basis for our estimate, we may say that coniunx (f.) appears in volume VI about 4600 times and that in 85 cases out of every 100 in which the wife is designated, coniunx is used. We may arrive at an estimate of the relative frequency of coniunx (f.) in another way. An endearing epithet is applied to the wife 1721 times. An endearing epithet is found with coniunx (f.) 1438 times, or 85 per cent. of the total. The two estimates agree perfectly. Coniunx (f.) is used very freely by people in all walks of life, e. g., 1095 Furiae Sabiniae Tranquillinae sanctissimae Augustae coniugi domini n. M. Antoni Gordiani, 1398 L. Baebiae Sallustiae Crescentillae c. f....coniugi Creperi Rogati c. v., 1600 C. LIII. uxor: (uxor: quite frequent, e. g., 883, 1317, 1899, 2662—uxxor 9555). Uxor stands second in point of frequency among the words used to designate the wife. In one group of inscriptions (13000-14000), the wife is mentioned 146 times; uxor occurs 19 times. In a second group (18000-19000), the wife is mentioned 151 times; uxor appears 12 times. In a third group (25000-26000), the wife is spoken of 128 times; uxor is found 17 times. Basing our estimate on these 3000 inscriptions, we may say that uxor occurs in volume VI about 550 times and that it is used to designate the wife in 11 cases out of every hundred. This estimate as to the relative frequency of uxor is confirmed by the following consideration. An endearing epithet is found with uxor 204 times or about 12 per cent. of the total number of times an endearing epithet is applied to the wife. Uxor is used freely by all classes, e. g., 886 Agrippinae M. Agrippae f. divi Aug. neptis uxoris Germanici Caesaris, 1404 Domitiae Heracliae c. m. f. matronae et uxor, 1445 Liciniae Crassi Frugi pontificis f. Magnae L. 3. HUSBAND AND WIFE: Usually the stone which a husband sets up to his wife or which a wife sets up to a husband names the relationship of only one of the pair, e. g., 17772 Faustae coniugi... fecit Octavius Hermes. Sometimes, however, the relationship-names of both are given. In a group of 10000 inscriptions (15000-25000), we find the following pairs of relationship-names:

maritus-coniunx (28): 16985, 16993, 18402, 19941. coniunx-coniunx (23): 15996, 17056, 19208, 20908. maritus-uxor (12): 15316, 15581, 17556, 23863. coniunx-uxor: 18475, 22273, 22657. vir-coniunx: 15927, 16287, 20536. vir-uxor: 16977. coniux-contubernalis: 15598. coniuges sometimes means husband and wife, e. g., 15050 C. Claudi Eutychi et Clodiae Faustae coniugum, 15742, 16963, 25537, 28770.

Expressions of the mutual affection of husband and wife are:

9485, 13757 Caecilio [...] et Caeciliae [...] coniugio incomparabili...qui pariter sine ulla querella una vixerunt, 18817 puer puella obligati amori pariter, 22423 una viximus...sene stomaco, 29736 fecerunt sibi...qui vixer. inter se...sine ulla vile, 33087 viximus concordes. Burial of husband and wife in the same spot was considered a symbol of the harmony in which their wedded life had been passed: 20569 his foribus carae recubant mihi coniugis ossa exspectanque ut mea contribuam, 24085 vixerunt concordes et pie quorum ossa quoque una quiescunt, 25427 quos iungit tumulus iunxit thalamus, 25547 hic erit et nobis una aliquando domus, 25905, 33087.

4. BROTHER-IN-LAW (10): Circumlocutions:

Claudius Polydeuces sororis illius vir, 21715 Lusius Hermes sororis eius maritus. (2) The brother of the wife: 3542 fratri uxor, 17051, 20473, 34405 uxori sua et...fratri eius. (3) The brother of the husband: 18543 Venusto mariti fratri.

5. SISTER-IN-LAW (8): Circumlocutions:

(1) The brother's wife (6): 9110 Attico...Florus fratri...et Rutiliae Pyrallidi coniugi eius, 11645 Anici Zosimi cum coniugi Val. Victoria...Aurie Secundinus fratri et cognatae, 12496(?), 19028 fratri...et uxori eius, 23176 Nymphe...bene merenti de frat. sui coniuge, 32734 T. Tillius Sabinus...Postumina Phyllis fratri uxor, 35992. (2) The wife's sister: 13517 Basidia Chrysis...M. Ulpius Cosmianus...coniugi...et Basidae Eutychiae sorori eius. (3) The husband's sister: 15236 Aurelia Auxesis coniugi...ex liberalitate...sororis huius.

6. WORDS EXPRESSING NO DEFINITE DEGREE OF RELATIONSHIP:

I. FOSTER-BROTHER (16):

Salviane conlactaneo. *collecteus*⁴ (13): (conlacteus: 6324, 8486, 27119, 29728, 33217, 36193—collectus: 7393, 15323, 28463, 29690—collect. 1903—conlact. 36193—conlac. 29728—conl. 33217) 1903 Paenia Daphne M. XXX*, 28463, 29690, 29728, 33217 P. Baebio Plotiano filio...fecit mater et Symphora conl. eius, 36193.

