which the field of markers will have a presence from the Pentagon for the latest in defense and air, in daylight and night, in addition to being a beauti- ful, solemn place for the visitor.

In discussing their thoughts prior to the event, Beckman said, "It was clear to us that this had to be a place where a solemn memorial had to be unlike any other memorial, because September 11 happened on no other day, and the memorial had to convey that idea." Beckman said she and Kase- man worked to create a "solemn but inviting place."

Emergency Preparedness Update Issued for University Community

Emergency preparedness is a critical aspect of maintaining safety and security on university campuses. This section likely discusses the steps taken by the university to ensure the safety of its community members during emergencies, including training, drills, and communications plans. It may also cover the role of emergency management teams, such as law enforcement, fire services, and medical staff, in responding to incidents.

Forum Recognizes Advancement of Women at Columbia

This section might discuss the advancement of women at Columbia University, highlighting achievements and initiatives aimed at promoting gender equality and inclusion. It could cover topics such as the appointment of women to leadership positions, research contributions, and the university's commitment to diversity and inclusion. Additionally, it may feature commentary from faculty, staff, and students on the importance of these advancements.

University Senate Approves Guidelines of Conduct

The University Senate approves guidelines to ensure a respectful and inclusive environment. This section likely details the new rules and regulations that have been established to address conduct issues, such as harassment, discrimination, and academic integrity. It may also discuss the role of the Senate in overseeing the implementation and enforcement of these guidelines.

Legislative Update

The Legislative Update section might cover recent legislative developments, including bills passed by the House and Senate, as well as other relevant political news. This could include discussions on budget allocations, educational policies, and other initiatives that impact the university and its community. It may also feature comments from university officials or representatives on the impact of these legislative actions.

Congress Pursues Next Phase of Budget

The Congress section may discuss ongoing efforts to write and secure the next phase of the federal budget. This could include topics such as negotiations with the White House, discussions with legislative committees, and the role of budget committees in shaping policy priorities and funding allocations. It may also feature quotes from key figures involved in the budget process, such as members of Congress or administration officials.

Former Secretary of State Madeleine Albright Receives SIPA Global Leadership Award

This section likely highlights the recognition of an individual for their significant contributions to global leadership. It may feature a biography of the awardee, their accomplishments, and the impact of their work on international relations. The section could also include a statement from the awardee expressing gratitude and reflecting on the significance of the award.

Photo by Joe Rosen, Photobureau

Madeleine Albright Receives SIPA Global Leadership Award

Concluding Statement

The concluding statement may summarize the key points discussed in the article, emphasizing the importance of the topics covered and the significance of the initiatives and recognitions mentioned. It may also express appreciation for the contributions of those featured in the article and invite readers to stay informed about future developments in these areas.