Q 94 [Taxation I]

I would now like to learn how you feel about the district government (Bupati's office). I have an envelope here with 10,000 rupiah inside. Consider this money to be income you have earned from a job. I will now ask you to make a real decision about how to allocate these finances. You have a choice between keeping the money for yourself or contributing any amount to the Bupati's office. You can choose to contribute 0, 1000, 2000...up to 10,000.

We are asking several other randomly selected households in this district to make the same decision. Money contributed will be combined from all the households and delivered to the Bupati's office. The Bupati's office will be told that these are funds from villagers in its district and the district government should use the money in whatever way it thinks is best for the kabupaten.

The choice you make about whether to contribute is private. None of the other households will know what decision you make. And the Bupati's office will not be told your identity. You can make any decision you please. I will now step out of the room. Put any money you would like to keep for yourself in your pocket and put any money you would like to give to the Bupati's office back in the envelope. When you have finished making your decision, seal the envelope shut. Then call me back into the room.

M 2 Instructions for Team Leaders

In each village there will be three types of surveys enumerated simultaneously by your teams. Those surveys are:

- a) 5 long household surveys or 2/8 short household surveys (according to Implementation Plan)
- b) Ex-combatant surveys (varies depending on number of ex-combatants)
- c) 1 village head survey (to be enumerated by an interviewer during the supervisor advance visit).

The long household surveys will be used in BRA-KDP treatment locations and matched control villages. The short household surveys will be used as controls for the ex-combatant survey and includes sections I-IV and VII-VIII.

This set of instructions should guide Team Leaders through the entire survey implementation process for each village.

I. ARRANGING AN ADVANCE VISIT TO THE VILLAGE

Before the interviewers visit a village, you should meet with the Village Head in advance.

1. Contact the FK to introduce you to the village head or give you the phone number.
2. Explain the purpose of the survey to the village head. Use language like the following when you meet the village head:

Say: My name is _____ and I am leading a team that will be conducting a survey sponsored by the World Bank and the survey firm A.C. Nielsen. Your village has been randomly selected for participation in the survey. Our goal is to obtain an accurate picture of how many people in this community experienced the conflict and how the recovery process is unfolding. We will be visiting 750 villages across every kecamatan in Aceh. I would like to arrange a time in advance of the survey to meet you, to explain the survey more, and to ask you some information about your village.

I would like to tell you about the kinds of information we will need from you in advance so that you have time to collect it. The Secretary Desa can also join in for part of our advance meeting if s/he is available.

- Did your village participate in BRA-KDP? If so, how much money did it receive?
- What are the other development projects in your village and how many people benefitted from them?
- What were the major sources of village revenue and expenditures in 2006, according to the official village records

We will also be conducting a survey of ex-TNA in your village. The main goal of this survey is to learn how ex-TNA are doing in terms of livelihood and reintegration in the post-MOU period. This information will be used for future assistance programs. We are conducting this survey with the support of senior GAM/KPA officials. We will randomly select ex-TNA living in this village to complete the survey. In order to do this, we need a full list of all ex-TNA who have lived in this village for at least one month. This should be any person who was a member of TNA (had a commander or was in the military structure) for at least one month between 1998 and 2005. This list will not be used for anything but sampling respondents and will be destroyed immediately after.

After the village head understands the purpose of the survey, get his/her help to collect important information.

3. Get information from the Village Head on Village Information Sheet

- a) Did the village receive BRA-KDP money? (For sections VI Project Perceptions, including VI.1 Submodule for all subdistricts and VI.2 Submodule for BRA-KDP subdistricts only)
- b) If yes, how much money did it receive? (For Q 118)
- c) If no, what was the most important development project in that village, in terms of money invested?
This is Project X for section 'VI Project Perceptions'

4. Get information from Village Head on Supervisor Sampling Sheet

5. Enumerate a full list of ex-TNA in that village Consult the village head and representatives of GAM-KPA to make an exhaustive list of ALL ex-combatants in that village. An ex-combatant is defined as a) anyone who was a member of TNA (had a commander in TNA or was in the military structure) for at least one month between 1998 and 2005, and b) Who has lived in the present village for no less than one month.
6. Have an interviewer complete the Village Head Survey

II. DOING SAMPLING OF HOUSEHOLDS

You will be responsible for sampling which households to be visited in each village AND the ex-combatants. You will then need to give the interviewers this information, along with details on how to find the houses/ex-TNA selected. See 'M6 Notes on Sampling' for details on how to do this.

