 Enrollment is limited to 15 students and requires instructor's permission. From Godzilla to Pokemon (literally, "pocket monster") toys, Japanese monsters have become a staple commodity of late-capitalist global pop culture. This course seeks to place this phenomenon within a longer historical, as well as a broader cross-cultural, context. Through an examination of texts and images spanning over thirteen centuries of Japanese history, along with comparable productions from other cultures, students will gain an understanding not only of different conceptions and representations of monsters, ghosts, and other supernatural creatures in Japan, but also of the role of the "monstrous" in the cultural imagination more generally.

Wisdom Literatures

CPLS W3925 Section 001 Call # 87397 Location: TBA Pts: 3

David Damrosch/Wiebke Denecke Day(s)/Time: R 11:00 AM to 12:50 PM

This course explores the ancient literary and philosophical traditions known as "wisdom literature." We will construe wisdom literature broadly as comprising works that offer political and religious instruction on living an ethical life in a corrupt world. Major examples of such writing have been foundational in China - in the teachings of Confucius and his successors - in the ancient Near East (Egypt, Babylonia, and Israel), and in the Greco-Roman world (Socrates/Plato and onward). We will look particularly at the rhetorical and narrative strategies that wisdom writers use to advance their views; at varieties of acceptance of power and resistance to it; at modes of religious orthodoxy and heterodox questioning; at intertextual relations as later writers build on and/or subvert their predecessors; and at ancient and modern Orientalisms in the understanding of "the wisdom of the East."
