ELECTRONIC DATA SERVICE (EDS)

EDS, part of the Digital Social Science Center, provides assistance for the use, formatting, and manipulation of numeric and geo-spatial data. The EDS collection includes an inventory of hundreds of studies, and the computer lab offers software for quantitative analysis, such as SAS, SPSS, and Stata.

Stop by EDS for assistance in identifying data resources or with questions about your data project.

The DSSC brings together PEOPLE, TECHNOLOGY, and INFORMATION RESOURCES in an environment where students and faculty can work collaboratively, individually, or in consultation with a librarian and/or technology specialist.

THE DSSC FEATURES

- Individual computer workstations (Mac and PC), and collaborative workstations, some with 30" monitors
 - Subject specialist librarians ready to answer research questions and assist with numeric and spatial data resources and software
 - Dedicated IT staff to assist with software and equipment questions
 - Scanners and printers
 - Group study spaces equipped with monitors you can connect to your laptop
- A presentation practice room furnished with a lectern, video camera, DVD recording equipment, and 52" monitor. Reserve a time slot at the Circulation Desk