III. PREPARING ENUMERATION TEAMS

1. Have enumeration teams fill out information forms. You will be provided with information sheets for each enumerator to fill in with village-specific data. Make sure the teams do so before their arrival in the village.
2. Provide interviewers with information on the households they will be visiting, based on your sampling. For interviewers doing ex-TNA surveys, tell them the names and locations of ex-combatants.
3. Materials for survey.
  - Cards to select the household respondents randomly
  - One envelope per respondent with 10,000 rupiah in 1000 Rp. denominations for the tax game.

IV. OVERSEE HOUSEHOLD SUBJECT SELECTION

1. Long survey
  - a) Upon arriving at a household, the enumerator should ask to speak to the head of the household (or his/her spouse). The head of household (or spouse) should provide a full list of members of that household at that time (anyone who has lived under that roof for at least one month).
  - b) From the list of all members in the 2008 household between 18 and 65, one will be selected to complete the rest of the survey on individual attitudes. To randomly select the main respondent, take out the numbered cards you have been given. Select the number of cards corresponding to the number of people listed in the 2008 household roster (up to 11).
  - c) Mix up the cards and ask the initial respondent to choose a card from the pile. Then look to see whether the number on the card corresponds to someone in the household between the ages of 18 and 65.
  - d) If it does not, ask the initial respondent to select again. Repeat until you have identified the main respondent. Indicate in the 2008 household roster who has been selected.
  - e) Note that the subject selected may or may not be an ex-combatant.
2. Short Survey
  - a) The head of household or spouse of head of household is asked to enumerate a listing of all current household members.
  - b) The only difference here is that, from this list, only a MALE individual should be randomly sampled from among the full roster of household members between ages 18 and 65 (including the household head and spouse). Use only numbered cards that correspond to male members on the roster. Once the respondent has chosen, make sure the card corresponds to a male member between the ages of 18 and 65
  - c) Note that the subject selected may or may not be an ex-combatant.
3. Replacement Household Respondent
  - a) The enumerator should make three attempts to meet with the randomly selected member of the household. If, after three attempts, that person is not available, another member of the household can be randomly selected using the same procedure.

V. PLAYING THE TAX GAME

A behavioral game involving money will be played with all respondents, EXCEPT village heads. The Tax Game asks respondents how much money they would be willing to give back to the district government. Full instructions on how the game should be played are provided in 'M 4 Question by Question Guide'. The information here pertains to the logistics of the games.

1. Basic Instructions

- a) After making their decision, respondents should tape each envelope shut. They can also put a mark on the envelope over the seal to signify authenticity.
- b) Make sure the survey code number is recorded on the front of the envelope.
- c) Enumerators should NOT open any of the envelopes. They should give the sealed envelopes along with the completed surveys back to the Supervisors.

2. Supervisors should record the amounts and keep track of the money.

- a) Check that the envelopes are taped and have survey ID numbers.
- b) At the end of the day, open the envelopes and record each respondent's contribution decisions under Q 94 [TAXATION I] on the relevant survey. You should be able to match the envelopes to the correct survey using the survey ID.
- c) Collect all contributions and put them in the provided envelope for that kabupaten.
- d) After all villages in a kabupaten are enumerated: Bundle all contributions in the envelope provided and deliver the contributions to the World Bank office in Banda Aceh. The World Bank office will be responsible for delivering the results to the Bupati's office in each kabupaten.

VI. BEFORE MOVING TO THE NEXT LOCATION...

1. Check all enumerator surveys and sign off.

2. Keep track of number of ex-TNA surveys.

- a) Based on the estimated population distribution, it is expected that 570 ex-combatants will be interviewed in BRA-KDP evaluation rural villages, around 395 in other selected rural villages, and another 35 in urban areas. However, the estimated numbers for each type of village are not caps; it is only important that 1,000 ex-combatants, selected using the procedures outlined above, are surveyed.
- b) To avoid introducing biases and to ensure as representative a sample as possible it will be important to report regularly on numbers sampled using this method with a view to adjusting the 6/10 proportion up or down as appropriate to hit the 1000 target. This should be done in consultation with the World Bank team.

M 3 Introductory Script

The following is the script you should use when you meet the household head. After you get permission from the head of household for a member of his family to participate, you should repeat the script with the randomly selected member of the household to get their permission as well.

Hello, my name is [Name]. I am here to ask if you will participate in a research study about your household and your village conducted by the World Bank in partnership with AC Nielson.

Would you be willing to hear more about the study?

[They say yes or no.]

