TUESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1955

Commager Will Teach History at Amherst

Prof. Henry Steele Commager

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Jan. 9—Prof. Henry Steele Commager of the Columbia University faculty has accepted appointment as Professor of History and American Studies at Amherst College. He will retain a post as adjunct professor at Columbia.

The appointment becomes effective July 1. In a joint announcement by Columbia and Amherst it was stated that the new schedule will allow Professor Commager "increased time for research and writing." He will reside in Amherst.

He has been a Columbia faculty member since 1939, and has served as Pitt Professor of American History at Cambridge University; Harmsworth Professor of History at Oxford University and Ziskind Professor at Brandeis University. This winter he is Fulbright Professor of American History at the University of Copenhagen.

BRONX HEAT-MAKERS WILL ARBITRATE PAY

Tenants Seek Excess Mill Aurel Cas Do

By Toc co op of the par

THE SUCH TES

Columbia

Amherst

Adm and the con

Prof. Henry Steele Commager

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Jan. 9—Prof. Henry Steele Commager of the Columbia University faculty has accepted appointment as Professor of History and American Studies at Amherst College. He will retain a post as adjunct professor at Columbia.

The appointment becomes effective July 1. In a joint announcement by Columbia and Amherst it was stated that the new schedule will allow Professor Commager "increased time for research and writing." He will reside in Amherst.

He has been a Columbia faculty member since 1939, and has served as Pitt Professor of American History at Cambridge University; Harmsworth Professor of History at Oxford University and Ziskind Professor at Brandeis University. This winter he is Fulbright Professor of American History at the University of Copenhagen.

BRONX HEAT-MAKERS WILL ARBITRATE PAY

Tenants Seek Excess Mill Aurel Cas Do

By Toc co op of the par

THE SUCH TES

Columbia

Amherst

Adm and the con

Prof. Henry Steele Commager

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Jan. 9—Prof. Henry Steele Commager of the Columbia University faculty has accepted appointment as Professor of History and American Studies at Amherst College. He will retain a post as adjunct professor at Columbia.

The appointment becomes effective July 1. In a joint announcement by Columbia and Amherst it was stated that the new schedule will allow Professor Commager "increased time for research and writing." He will reside in Amherst.

He has been a Columbia faculty member since 1939, and has served as Pitt Professor of American History at Cambridge University; Harmsworth Professor of History at Oxford University and Ziskind Professor at Brandeis University. This winter he is Fulbright Professor of American History at the University of Copenhagen.