Honorable Herbert H. Lehman
Governor of New York
Albany, New York

Dear Governor Lehman:

Under separate cover I am sending you the results of a personal study in Great Britain of industrial and labor relations. My trip there was planned before the President sent his commission, and my inquiry was pursued without reference to the official investigation and report.

In this work I associated with me Dr. B. F. Gatherwood, an economist of Ithaca, N.Y. We visited England and interviewed leaders of industry and labor who are recognized authorities on employer-employee relations.

It seemed to me that British experience and opinion should be presented objectively in a symposium. The resulting book is in that form, entitled "Industrial and Labour Relations in Great Britain." Each authority, in his own way, brings out views that are important.

Our own conclusion is that there is a great deal from which we may benefit in the British method of adjusting labor disputes. My desire to contribute as much as I can to the solution of this problem in America prompted me to undertake this work, and for that same reason I am sending the results to you.

Knowing your great interest in removing obstacles to recovery, and feeling as so many do that labor strife is a major factor in prolonging the depression, I trust you will find this book helpful. Possibly you may wish to call it to the attention of others who are seeking authoritative information.

I do hope that this work will promote a better understanding of issues which confront us at home and help to clarify public thinking.

Your comment, after reading the book, will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Frank Gannett