Our goal is to obtain an accurate picture of how many people in this community experienced the conflict and how the recovery process is unfolding. We will be visiting 750 villages across every kecamatan in Aceh. I will first randomly select a member of your household to answer. This means that every person/ [every male] in your household between age 18 and 65 has an equal chance of being selected. I will ask that person some questions about their background, experiences during the war, the community you live in, and the challenges faced by your town. Their participation is entirely voluntary and there is no need to answer any question. They can refuse to answer the entire survey, or they can tell us when a question makes you uncomfortable and we will skip that question. There is no need to answer any question that makes them uncomfortable. If they like, they can end the interview at any time.

The study will be used only to understand the process of community recovery, as part of a research project. It is hoped that the information will help us improve the services provided to the community by the government and international donors and NGOs.

All answers will be kept private and confidential, and the only person that will have access to this information is the head researcher for this study. Whenever information is made available to other people from this study, that information will not include any information that can be used to identify you.

As with all studies there are some small benefits and risks associated with this research. The main risk is that we will be asking some questions about the way your household and community suffered from the conflict. For some people these are difficult memories and they do not like talking about these things. The benefits are that taking part in this research offers the possibility to help contribute to a broad understanding of the needs in your village. These will help improve the way development projects work. It also gives members of your household the possibility to voice their opinions about matters that are important.

If you or your household members have any questions, or if problems arise, you August contact AC Nielson. They have all relevant contact information for the World Bank and are supportive of this study.

We expect this survey to take approximately [60/90] minutes to complete. Are you willing to have someone in your household participate?

M 4 Question by Question Guide

The question-by-question guide discusses each question in the household survey in-depth. It explains the purpose behind the questions, clarifies definitions of key terms, and provides tips on how to ask the questions.

NOTES ON CODING

1. Pay attention to consistency check notes in the question-by-question guide. For consistency across surveys and enumerators, it is essential that you follow this language. If you need to elaborate on or explain questions more in-depth, you must fully understand the question so you do not change the meaning.
2. Pay close attention to bracketed instructions attached to questions ([PROMPTED] v. [UNPROMPTED] and [MARK ONE] v. [MARK ALL THAT APPLY]). When enumerating questions, pay close attention to whether the question is prompted (reading the list of options) or unprompted (letting the respondent answer freely, and marking the answer that most closely matches the respondents answer). Additionally, pay close attention to whether you need to mark one answer or all that apply.
3. There are a few general coding rules.
  - a. All Rupiah markings should be in the FULL amount.
  - b. The special codes -7, -8, -9 can be used anywhere but not encouraged (see general codes). If respondents answer ‘do not know’ or are hesitant, provide clarification and encourage the respondent to answer. Sometimes asking what answers they lean towards helps respondents choose an answer.
  - c. If a respondent offers an answer not on the list of options or in the special code, use 50 for ‘Other’. Please specify by writing-in the answer.
  - d. All cells must have something marked. DO NOT LEAVE ANYTHING BLANK.
  - e. Vertical line denotes fill down in the roster.
4. To maintain the integrity of the survey, it is absolutely critical that you use clear handwriting, so there is no question what answer was marked/recorded.
5. The first page (cover page) August be removed from the survey at a later point. So it is important that the survey ID is recorded on all subsequent pages.
6. There are a few definitions to keep in mind to help clarify questions to respondents.

Internally Displaced Person (IDP)	Individuals who were displaced from (forced to leave) their village due to the conflict and are living in the respondent’s community.
Conflict Returnees	Individuals who were displaced due to the conflict but have returned to their village (the respondent’s village)
Political prisoners	Received amnesty as a part of the MoU on August 31, 2005 (1401 individuals), as a part of Indonesian Independence Day celebrations on August 17, 2005 (282 individuals), or because they were later “discovered” as prisoners from the conflict in Aceh.
Definitions of Fighting Groups [Code J]
1 GAM TNA	Any person who was a member of TNA (i.e. had a commander in TNA or was in the military structure) for at least one month between 1998 and 2005.
2 GAM Civil	Any person who sympathized with and gave material support (money, food, labor) to GAM.
3 GAM Police	Any person who actively served as a member of GAM police for at least one month since 1998.
4 GAM Probation TNA	By our minimum requirement of one month, any person who completed at least 30 days of training but has not become a full fledged member of GAM TNA yet. Usually this involves at least an extra 45 days of training/indoctrination plus a 27 day probationary period.
5 GAM Unspecified	Use only when respondent says a member of the household joined GAM but does not know what branch/division that person joined.
6 Militia	Member of an organized, armed military group other than GAM or