In view of the fact that collecteus appears oftener than its longer equivalent conlactaneus, it is interesting to note the statement of Charisius, the 3d century grammarian, (I, 82 K.): conlactaneus dici debet. nam collecteus nemo dicit. Very probably Charisius meant by nemo, "no one who is careful of niceties of language and sensitive to the passing fads in speech." The stones show how little the average man cared for grammarians' dicta.

2. FOSTER-SISTER (6):

collactanea: 19112 Maecilia Cn. I. Eleutheris collactanea Euni. collecta (5): (conlactia 18115—conlact. 18552): 17682 L. Faenius Vitalis Faenia L. f. Priscillae sorori vix. a. I...Faeniae Hygiae collectiae eius vix. a. I, 18115, 18553, 25845 Salvia Tertulla Laenadi libertae et collectiae, 35492.

No adjective of endearment is applied to a foster-brother or a foster-sister, but in 29690 the foster-brother is called anima innocens.

DEPENDENTS RELATED BY BLOOD.

A. IN DIRECT LINE.

i. SON: A term of endearment is applied to the son 1350 times, or about 22 per cent. of the total number of times an endearing epithet is applied to members of the close family group. Hence we may estimate that $\frac{1}{4}$ of the inscriptions to those related by blood, marriage or adoption are in honor of the son. The relationship is expressed by the following words:

⁴ Since collecteus occurs oftener than conlactaneus, I will include under it the abbreviated forms.

alumnus:⁷⁵ 1487 L. Percennio Lascivo...alumno karissimo et incomparabilissimo dulcissimo nato...L. Percennius Pollio v. c. parens, 15049 T. Claudio Eutychiano alumno dulcissimo...Iulius Eutyches et Claudia Filete parentes, 27852, 28239. *delicatus*⁷⁶ (3): 14559 Cassonio Vitali Vestino Verecundo Cassonio Valenti Cassonia Vitalis delicatis, 14786(?), 16738 Daphno q. v. a. VIII f. Eutyches delicato. delicia: 10587 Arbutius Lucundus delicia Tucenisi. *deliciae*⁷⁷ 9375 Hilario P. et Curiatiae deliciae. *delicium*⁷⁸ (16): 4376, 7104 Linus delicium vix. an. II, 9567 M. Allius Pamphilus...Primillae I. et uxori et Primo I. delicio carissimis sibi, 11474, 12156 L. Aponius Abascantus v. a. IIII...T. Flavius Anicetus et Aponia Syrilla issulo et delicio, 12337, 12355 M. Arrecini Melioris Arrecina Tertulla delicio suo...v. a. VIII, 15071, 17149(?) Elegant Caedici delicio vixit ann. XIIX, 18556, 18824 Furnia Lucifera fec. Exsocho Aug. I. delicio et Vesbino Aug. I. coniugi suo, 19390, 19861, 20258 M. Iulio Saturnio delicio, 23072 (= 24123), 26223, 27075, 27470. filiolus: 14518 parentes filio. filius. By far the most frequent. In one group of inscriptions (10500-11500), it occurs 93 times,⁷⁹ in a second group (20000-21000), 62 times; in a third group (28000-29000) 75 times. Basing our estimate on these 3000 inscriptions, we may say that filius occurs in volume VI 2700 times. The phrase filius naturalis designates an illegitimate son 5 times: 8093 Q. Titio Pastorali filio naturali plentissimo...L. Axilius Museius pater amantissimo fil., 10707a, 14217, 18658, 34048. More often, however, the illegitimate son is styled Spuri filius, e. g.,

⁷⁵ Possibly the way alumnus came to be applied to a son was somewhat as follows: The foster-child frequently became the pet of the entire household as we may infer from the wealth of endearing terms heaped on him. In course of time, therefore, the very word alumnus acquired an endearing sense and became to all intents and purposes a vox blandiens which could be applied to the son as well as to the foster-son. If Mommsen's conjecture in regard to V 2956 is correct, we see a medial stage in this shift of meaning.

⁷⁸ delicium (delicum 36256—delicim 4674—deliciu.: 7560, 11842—delic.: 11474, 18556, 24123, 24949) occurs, in all, 78 times. Like tata and mamma it is a vox blandiens and expresses no definite relationship. For this reason clear-cut classification is impossible. Giving, however, the meaning of son or of daughter the preference in doubtful cases, we may group the occurrences as follows: son (16); daughter (34); favorite slave boy of a man (paignion) (10): 8221, 9437 deliciumque fuit domini, 14990, 15208, 19616, 23257, 24158, 24768, 24947, 25046 Prisco Aug. delicio vix. an. VII...Trophimus filio, 83156; pet slave boy of a woman: 20237 C. Iuli Augustae I. Prosopae delicii ipsius et Liviae Drusi Caesaris; mistress (amica): 4674, 7592, 12096 Apate Q. Oppi deliciu. mater Laudice, 12782; pet slave girl of a woman: 14559 Claudiae Eglectae Antoniae divi Claudi f. delicio piissimae...v. a. VI...Threptus et Eclogae parentes, 19673, 24345; fragments (10). The age of the delicium is stated 33 times. In 16 cases it is 5 yrs. or under, in only 3 cases is it over 14 yrs. The average age is 7½ years.

⁷⁹ These numbers do not include the instances in which filius is used in indicating the father, e. g., 28437 C. Vellio C. f. Pal. Crescenti.

