

Two Degrees of Danger

An interview that I did last night at the request of Australian friend Rob Parker (who generously subsidized a trip to Australia several years ago – where I argued, unsuccessfully, with politicians for a carbon fee-and-dividend, not a carbon tax) is available here. The interviewer confused a Vatican Climate Resolution and Nice Nuclear Power Resolution, which does not matter because I did not sign either. These matters are too important and nuanced to summarize easily in a brief Communication; but I am (really!) about to finish some relevant long overdue papers.
