PHILADELPHIA'S
INTERFAITH SHRINE

On February 3, 1943, at 12:45 A.M., the transport "Dorchester" was sunk by enemy action in the North Atlantic. Of the nearly one thousand on board, less than two hundred and fifty survived.

The four Chaplains of three Faiths:

First Lieutenant JOHN P. WASHINGTON, Catholic,
First Lieutenant ALEXANDER D. GOODE, Jewish,
First Lieutenant GEORGE L. FOX. Protestant,
First Lieutenant CLARK V. POLING, Protestant

after quieting panic, gave their own life belts to enlisted men and went down with the ship. When last seen these four were standing on the careening deck, with arms locked and each in the tradition of his Faith, praying for the safety of the survivors. Each of the Chaplains has been awarded posthumously the Purple Heart and the Distinguished Service Cross.

The Chapel of Four Chaplains now under construction in the heart of the rebuilding Russell H. Conwell Memorial Church, at the corner of Broad and Berks Streets, is a Shrine to the memory of these men. It will call all Americans to that unity which in life and death they so heroically demonstrated.

The Memorial will contain three altars, one for each of the great Faiths. Also the crypt in which will be interred the remains of Dr. and Mrs. Conwell. Also a Mural of the historic and poignant event. The Chapel itself will be open at all times to all people. Above the entrance will burn an eternal light of Brotherhood and Goodwill.
