Dear

It is my privilege to invite you, with one hundred other leaders of this community, to be a dinner guest of the American Association for the United Nations on Friday, October 22nd. Because you are a leader of thought and action in this community, I not only invite, but urge your acceptance.

Now that this city is to be the permanent home of the United Nations it becomes more important than ever that this community play its part in building public opinion for the United Nations.

At this dinner we would like to talk with you about the coming program of the Association in New York City. This is a meeting to form and enlist your interest. The occasion is not financial and there will be no solicitation of funds.

As you no doubt know, the week of October 17th through 24th marks the third annual observance of United Nations Week, sponsored by the American Association for the United Nations, the National Broadcasting Company and the National Education Association, with the cooperation of seventy-five national organizations. The widest possible program of education on behalf of the United Nations is carried on throughout the nation that week, looking toward the building of a strong, well-informed public opinion in support of the United Nations.

The dinner will take place at the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf Astoria at 7:00PM, and will precede a large program for United Nations Night which will start at 10:00 there.

This dinner occasion with one hundred leaders present, is very important, and I do hope that I may have your acceptance promptly.

Sincerely yours,

Clarence Francis

RSVP: American Association for the United Nations
45 East 65 St., New York City, 21
BUTterfield 8-6000