	TNI (such as PETA) for at least one month.
7 TNI	Member of Tentara Nasional Indonesia – the armed forces of Indonesia.
8 Brimob	Police paramilitary units
9 Unknown Persons (OTK)	Unidentified perpetrators

7. The respondent can consult with other members of the household to answer questions in sections II and III. All remaining questions (every question from Section IV onward) must be answered individually and privately.
8. How to describe BRA-KDP: BRA-KDP is a community development project that gave communities a block grant and had them identify and prioritize what the funds will be spent on. Communities can propose any kind of projects, and the beneficiaries can be the entire community, a group of villagers or individuals, depending on the community's decision. Villagers affected by conflict are the principle target group, however, and should benefit from this program. Most villagers will recognize the program if called BRA assistance for conflict victims.
9. Questions asking respondents to think about events in certain years. Throughout the survey we ask people to answer questions about different years. This is to compare their situation across time. Unless we specify a period of time, these questions are about a specific point in time. We have picked these points in time to coincide with major historical events. When asking these questions, refer to the months or the event to help trigger the respondent's memory.
  - (August) 1998 – The end of DOM
  - (January) 2001 – The end of the Humanitarian Pause (Jeda)
  - (August) 2003 – martial law
  - (August) 2005 – Helsinki MOU signed

I. SURVEY IDENTIFIER INFORMATION

The first section of this survey is used to record basic information such as the location of the household, the name of the enumerator, and the time of the interview.

Q 1 Reason for unsuccessful visit. Upon arrival in a village, you will select the households to visit through the random sampling procedure described in section 'M 2 Instructions for Team Leaders'. You should visit empty households three times before determining a household is unsuccessful. Only fill out this question for households unsuccessfully visited.

Q 2 Survey ID. The enumerator should fill out the kabupaten, kecamatan and village names. Use [Code R] for the subdistrict and village codes. The household ID number will be determined during the random sampling of households. The survey code will be the combination of the village code and the household number (i.e. 1-5 in Long Household Survey villages).

Q 3-Q 5 Date/Time of Interview. Write in the month, day and year of the interview. Then fill in the interview start time using a 24 hour clock. Fill in the end time at the end of the survey.

Q 6 Enumerator Name and ID. Write in your first and last name as well as your assigned enumerator ID number.

2008 Household Roster

After completing these questions, ask the initial respondent to list all members of the household who are currently living there and have been there for at least one month. They should begin with the household head, followed by his spouse, and then the children. This information will be used to randomly select a second respondent to complete the survey with.

Q 7-Q 8 Enter the roster number of the initial respondent. This information can be used to check whether the individual is the head of household (HH). If the initial respondent is not the head of household, in Q 8, refer to Code P to indicate the relationship of the initial respondent to the HH.

Q 9-Q 10

The respondent will be selected according to the randomization protocol. The main respondent will be selected randomly from all members of the household (older than 18 and younger than 65). See

This information should be written in at the moment when you begin interviewing the second respondent, once you are sure that that person is available. It is possible that the main respondent is the same person as the initial respondent. This can easily result from a randomly selected main respondent from among any member of the household older than 18 and younger than 65.

- Q 11 First selection means that the second respondent was randomly selected and available to do the survey. If this is the case, mark 0 for ‘First selection’. Replacement selection means that the main respondent that was selected was not able to do the survey, and another member of the household had to be chosen in his/her place. In this case, mark 1 for ‘Replacement selection.’ The enumerator should try three times to interview the first selection respondent. If that person is unavailable after three tries, a replacement selection should be randomly selected.

II. HOUSEHOLD ROSTER (ROSTER I)

Say: I want you to think about your household today. Your household includes everyone who is currently living here (for at least 1 month). Maids and servants should not be included. Please tell me the names of all persons who normally live and eat together in this household. First, list the head of the household. Then list the spouse of the head followed by their children. List any other spouses, also followed by their children. Finally list any other household members. For each person, I will ask a series of questions.

II.1 2008 Household: Demographics

Q 12-Q 13

2008 ID. The respondent should list each member currently in the household and who has been there for at least one month by name. THIS SHOULD BE THE SAME LIST OF PEOPLE FILLED OUT ON THE FIRST PAGE OF THE SURVEY. Q 12 is the roster number for each household member listed in Q 13. Note, you should read each question for each member of the household before moving on to the next question. This means you are filling out the questions vertically (by column), not horizontally (by row).

- Q 14 Relation to HH. Record the relationship of each individual on the roster to the 2008 head of household. Use Code P in the survey instrument for relationships. For instance, when the person of the roster is the son or daughter of the 2008 head of household, you would mark 5. When the person on the roster is himself/herself the 2008 head of household, you would mark 1. Note that all relations are defined in terms of blood relations.

- Q 15 Sex. Note 0 for female and 1 for male.

- Q 16 Age. Enter the year of birth for each person on the roster. If they do not know their year of birth but do know their age, obtain their year of birth by subtracting their age from 2008 (the current year). If they do not know either their exact year of birth or their age, ask them for an estimate and record that estimate, followed by a question mark.

Tip on how to ask this question: Sometimes people might not know their birth year. To help them estimate, refer to the list of prominent dates in Acehnese history in ‘M 5 Timeline of Events’. For example, if the respondent knows s/he was born in the early 1940s but cannot remember which year, you could ask “Where you born before or after the Japanese invaded Indonesia in World War II?” If the respondent answers before, then you know it was in or before 1942. You can continue to use the timeline to ask questions like this until you narrow down a most likely year of birth.

- Q 17 Marital Status. Select the code that reflects each individual’s current marital status. If a person responds that they are not married, follow up by asking whether they have ever been married. If no, record ‘4’, if yes, be sure to clarify whether they are divorced/separated or widowed. ‘Living Together’ means when two individuals of marriageable age live in the same household but are not married. While this is typically not common in Aceh given cultural norms, please read this when reading the answer options to make the survey comparable with other surveys.

- Q 18 Ethnic Identity. Code L contains the list of codes for ethnic identity. If a respondent is of mixed ethnic identity and feels they have more than one ethnic identity, ask them to pick the ethnic identity they identify with most strongly. It is very important to identify their primary ethnic identity. In the very rare circumstance where they cannot pick a primary identity, you can write down the codes for up to two ethnic groups.

- Q 19 Literacy. Mark 0 if the person cannot read and write and 1 if they can. If there is uncertainty over whether the person is literate, ask if they have the capacity to read and write a letter. This is a common benchmark in ascertaining basic literacy. If they say ‘yes’ then you can enter that information.
- Q 20 Education. This question asks for the highest level of education that a person has already COMPLETED. This question does NOT ask for the level of education a person is currently pursuing. It is often important to cross-check a respondent’s answer with the relevant person’s year of birth to see if they gave you the correct information. For example, the respondent might answer to this question by saying ‘senior high school’ for his son. But you know from question Q 16 that his son was born in 1991 and is currently 16 years old. This suggests that his son is CURRENTLY in senior high school, but that his highest education level COMPLETED is junior high school. It is very important to ask follow-up questions to clarify whether the respondent answered correctly. Also note, both Islamic and secular schools are represented on the list.
- Q 21 In school. Record 0 for ‘No’ and 1 for ‘Yes’. This question should be answered for all individuals on the roster.
- Q 22 For each individual on the roster, ask which option best describes their employment situation at present. “Working in a household” refers to a homemaker or housewife (a household member (not a maid or servant) whose primary occupation involves taking care of household chores, caring for children, etc.)
- Q 23 Primary Activities. Use [Code M] to record the primary activity for every individual in the household. Be sure to ask the appropriate question depending on how they answered Q 22. Ask the respondent to pick their PRIMARY activity, the activity they spend most of their time doing. In the codebook:
- ‘Odd jobs’ applies to people who primarily have short-term, temporary work of different kinds.
  - ‘Other skilled’ applies to any long-term work that requires some specialized training. For instance, doctors or technicians are skilled but, since their category does not appear in the code list, they should be marked ‘19’.
  - ‘Other unskilled’ refers to longer-term work that requires no special training. This is often manual labor, like digging ditches.

Before completing the next question, use the roster numbers to enter the names of all 2008 household members in the same order as on the previous page.