20109, 23299, 24039, 25654, 26008, 29540 C. Volusio Sp. f. Severo filio optimo ... Volusia Herois mater...et Phoebo coniugi. This phrase occurs 37 times in the group of inscriptions examined (19500-36550). Note 13416 Charito ...sibi et...coniugi suae et...filio communi, 2662 filios duos geminos.

In view of the comparatively small number of metrical inscriptions, natus is clearly stamped as a poetical word. pignus: 1609 parentes quorum pignus ego, 10131, 29265 duo pignora matura. Cf. 23004. pisinnus: 2662 remisit filios duos geminos, pisinus. proles: 142(?), 10131 puer Titius, proles cito raptus, 29426.

*puer*⁸³ (12): (pue. 16170), 10131, 10217 M. Salluvi Felicissimi...puero piiss. et dulciss. M. Salluvius Antiochus pat., 10966, 16701, 17341 Euhodo puer vixit annis XIII...L. Of these 12 inscriptions in which puer means son, 4 are metrical: 10131, 21521, 24520, 33905. pupus: 25241, 27556 pupus Torquatus filius bonus...vixit annis VIII...item aliud pupus Laetianus qui idem fil. bonus...vixit annis. n. v., 33355(?) Nardus pupo Myste. Pupus was used in some cases as the praenomen of a child whose real praenomen had not yet been officially recognized by the conferring of the toga virilis: 5280 avia Pup. Arelli

⁸¹ The first instance appears fairly sure. Liber is balanced with filia in such a way that it is very improbable that it is an abbreviated form of libertus. The second instance is more doubtful.

⁸² Natus still retains its participial sense in: 3613, 36262.

⁸³ puer appears, in all, 86 times (not including the honorary title clarissimus puer). In many cases it means slave: 4001, 6088 puer Cosmo Ti. Caesar ser., 6245, 9259 Leopardus puer qui vixit annis XXVIII, 9487, 9761, 17361, 17416, 20905, 24916, 25261, 26480, 27638, 28916, 33104. Also in the frequent phrase paedagogus puerorum the meaning of puer is slave: 5354, 5363, 7290, 8968-8983, etc.

Often puer means boy in contradistinction to an adult: 6182, 7578 Musae mihi dederant pueru facundus ut essem, 10764, 16170, 18817, 19007, 20133, 29426, 32323, 36658. The phrase pueri patrimi et matrimi occurs frequently in the acta Arvalium (2023-2113 and 32323-32379).

The age of persons styled puer (not including slaves) is stated 8 times: 6182, 13 yrs.; 10217, 12 yrs.; 10764, 6 mo.; 16170, 2 yrs.; 17341, 13 yrs.; 20133, 15 yrs.; 25865, 2 yrs.; 27657, 13 yrs. The average is 9 years. The slave called puer could of course be of any age. For example, in 9259 Leopardus is 29 years old.

Strabonis. ramus: 28052 qui tales ramos perdidimus. suboles: 2034 Neronem Claudium subolem Agrippinae Aug., 17518.

A term of endearment is applied to the son as follows: dulcissimus (602), pientissimus (262), piissimus (249), carissimus (123), all others (111). The more elaborate expressions of affection and appreciation follow:

(1) Love of the son and grief of the parents for his death expressed in general terms: 6814, 10097 nunc amor et nomen superest de corpore toto|quod spargit lacrimis maestus uterque parens, 11511, 12307 qui quia non possunt donis aequare merentem | respondere queunt, Basse, tuis meritis, 13148 filio melle dulciori,⁸⁴ 13885, 15268, 16169 vixi bene gratus parenti. atque amicis omnibus, 16606 mater...quae me desiderat vehementer, 17985, 18239, 19747 cum possem matri dulcis et esse patri | eripuit me saga, 20079 filio dulcissimo et...matri eius Q. (4) Protest against a cruel fate which compelled a parent to perform the funeral rites of a son: 1537, 7479 quod debuit filius parentibus officium praestare hunc, 8054 quod tu mi debebas facere ego tibi facio mater, 12013, 12307, 16709, 17518, 19914, 22066 quod vos decebat mihi fecisse mater feci; sic ita fata dederunt,

Dominus was used in courteous address (Mart. Ep. 6, 88; Sen. Epist. 1, 3). Even slaves were so addressed (Mart. Ep. 5, 57).

⁸⁶ Issus is a cognomen in 15128.

22203, 24520, 24938, 25063, 26901 quod fas parenti facere debuit filius, mors immatura fecit ut feceret parens, 27852, 28644, 29011, 35126, 35638. (5) Parents exhorted by the dead son not to mourn: 10105 desine iam mater lacrimis renovare querellas namque dolor talis non tibi contigit uni, 17196, 23551, 26203 nolite dolere parentes; hoc faciendum fuit. (6) Specific qualities of the son mentioned: (a) Precocity: 8991, 18086 hic tamen in biennio vixit quasi qui vixisset sedecim annis: talis enim sensus erat illi, quasi properantis ad Orcum, 24520 mente senes, aeo sed periere brevi, 25982 cuius annos ingenium excedebat, 28138 educatus litter. (b) Playfulness: 11005 cuius per blanditiem refrigerium laboris creati sumus, 11511, 17313, 18086 derisor aviae quia se dicebat nutrire bacchillum summae senectae; delusus fratrem patris quia nimius erat blandus ad illum aviumque suum adlectabat voce pusilla ut cuncti vicini dicebant 'o, dulce Titu.' Obedience: 12013 obsequens magistris fui, observavi parentorum praecepta, 27556. Love for parents: 10558, 11511, 17985a, 24520. Beauty: 19683, 35769. Studiousness: 12013. Chastity: 13538 cui et in ipsa dei castitas permanserat qui vixit annis XV.

2. DAUGHTER: The daughter is given an endearing epithet 837 times, or about 14 per cent. of the total number of times a term of endearment is applied to members of the close family group. Hence we may estimate that one-seventh of the inscriptions in honor of persons related by blood, marriage or adoption are to the daughter. The relationship is expressed by the following words:

delicata⁸⁷ (4): 3155 Heleneni delikatae [...] vix. ann. X...Iulius Maior, 7135 (= 24592) Q. Pomponi Aeoli vix. ann. XXII...Gratae vix. an VIII...C. In one group of inscriptions (10500-11500), it occurs 55 times;⁸⁹ in a second group (20000-21000), 40 times; in a third group (28000-29000), 52 times. Basing our estimate on these results, we may say that filia ⁸⁷ Delicata is twice used to designate the mistress (amica): 22740, 24408 Cn. Pollius Parthenopeus Atticilliae delicatae suae. Twice it means the pet of a woman: 25434, 27133 Teiae Euprosyne Rufinae v. v. delicatae. Twice it is a proper name: 20874, 38796. Inscriptions 7779 and 23178 which contain the word are mere fragments.

⁸⁹ Instances in which filia is used in indicating the parentage are not included.

occurs in volume VI about 1700 times. The phrase filia naturalis designates an illegitimate daughter 5 times: 7788, 18837 A. Gabinius Felix...Mindiae Epiteuxi coniugi... et Mindiae Claudianae filiae naturali, 21458, 27065, 35523. A more common way of designating the illegitimate daughter is by the phrase Spuri filia, e. g., 16337, 24824, 28305, 28431 C. Velius A. f. Scaptia... Veliae Sp. f. Tertiae filiae meae. This phrase is found 29 times in the group of inscriptions examined (21000-36000). Note the following rare phrases: 4610 Eros filiae suae ingenuae—16266 filiae utriusque—10381 filibus gemellis. *nata*⁹⁰ (13): (gnata: 5261, 20674, 25369), 1879, 5261, 9447, 10096 reliqui fetum nata genitori meo, 10971 Aelia Sabina cum sua nata, 12649, 16653, 20674, 22251 mater eram natarum, 22994, 25369, 30110, 36262. Nata is found in a metrical inscription 9 times out of the 13. *puella*⁹¹ (4): 6051 quam coluit dulci gavisus amore, puellam hic locat infelix unica quei fuerat, 14799, 19168, 29609 rapuisti... puellam... nec patris ac matris es miserata preces. *pupa*⁹² 13726 Q. Caecilius I. Eros... Statiae Lalageni pupae suae v. a. IV Statiae Melitineni coniugi s., 22102 et blanda dulcis pupa. Pupa is used as a praenomen in 8840 Sabbio Pup. Valer. Messallinae disp. Probably Valeria Messalina, the future empress, was a mere child at this time; v. s. pupus.

A term of endearment is applied to the daughter as follows: dulcissimus (353), carissimus (206), pientissimus (143), piissimus (76), pius (10), optimus (8), sanctissimus (8), all others (32). The more elaborate expressions of affection and appreciation follow:

(1) Love for the daughter and grief of the parents for her death expressed in general terms: 5601⁹³ Iunius Vall[...] et Iunia Valer [...] Iuniae Florentinae omniorum refrigerium titinavellus, 7872 vixi ego, dum licuit, superis acceptior una | quo nemo potuit verbis maledicere acerbo (strikingly similar to 23551), 10096 titulum nostrum perlege | amor parentis quem dedit natae suae, 10703 super tale clavum quem mi reliquisti sola qe me desolas, 12607, 12783, 14799 qui tale puella caret, 17811 filiae dulcissimae et quidquid in filia plus quam dulcis dici potest, 19331 flentes iam liqui parentes, 20370 omnibus cara fui viva carissuma matri, 20905, 22704, 22804, 25369, 25808 reliquisti mammam tuam gementem plorantem, 27383 dilecta ante alios multum defletaque cunctis | Vestina infantum Clodia sola decus, 27458, 28810, 28877, 29380, 33696 quae reliqui acerbitate sui, 36202, 33278 dolor heu luctusque

⁹² pupa once designates a pet slave girl: 2254 Titia Zosariu. hic sita est Propitiae pupa et famula. In the following cases it is a cognomen: 2760, 23210, 25364.

