Dear Governor:

Thank you for your letter and for your kind inquiry about my indisposition. The fact of the matter is that my year at Oxford was happy in all things except in accentuating the sensitivity of my throat to the uncongenial winter of Cambridge, and we have had rather arctic weather here recently. I was extremely sorry to have missed Irving's party and to have missed, of course, his guest of honor.

I am delighted to see by this morning's paper that you are taking the people of the State of New York to school over the air. I think it is a most important thing to do at rather regular intervals, not merely to build up opinion against misrepresentation in the minds of the voters, but also to make them feel that they are sharing in government.

With all good wishes,

Very sincerely yours,