- Q 24 All health. This is a multi-part question. Both of the ‘Yes/No’ questions should be asked of all individuals on the roster. If the person responds ‘Yes’ to either question, then the follow up question should be asked. The first follow-up question on the kind of injury/sickness refers you to Code C. You should mark all the answers that apply. The second follow-up question on the kind of health provider visited refers you to Code D. Note, the relevant period of time is within the past one month.
- Q 25 Displacement. Record 0 if the person has not been displaced at any stage since (August) 1998 and 1 if Yes. If yes: record the month and year of the first displacement date.
- NOTE: Some individuals might have been displaced more than once. The next question asks for the month and year of their most recent return. For instance, a person could have first been displaced for two weeks in August 1999 and also for two weeks in December 2004. You would therefore record 05/1999 as the first displacement date but you record 12/2004 as the most recent return date.
- Q 26 Injured I. This question asks whether a person was injured or maimed as a result of the conflict any time between (August) 1998 and the present. Injury/maiming is defined as any physical harm resulting in hospitalization or inability to function normally for at least one month. A person might have been injured/maimed by more than one group during the conflict; use Code J to mark the group that the respondent thought was responsible for the most severe case.
- Q 27 Recruitment I. ‘Joining’ a fighting group is defined as being someone who traveled or lived with a fighting group (whether or not the person was a fighter) for a continuous period of at least 30 days (one month). If s/he did not join at all, write 0 and proceed to the next question. If s/he did join, ask whether this person joined voluntarily or whether they were forced to join (by coercion, force or abduction). Circle 1 if s/he joined voluntarily and 2 if sh/he was forced to join. If the respondent did join a fighting group, record the date (month and year) the individual joined. Then use the fighting group Code J to record which group they joined.

- Q 28 Pre-Conflict Member For each person on the 2008 roster, circle no if they were not in the household in (August) 1998 and '1 Yes' if they were. Use this information to begin filling out the 1998 Household information next.

II.2 1998 Household: Demographics

For this section, you first need to complete two additional household rosters asking for information about the respondent's household in 1998 and in 2008. Roster II asks for information on individuals who were in the respondent's household in (August) 1998 and who were ALSO in the household in 2008. Roster III asks for information on individuals who were in the respondent's household in (August) 1998 but who are not in the 2008 household.

NOTE: The 2008 household is the household the respondent currently lives in. The 1998 household should be the household in which the respondent was living in August 1998. This is NOT THE SAME as asking about what the 2008 household was like in 1998. The 1998 and 2008 households could be completely different households.

Tip on How to Ask this Question:

Say: Now think back to your household in 1998. Of the individuals you listed in your household now, who was also in your household in 1998? [Write down all the names in Roster II.]

Say: Who was in your household in 1998 but is not in your 2008 household? [Write down all the names in Roster III.]

Say: In the household you were living in in 1998, who was the head of the household? [The 1998 head of household should be on either Roster II or Roster III. Put a code=1 by this person's name on the appropriate roster.]

After you have obtained this information, fill in all the information for Rosters II and III.

Completing Roster II

- Q 29 Relation to 1998 HH. Use Code P to record the relationship between each individual on Roster II to the 1998 head of household.

EXAMPLE

In 2008, Mus is the head of household and lives with his two younger brothers. In 1998, Mus's father was the head of household until he died in 2001. In this case, Mus and his two younger brothers are in both the 1998 and 2008 households, but the head of household is different in 1998 and 2008. On Roster I (2008 Roster), for Q 226, for Mus you would have entered code=1 (person is head of HH) and code=6 (brother/sister) for each of Mus's brothers. But on the 1998 Roster II, since the Head of HH was Mus's father at that time, for Mus and his brothers you should use code=5(sons/daughters).

You do not need to fill out questions Q 14-Q 18 for Roster II because you have filled out that information previously.

- Q 30 1998 Marital Status. Fill in the marital status of individuals on Roster II as of (August) 1998.
- Q 31 1998 Location. Use Code R to record the location of each individual on Roster II in (August) 1998.
- Q 32 Work Situation. Fill out this question with respect to 1998.
- Q 33 1998 Activities. Record the primary activity in (August) 1998 for each individual on Roster II.
- Q 34 1998 Literacy. Record 0 if the individual did not have the ability to read/write a letter as of (August) 1998 and '1 Yes' if they did.

Q 35 1998 Education. This is for the highest level of education completed by each individual on Roster II as of (August) 1998. Again, this is not for recording what level of education they were pursuing in August 1998, but the highest level already attained by then.

Completing Roster III

For Roster III, you should have recorded the names of all people who were in the respondent's house in 1998 but who are not in the respondent's house in 2008.

Q 29 Relation to 1998 Head of Household. Record the relationship of each individual on Roster III to the 1998 head of household.

Returning to the example of Mus's family in Roster II, Mus's father was the head of the household in 1998 but died in 2001. In this case, you would list Mus's father in Roster III and record code=1 because Mus's father was the head of household in 1998.

Q 14 Relation to HH. Record the relationship of each individual on Roster III to the 2008 head of household.

Q 15 Sex. Mark the gender of each individual on Roster III.

Q 16 Age. Write the year of birth of each individual on Roster III.