parentum—The daughter is called anima 10 times: 7923, 10936, 16926, 18318, 19590, 22778, 23448, 24888, 27827, 35081; avicula twice: 33706, 34421; cusa(?)⁹⁴ once: 34728; issa once: 27247(?) Cf. also 15639; spiritus once: 20462 Iuniae C. fil. Felicitati spirito dulcissimo; vitilla once: 25808 destituisti vitilla mea mammam tuam—In 63 inscriptions to the daughter, the parents inscribe themselves infelicissimi, e. g., 13956, 14139, 15494, 16044; in 3 inscriptions, infelices, e. g., 20152; in 9, miseri, e. g., 12649, 14117, 17379, 24845; in one, maesti: 34114; in one, inviti: 35005; in one calamitosi: 9570; in one, miserrimi: 19276. (2) The untimely death of the daughter deplored: 17804, 19331, 21372, 23135, 25369, 26544, 28695 menbra...que...non nasci melius fuerat quan nunc indigna iacerent. (3) The blighted hopes of the parents dwelt on: 15652 filiae...quem non liquit nos fruuiisci, 25345 ante occidit quam suis...gratian referre potuit, 27805, 27827 raptae ut non potuerit consummare in se destinata beneficia mammae. (4) Protest against the cruelty of the fate which compelled the parents to entomb the daughter: 1537, 5261, 22994 quod decuit natam patri praestare sepulto contra natae praestitit ipse pater, 24845, 26891 mater fecit; hoc tu mihi debuisti facere, 27383, 27866 t. m. d. n. ego tibi, 30110, 35653. (5) The dead daughter exhorts the parents to cease from grief: 7872, 19989 dolere noli matrem, faciendum fuit, 20182, 20370, 25369, 28523 noli dolere mater; fatus hoc voluit meus. (6) Specific qualities of the daughter mentioned: (a) Precocity: 7898 excedens cunctas ingenio aequales, 10096 docta, eredita paene Musarum manu, 10127, 18324, 20674 doctrina super legitimam sexus sui aetatem praestantissimae, 21846 super annos docta, 24520, 25808 eruditae omnibus artibus. (b) Playfulness: 18324 cuius in octava lascivia surgere messe cooperat et dulces finigere nequitias, 19007 dum vixi, lusi, 21846 grataque blanditiis, 34421 auctiae gerulae. (c) Beauty: 19007, 20674, 21846, 27383 quaes speciem voltus habuitq. Cupidinis artus. Gentleness: 22675 cuius pietas laesit neminem. Companionableness: 7788 filiae naturali idemque sociae.

3. CHILDREN:

filii, e. g., 8997 et Secundo et Magnae filis, 9077, 10354 Marciae...Hymno...filii suis, 10707a, 10899 cum Basilide et Eucto filis, 14646. Filii in this sense occurs 26 times in the group of inscriptions examined (8000-15000). liberi (48): (liveri 13003—gen. plu. leiberum 25369). This word is found in formal language usually. It is found in dedicatory inscriptions 3 times: 360, 641, 31219; in the acta Arvalium 5 times: 2059, 2093, 2098, 2004, 2114; in legal documents 4 times: 1527, 10230, 10240, 10246; in the phrase ius...liberorum 3 times: 1877, 10246, 10247; in the formulae liberis posterisque and liberis et libertis libetabusque posterisque 23 times: 2394a, 10240, 10499, 10668, 12194, 12437, 13003, 15864, 17965, 19858, 21849 sibi et...filis suis...et liberis eorum et lib. libt. post. eor., 23672, 23716, 24232, 25350, 27806, 28804, 29931, 30219, 33793, 34231, 34715, 36419. Other instances of its occurrence are: 1708, 2139, 3594 Fl. Brittoni...coniux et liberi eius, 9644, 15493, 19270, 20674, 22355a, 25369, 36338. Only once does it appear in a metrical inscription:

25369. Note the following phrases: 14728 coniugis...piissimae erga se liberosq. comm.—16230 liberi utrorumque, 34047 utriusque et liberis suis.

nati (18) : (dat. plur. nateis 15676), 142, 537, 5346, 10731, 12498 cum natis suis, 12843, 15676, 19055, 19747, 22424 contubern. pientissim. et natis karissim. et sibi, 24520, 26979, 27572, 28677, 28753, 30128, 31711, 32046. In 8 cases the inscription containing nati is metrical (Cf. natus and nata). pignora:⁹⁵ 10131 mater cum parvis pignoribus. suboles: 12072 funde preces subolum.

The only expression of affection for the granddaughter is found in 18282.

6. GRANDCHILDREN (14) :

nepotes (12) : 1634 filius et nepotes, 3581, 13100 Aurel. Festus et Aurel. Maxima nepotes, 13237, 13356 filii filiaeque nepotes et generi, 16229, 24232, 26333 fili et nepotes, 29726, 31937, 32340, 33818 coiux item fili et ne. Circumlocutions: 16809 filio et filis suis (= eius), 25771.

7. GREAT-GRANDSON :

pronepos (46) : In 41 cases it is found in statements of the ancestry of the emperors, e. g., 913 Neroni Caesari Germanici Caesaris f. T. Caesaris Augusti n. divi Augusti pron. In the 5 other cases, it is used to associate a member of a distinguished family with some famous ancestor: 1416, 1418, T. Fl. Postumio Titiano...pronepoti et sectatori M. Postumi Festi orat. 1490, 31766, 32469. The word is not used at all by the lower classes who had no ancestry to boast of.

⁹⁵ Cf. 23004.

⁹⁶ Instances in which nepos is used only to trace the ancestry (e. g., 910 Druso Caesari Ti. Aug. f. divi Augusti n.) are not included in this number. In doubtful cases preference has been given to the meaning "grandson."

⁹⁷ Nepotilla appears as a cognomen 3 times: 22906, 34444, 36112.

8. GREAT-GREAT-GRANDSON (26) :

abnepos (26) : used only to indicate the ancestry of emperors, e. g., 2041 Neronis Claudi divi Claudi fili Germanici Caesaris n. Ti. Caesaris Aug. pron. divi Aug. abnepotis, 2042, 2099, 31320, 31321.

9. GREAT-GREAT-GREAT-GRANDSON (15) :

adnepos (15) : used only in indicating the ancestry of the emperors, e. g., 1023, 1024, 1072, 1073.

10. DESCENDENTS :

posteri: Very frequent in such formulae as libertis libertabusque posterisque eorum, e. g., 11124, 11142, 11159, 11165, 11363, 11431, 11489, 11493. The word occurs 49 times in a group of inscriptions examined (11000-11500). We may estimate, therefore that it appears about 3500 times in vol. VI.
proflii: 14929 heredibus profiliisque eorum. proles (4) : 1755 proli consulum, 10627 Romulea prole, 12845, 22251 mater eram natarum prole decora. All these inscriptions are metrical save 1755. suboles: 17622 et faciet suboles multos memorata per annos | sacra, 31937 te carum suboles...sensit. Both inscriptions are metrical.

B. IN COLLATERAL LINE.

1. NEPHEW (13) :

nepos (7):⁹⁸ 2977 M. Aur. Augustiano...vix. an XXXVIII...coniux et Ulpius Marcellus nepos fecerunt, 3185 avonculus nepoti, 3467 avunculus nepoti, 13055 fratres et...nepos eorum, 20109 C. Iulius...Libanus v. a. LV...nepos Libani v. a. XXXV, 21521 (in which the nepos addresses the one who calls him nepos as adfinis, i. e., the husband of the boy's aunt, probably). Circumlocutions: 2133 Flavii Silvinus et Ireneus sororis filii, 2144 filio fratris, 13040 fratri suo et filis eius, 13833 sororis filio, 14154 sororis filio, 22748 sororis suae filio.

No term of endearment is applied to the nephew, but in 21521 is found a very elaborate metrical epithet in his honor.

2. NIECE: As nepos has taken on the meaning nephew we might expect to find neptis with the sense of niece. No such meaning is cited in the lexicons however, and in none of the inscriptions does it clearly have such significance. The relationship of niece is expressed only by circumlocution:

26733 Stacte l. Eunuti sororis f., 32414 Aemilia Rogatilla C. f. sororis fil.

filiaster (18) : 3447 P. Ael. Severo...Claudia Elpis coniunx et Ti. Claudius Severinus filiaster, 6713, 7527, 8533 M. Ulpius...Felix...Ulpia

Artemidora...Agricola Caesar. n. ser. filiastero suo et Ulpiae Felicissimae filiae, 9041, 9475, 11791, 14047, 15993, 19412, 19462, 23342 Octavia Faustina... Sex. In all save 2 cases (26106, 32880), the nomina of the filiaster and the step-parent differ. In every case save one (23342), the persons using the word filiaster clearly belong to the lower classes, e. g., are slaves, freedman, soldiers or petty officials.⁹⁹ privignus (7) : 3541 M. Ovius M. f. Ter. Rufus...C. Veliternio C. f. Ter. Sabino privigno, 7377, 11374 Alcibiadi Aug. lib. privigno optimo Hesychus Aug. lib., 11816, 18912, 19333, 22356. In no case are the nomina of the privignus and the step-parent the same. In every case the persons using the word privignus are clearly of the lower classes.¹⁰⁰ Circumlocutions: 25283 Quintilia Donata...coniugi suo... et...filio huius.

2. STEP-DAUGHTER (17):

filiastra (9) : 5600, 13101 Aurelius Festus Furiciae Flaviae filiastrae bene merenti et domine et patronae, 13317, 19050, 15585 Claudiæ Saturninae filiastræ Flavi Proculi, 16934, 22308, 25726, 26271. In every case the nomina of filiistra and step-parent (when they have nomina) are different. All the inscriptions containing filiistra belong to the lower classes.¹⁰⁰ privigna (7) : 13091, 14289 L. Calvius Tergestinus...Ulpiae Hierondidi coniugi...et Aeliae Ulpiae privignae carissimae, 14367, 15446 privignae...vitricus, 19276, 21934, 26211 Sentia A. f...Plaetoriae L. f. filiae suae...Sentiae L. f. privignae suae. In every case save 15446 and 26211, the nomina of privigna and step-parent (when they have nomina) are different. All inscriptions containing privigna, save perhaps 26211, belong to the lower classes.¹⁰⁰ Circumlocutions: 21144a Lartidiae Quietae coniugi...et Lartidiae Rogatae eius P. Apusulenus Hermes.

Terms of endearment are applied to the step-child as follows: carissimus twice, dulcissimus twice, piissimus twice, pientissimus once, suavissimus once. In 13101 the step-daughter is called domina apparently in a caressing sense.

3. SON-IN-LAW (22):

gener (15) : (dat. sing. generi 23140), 6799, 7290, 7311 Iuliae Nebridi Volusius Antigonus gener et Iulia Tryphe f. matri, 13109, 13356, 15348, 17534,¹⁰¹ 18422 Flaviae Sabinæ Flavia Helias matri et Cornelius Callicrat. gener, 23140, 28562, 29726, 31942, 33781, 33900a, 34229 Casigneto genero [...]mo. Circumlocutions: 12705 filiae...et...contuber. eius, 13150 filiae et...marito eius, 15166 pater...filiae...et...maritus eius, 24680 Pomponiae Tertullæ...parentes...et...coniugi eius, 25411 Sexs. Calehemerae...et ⁹⁹ It must be borne in mind, of course, that inscriptions of the higher classes are comparatively rare. It is therefore vain to attempt to draw a conclusion from these figures as to which word for step-son was chosen or which avoided by them. Our results do, however, seem to indicate that filiaster was the favorite word of the common people, and to confirm the statement of Forcellini regarding it: est tamen non probae notae verbum seu potius plebis Romanae proprium.

A term of endearment is offered to the son-in-law but once: 34229. Only the ending is left and it is impossible to determine the adjective used.

4. DAUGHTER-IN-LAW (13):

nurus (7): 1074, 1674, 1757 nurus socero, 9449 procurator Lepidae... Caesaris illa nurus, 13528, 21500, 25670, 27846a nurui...sacer. Circumlocutions: 1975 filio...et...uxori eius, 7258 filio suo et uxori et...filio et...uxori, 14018 f. bono...uxori carissimae et quietissimae...pater...et...mater, 15083 filio et...coniugi eius, 18315 parentes Agathemero et...coniugi eius, 19775 parentibus...Fortunatus et coniux eius.

Only once is a term of endearment applied to a daughter-in-law: 27846a nurui sanctissimae. An elaborate metrical eulogy of a daughter-in-law is found in 13528.

5. HUSBAND OF A GRANDDAUGHTER

I. FOSTER-SON (159):

alumnus (155): (alu. 13251, 15112—alumn. 19537, 23656). The word alumnus usually means foster-child,¹⁰² that is, a child who owes its support to one on whom he has no natural claim. We may distinguish three classes of alumni: (1) Slaves. A child abandoned by its parents and taken up by another through pity or in hope of gain became the alumnus of the rescuer. His status was that of a slave and he bore a simple servile name. We find 63 inscriptions relating to this class, as follows:¹⁰³ 1803, 6635 Threptus Statiliae Rhodes alumnus, 7416, 7490, 8875, 10159, 10452, 11890, 11901 C. Antistius Gylippus Eutacto alumno karissimo, 12226, 12392, 12506, 13040, 13363, 13376, 13561, 14085 Callinicus et Octavia Felicissimo alumno, 14366, 14395, 15130 Ti Claudius Iucundus Aug. 1. fec. Fausto alumno suo, 15149, 15404, 15983 Coeliae Palaestine Memphis Iraenaeus Renatus alumni et heredes, 16265, 17048, 17198, 17365, 17406 Eutyche fecit Aphrodiseo alumno, 17414, 17956,

¹⁰³ For basis of classification, cf. note 63.

In several instances the child is an alumnus of a libertus: 11901, 12392, 13363, 14366, 15130, 17198, etc. In a few cases the foster-parent appears to be a slave: 12506, 14085, 17406, 22166a. The parents of the alumnus are mentioned 4 times (22166a, 23589, 27297, 35501), in 3 of which instances, one or both of the parents join with the foster-parents in setting up the stone. In 24984, a mother and her son are called alumni. Probably a young mother and her infant son being in dire want had been received into the household and the term alumna was therefore given to the mother as well as alumnus to the son. In 15983 and in 24474, the slave alumnus is the heir of the deceased foster-father and master. The seven alumni of 20307 Iulio Timotheo...decepto a latronibus cum alumnis n. VII were, no doubt, slaves. (2)

Freedmen: Often the slave foundling was freed by his master. He thereupon usually assumed the nomen of his new patron, retaining his servile name as a cognomen. Frequently, too, one freedman became the alumnus of a fellow-freedman. Pertaining to this class of alumni are 76 inscriptions which may be grouped as follows:

