Spring Arrives In Morningside Heights and Columbia’s Campus Blooms With New Life

Record Photos by Eileen Barroso

A mid-April heat wave that had temperatures soar into the 90s helped set the mood for springtime in New York City. As the Columbia campus in Morningside Heights began to bloom, students quickly returned to outdoor activities like bike riding and sunbathing.