Q 18 Ethnicity. Record the ethnicity of each individual on Roster III.

Q 30 1998 Marital Status. Fill in the marital status of individuals on Roster II as of (August) 1998.

Q 31 1998 Location. Use Code R to record the location of each individual on Roster II in (August) 1998.

Q 32 Work Situation. Record that person's work situation in 1998.

Q 33 1998 Activities. Record the primary activity in (August) 1998 for each individual on Roster II.

Q 34 1998 Literacy. Record 0 if the individual did not have the ability to read/write a letter as of (August) 1998 and '1 Yes' if they did.

Q 35 1998 Education. This is for the highest level of education completed by each individual on Roster II as of (August) 1998. Again, this is not for recording what level of education they were pursuing in August 1998, but the highest level already attained by then.

EXAMPLE

You are interviewing Andi. Andi is the 2008 head of household. In 1998, however, he lived in his parents' household, along with his father, mother, and brother. When Andi got married in 2000, he left his parents' household and started his own household. He now lives with his wife and daughter. This is the information you would collect from Andi:

On Roster I (2008 Household) you would have recorded information on Andi, his wife, and daughter. Andi is the 2008 head of household (code=1)

On Roster II you would put Andi (Andi is the only person in the 2008 household who was also in the household in which he lived in 1998). You would not include Andi's wife and daughter here because they did not live in his household in 1998. Also note, Andi was not the head of his household in 1998 since he was living in his parents' household. On this roster, Andi is the son of the head of household, so for Q 29 you would put code=6.

On Roster III you would put Andi's father, mother and brother. This is true because they were in Andi's household in 1998 but are not in his household in 2008. For Q 29, since Andi's father was the head of household in 1998, for Andi's father you would record code=1, code=2 for Andi's mother and code=6 for Andi's brother.

II.3 1998 Household: Conflict Exposure

First re-record the names of individuals from the Roster III in the space provided.

The next series of questions collects information on only individuals in Roster III. See descriptions of questions Q 25-Q 27 above for more information on those questions.

Q 36 Why not in HH. Record the number that best indicates why the individual in the 1998 Roster III is no longer in the 2008 household.

Q 37 Cause of death. If the person died, then record the year of death. In the next column, select from the choices to record the cause of death. For two of the causes of death, you should provide extra detail. If the person dies of a sickness, you should use Code C to record what the sickness was in the appropriate column. If the person was killed by one of the conflict groups, you should record which group using Code J in that column.

Q 38-Q 42

Roster Summary. At this point in the survey, take a moment to complete these questions. Use the information already provided by the respondent. You should not ask these questions directly of the respondent.

Q 38 This should be available from Q 13 [Name]

Q 39 Add up the number of people in Rosters II and III. Q 39 How many members were there in the 1998 Household?

Q 40 Use Rosters II and III.

Q 41 Use Roster II or III.

Q 42 Use Q 37

III. Household Wealth

The questions in this section are intended to provide information on wealth, income and other measures of socio-economic status.

Q 43 Assets. Read down the list of assets and ask for the household in 1998, in 2005, and in the present. This question asks ‘how many’ of these items the household has/had in their home. Record the number. If the household does not have an item, record 0. Note: large agricultural machinery (O) includes hand tractors, rice mills, etc. Non-agricultural machinery (P) includes sewing machines, computers, commercial phones, etc.

NOTE: The columns for 1998 in Q 43-Q 50 refer to the household in which the respondent lived in 1998, even if it is a different household than the respondent’s 2008 household. Similarly for the 2005 household. Note that the 2005 measures should correspond to the assets just after the MoU was signed (September 2005)

Q 44 Water. For this question you want to know the main source of drinking water in 1998, in 2005, and in the present. If the respondent provides an answer for which there is a more specific response, ask a follow-up question. For instance, if the respondent says ‘well’s’, ask whether it is an unprotected or protected well. If the respondent does not have an immediate answer, read the complete list and then ask them to choose.

Q 45 Similar to Q 44. Record the material used most in the house’s external walls now and for the respondent’s household in in 1998, in 2005, and in the present.

Q 46 Write in how many (square) meters of land is being used by the household for farming in 1998, in 2005, and in the present.

Q 47 For each location, record the hours and minutes it takes for the respondent to walk there during the rainy season. If the respondent gives you an estimate of how long it takes to travel there by another form of transportation (e.g. moto, bus, car), be sure to emphasize this question refers to walking-time.

Q 48 Use Code M to note the household’s most important source of income.

