

Jonathan Vogel
www.columbia.edu/~jev9

Department of Economics
Columbia University
1022 IAB, Mail Code 3308
420 West 118th Street
New York, NY 10027

jvogel@columbia.edu
Office phone: (212) 854-9925
Fax: (212) 854-8059

Education:

Princeton University, Ph.D., economics, 2007

Columbia University, B.A., economics & mathematics, magna cum laude, 2001

Academic Positions:

Columbia University, Assistant Professor of Economics, 2008- present

UCLA, Assistant Professor of Economics, 2007 – 2008

Other Professional Activities:

Faculty Research Fellow, National Bureau of Economic Research, 2009-present

Editorial Positions:

Associate Editor, Journal of International Economics, 2011-present

Publications and Forthcoming Papers:

“Institutions and moral hazard in open economies,” Journal of International Economics, Vol. 71, No. 2, April 2007

“Spatial competition with heterogeneous firms,” Journal of Political Economy, Vol. 116, No. 3, June 2008

“Matching and Inequality in the World Economy” (with Arnaud Costinot)
Journal of Political Economy, Vol. 118, No. 4, August 2010

“Spatial price discrimination with heterogeneous firms” Journal of Industrial Economics, Vol. 59, Issue 4, December 2011

“An Elementary Theory of Global Supply Chains” with Arnaud Costinot and Su Wang, Forthcoming in Review of Economic Studies

“Global Supply Chains and Wage Inequality” with Arnaud Costinot and Su Wang, for publication in American Economic Review Papers and Proceedings, May 2012.

Research papers:

“International Trade, Technology, and the Skill Premium” with Ariel Burstein, first version October 2008, current version March 2012

“Factor Prices and International Trade: A Unifying Perspective” with Ariel
Burstein, first version June 2010, current version July 2011

“Importing Skill-Biased Technology” with Ariel Burstein and Javier Cravino, December 2010

Grants, fellowships, and awards:

Alfred P. Sloan Research Fellow, 2012

CESifo Distinguished Affiliate Prize, 2011, Global Economy conference, CESifo
Munich

National Science Foundation Grant 2010-2012, “Globalization, Technology, and the Skill Premium,” with Ariel Burstein

Excellence in Refereeing Award, American Economic Review, 2009

Program for Economic Research at Columbia University Seed Grant, 2008-2009

Princeton University Graduate Fellowship, 2001-2005

Graduate School Summer Fellowship, Princeton University, 2002-2005

International Economics Section Summer Fellowship, Princeton University, 2005

Towbes Prize for Outstanding Teaching, Princeton University, 2003-2004 and 2004-2005

Mellon Grant for International Studies, 2003

Phi Beta Kappa, Columbia University, 2001

Sanford S. Parker Prize awarded to one graduating senior who majored, joint majored, or concentrated in economics, Columbia University, 2001

Professional experience:

Refereed for various academic journals, fellowships, and grants

Prepared, as a consultant for the National Academy, a survey of the theoretical literature on outsourcing, offshoring, and fragmentation, 2005