- (a) Inscriptions in which the alumnus bears the nomen of the foster-father (38): 1903, 2950, 3504, 5499, 5528 M. Ulpianus Artemisio...M. Ulpia Mystici et Ulpiae Samothraces filio fecer M. - (d) Inscriptions in which the alumnus bears nomina of both foster-parents: C. Salvius Eutyches sibi et Egnatiae Firmae coniugi et C. Salvio Cosmo Egnatio Firmino alumno suo.
- (e) Inscriptions in which the foster-parent has no nomen (4): 21872 T. Malius Diadumenus. Afrodisia f. alumno, 28120, 28789, 36477.
- (f) Inscriptions in which the foster-parent is not named: 16845 Didio Thremmatio alumno educatores, 24836. (g) Alumnus of a member of the imperial family: 1964. (3) Free. Alumni of free rank must, of course, have been free-born. Either they were orphans or children whose parents had been forced by some stress of circumstances to surrender the care of their offspring to friends or relatives. The following inscriptions seem to relate to this class of alumni (16): (a) Inscriptions in which the alumnus bears the nomen of the foster-father (6): 1758 Plautio Gnatio alumno...Plautius Filius Iulianus v. c., 2174, 13715, 13942 A. Caesennio Magno A. Caesennio Primianus alumnus, 14505, 17070 Ducenio Agrippino infanti dulcissimo...Ducenius Praesidius 32880 M. Aurelio Sabino evok....Aurel. Marcianus alumnus. (b) Inscriptions in which the alumnus bears the nomen of the foster-mother (4): 10227 Q. Terenti Prisciani vixit annis IIII mensibus VII; frumentum publicum accepit mensibus VIII; Terentia Sabino alumno, 12273 Aquilia Renata...sibi curante Aquilio Iusto alumno et Aquilio Prisco fratre, 13362, 16293. (c) Inscriptions in which the nomen of the alumnus differs from the nomen of the foster-parent (5): 11058 L. Aemilio Corneliano alumno fec. Sex. Cathegilla, 18195 T. Flavio Salutari Cassia P. f. Sabina alumno, 24000, 27852, 34775 L. Canimio Felici...Q. Tediis Gallus alumnus. The alumnus who bore the name of the foster-parent was a kinsman or had been formally adopted. The child mentioned in 10227 was a puer alimentarius. (Cf. 31298 and Pliny Paneg 25-27.) The term alumnus was, of course, applied properly only to dependent minors. It seems even to have been used sometimes in the sense of young child, e. g., 19874 filius hic situs est Iuli Bassus Bassienus qui vix. x...quem quoniam Manes ut alumnum di rapuerunt. If the name clung to the man of middle age it was only as a reminiscence of boyhood. The age of the alumnus is stated 84 times and range from 3 months in 18904, to 51 years in 2174. The average is slightly more than 8½ years. In 39 cases the age is 5 years or less and in only 4 cases is it over 20 years. filius adoptaticius (or adoptivus possibly when abbreviated form appears) (2): 3450 Aur. Censorino...Val. Lea uxor et Val. Probantius adop. filius disposerunt, 23673 Paccia Syntyche Paccio Amando [...] et filio adoptatio. Circumlocutions: 8409 Q. Munatio Salutari quem pro filio habuerunt Anthemius et Lycinia, 33513 M. Aurelius Sp. f. Secundus quem sibi T. Sextius Hilarus adoptarat. If the word adopto is not used loosely of quasi-adoption, this case is remarkable in that the son bears no part of the adoptive father's name.

A term of endearment is applied to the foster-son as follows: dulcissimus (34), carissimus (7), all others (6). More extended epitaphs in honor of an alumnus are:

10078 bigarius infans qui cito dum cupio currus cito decido ad umbr., 24836 infantis dulcissimi ac per hoc alumni carissimi qui propter immaturam mortem alium fructum meritorum suorum reportare non potuit.

Bellius Sosibus et Bellia Neobule et Iulia Fortunata alumnae, 36386, 36423. (d) Inscriptions in which the foster-parents have no nomen: 26179, 35704. (e) Name of alumna not given: 16280. Name of nutritor not given: 13345, 20660. The parents of the alumna are mentioned in 15384, 24035 and 34677. As was the case with the freed alumnus, the nutritor of the freed alumna is usually a libertus. (3) Free. In only one inscription is the alumna probably free born: 18124¹⁰⁴ T. Flavio Aug. lib. Lupo Caecilia Marcellina alumna¹⁰⁵ fecit. The age of the alumnae ranges from 9 months in 9253, to 28 years in 23605. Out of the 68 times that the age is stated, 24 times it is 5 years or under; only 5 times is it 18 years or over. The average age is 8 years. filia adopticia: 33981 T. Flavi Augustalis...filia adopticia censi Flavia Alexandria. Circumlocutions: 9625 A. Sempronius Laetus...sibi et Semproniae Metrotheae uxori...et Octaviae Acme nutritiae ab nobis, 25855 Sameramiae Licinianeti C. Vinedius Felicissimus quem loco filiae deligo ob merita eius.

A term of endearment is applied to the foster-daughter as follows: dulcissimus (21), carissimus (6), pientissimus (3), all others (4). More elaborate expressions of affection are:

14636 alumnae...Aia Isias quae cum dolore vitam infelicitissima exigo, 25855, 26180 unici exempli...alumnae, 27060—The alumna is called domina in 14190, anima innocentissima in 16280, and anima incomparabilis in 19190.

¹⁰⁴ 18834...] Caecilia Marcellini alumna fecit seems to be the same inscription.

¹⁰⁵ alumno, Momm. I. N. 6521.

Strangely enough Chrysonicus and Soteris are the only ones who style themselves nutritores lactanei. paedagogus (18): The paedagogus was assigned to a child after the period of infancy was past. When the child began to run about and learn to talk, the Greek paedagogus took charge of him and while he attended him also taught him to speak the Greek language. The following inscriptions seem to refer to these personal attendants:¹⁰⁶ 2210, 8998 Hymnus paedagogus Iuliae Germanici filiae, 3999, 6330, 7298(?), 8613, 8989, 9742, 9745, 9747 Iulia L. f. Farsuleius Isodorus tata, 35530, 36353. Circumlocution: 34421 Anthidi Chrysostom.... Porcius Maximus et Porcia Helias et Sardonyx et Menophilus qui eam nutrierunt in diem mortis eius.

Terms of endearment applied to the male attendant on the child are: carissimus, 25371; dignissimus, 10766; obsequentissimus, 31421; piissimus, 9834.

¹⁰⁶ Many times the paedagogus mentioned on the stones was not a personal attendant of a single child but a sort of trainer of young slaves, e. g., 8968 paedagogus puerorum, 8969-8984, 4718.

¹⁰⁷ In an article entitled "Die Sprach der romischen Kinderstube" in Archiv f. lat. Lex. 13, p. 149, Wilhelm Heraeus argues that papas and papa are sharply distinguished, the latter meaning father, the former, foster-father or nurse-attendant.