Q 49 - Q 50 Perceived Poverty. This question tries to measure whether the respondent views himself/herself as being poor compared to other members of the village. Read the scale and ask the respondent to pick the answer that most closely reflects their status for the current household. Then do this again for the respondent’s 1998 household.

Q 51 Record the number of cooked meals the household typically eats in a day. This would include restaurant meals purchased.

Q 52 Destruction I. The relevant time period is (August) 1998 to the present. For this question, destruction to the house includes ransacking. ‘Workplace destruction’ includes destruction of work assets in addition to the physical workplace. If the respondent answered partly or totally destroyed, then ask if they received compensation. If they answer yes to this question, then ask whether they received ‘in kind’ compensation. ‘In kind’ refers to the replacement of what was destroyed by providing a new one (house or workplace). If they answer ‘No’ to ‘In kind’ circle 0 and then ask how much they received in money. Record that number in the ‘Monetary’ column (in 000s of Rupiah). If the respondent received a replacement, circle 1. If they received both ‘in kind’ AND cash compensation, circle 1 AND record the amount of monetary compensation s/he received.

Q 53 Destruction II. This question asks the respondent about the December 2004 Tsunami and flooding over the past two years.

Say: Were you affected in any way by the December 2004 tsunami or related earthquake? Clarify that affectedness could mean a number of things, for example, 1) death of a child, spouse, parent, or another member of the household, 2) personal injuries, and 3) destruction to his/her home or workplace. This is a question to assess if the respondent perceives him/herself as a victim of the December 2004 tsunami. If the respondent says no, circle 0. If the respondent says yes, circle 1. And then proceed to ask about the type of affectedness. Ask about the following:

- Whether there was a death of a household member due to the tsunami/earthquake;
- Whether s/he suffered from an injury due to the tsunami/earthquake, where an injury is defined as any physical harm resulting in hospitalization or inability to function normally for at least one month;
- Whether his/her home was not affected, partly destroyed, or totally destroyed; and
- Whether his/her workplace (i.e. store or farm) was not affected, partly destroyed, or totally destroyed.

Then say: Were you affected in any way by floods in the past two years? This is the same type of question as the tsunami question but for floods over the past two-year period. Again, circle 1 if the respondent says yes and ask the follow up affectedness questions, and 0 otherwise.

Q 54 Affectedness. Ask this question only if the respondent says that s/he was affected by the 2004 tsunami/earthquake. This question attempts to determine how the respondent was affected by the December 2004 Tsunami and/or floods. If the respondent answered that his/her home was partly or totally destroyed, then ask what the monetary value of his/her loss. Follow up by asking if s/he received compensation of any kind.

Q 56 This question asks whether the respondent has received any post-conflict assistance since the Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) ending the conflict was signed in August 2005. Read/describe each program and mark all that apply.

A Diyat	Assistance from BRA to people who had family members killed in the conflict. Beneficiaries received Rp. 3 million per person per year. Implemented from 2005 through the present.
B BRA-KDP	Assistance from BRA to conflict victims, delivered through KDP. Beneficiary villages received Rp. 60 to 170 million. The communities decided by themselves, through village meetings, how the money should be used. Beneficiaries had to submit proposals to KDP facilitators. The program was implemented from August 2006 through August 2007.
C BRA Housing Assistance	Housing assistance from BRA of Rp 35 million / unit to rebuild houses burnt or destroyed because of the conflict (since 2006 and ongoing).
D GAM Livelihood Assistance (through KPA)	Assistance of Rp 25 million / person to GAM ex-combatants, and of Rp 10 million / person to GAM civilians, distributed through KPA in 2005-2006.

E IOM PIKR Assistance to GAM and political prisoners	Assistance of Rp 10 million to GAM ex-combatants and former political prisoners to start small businesses. Delivered through PIKR offices.
F BRA assistance to former political prisoners	Assistance of Rp 10 million from BRA to former political prisoners.
G Assistance to PETA and GAM who surrendered before the MOU (through Kesbanglinmas)	Assistance of Rp 10 million/person to PETA and Rp 5 million / person to GAM who surrendered before the MoU, delivered through KesBangLinMas

- Q 57 For each program from which the respondent did not receive assistance, indicate the statement that best describes why they did not receive assistance.
- Q 58 This question is trying to determine whether the respondent or household directly received assistance from BRA-KDP. This assistance typically takes the form of money or goods for their livelihood. It is OK if these goods were shared with another household (as in the cow rotation program).
- Q 59 Ask this question only if the respondent says they received something from BRA-KDP. