Historical Note:

Between 1904 and 1915, The Craftsman Architects produced architectural and related designs as a department of Gustav Stickley's Craftsman enterprise. Originally based in Syracuse, New York, the office moved to New York City in 1906, occupying several different locations in Manhattan before bankruptcy disbanded Stickley's business empire in 1915.

With only a few exceptions, beginning in 1904, each monthly issue of The Craftsman magazine included plans, perspective renderings, and descriptions of one to four individual residences. As reflections of Stickley's design and lifestyle philosophies and as settings for Stickley's popular line of Arts and Crafts-influenced furniture and decorative arts, these Craftsman residences served "to substitute the luxury of taste for the luxury of costliness; to teach that beauty does not imply elaboration or ornament, to employ only those forms and materials which make for simplicity, individuality and dignity of effect." Many of these designs were also collected in stand-alone volumes, including Craftsman Homes (1909), More Craftsman Homes (1912), 24 Craftsman Houses (1912), and Craftsman Houses: A Book for Homemakers (1913).

Concurrently, these published residences were prepared as architectural working drawings for interested readers, and were offered through a membership in The Craftsman Homebuilders' Club, which was free to subscribers of The Craftsman. In some cases, the published designs vary slightly from the corresponding working drawings represented in this collection, explained in part by the practicalities of creating architectural documents that could be used for actual construction. Additionally, The Craftsman Architects customized published houses and created newly commissioned designs for private clients across the United States. A related division of Stickley's enterprise, the Craftsman Home Building Company, appears to have supervised the construction of many of these residences in the New York and New Jersey region.

Scope and Content:

This collection contains original and reprographic design and working drawings for houses and related structures designed by The Craftsman Architects, Inc., under the direction of Gustav Stickley. The collection includes 150 unique sets of drawings—including 127 of the 221 designs published nearly monthly in The Craftsman magazine. The published drawings were created between circa January 1904 and March 1915, while most of the privately commissioned drawings are undated. Included among the 150 sets are designs for residences of all sizes, schoolhouses, hardware, and installations of the Craftsman Fireplace-Furnace system. Most of the drawings are original, done in ink and colored ink on linen or graphite on trace, with a few blueprint reprographic copies completing some sets. A significant number of the sheets bear Gustav Stickley's signature, as noted in the item inventory.

Arrangement and Organization:

This collection is divided into four series, according to drawing subject, as follows:

Series I: Published Houses. Drawings are arranged by the project number under which the designs were published in The Craftsman magazine. In some instances, the actual drawings may bear a different number, in which case both the former and latter numbers are noted in this finding aid. In addition, citations to original publication information as well as to the corresponding entries in Ray Stubblebine's Stickley's Craftsman Homes: plans, drawings, buildings are noted.

Series II: Houses for Private Clients. Drawings are arranged alphabetically by client name, with citations to corresponding entries in Stickley's Craftsman Homes: plans, drawings, buildings.

Series III: Craftsman Fireplace-Furnace. Drawings are arranged alphabetically by client name.

Series IV: Craftsman Hardware. Drawings are not arranged.

Condition Note:

Many of these drawings sustained significant damage from poor storage conditions prior to their arrival at Avery Library. However, in no case is a drawing illegible or unusable.

Bibliographic Note:

Stubblebine, Ray. Stickley's Craftsman Homes: plans, drawings, buildings. Layton, Utah: Gibbs Smith, 2006.

N.B.: Although Stubblebine accounts for Avery's holdings in this book, the reader should consider this finding aid the most accurate and complete inventory of the The Craftsman Architects drawings held by Avery Architectural and Fine Arts Library.
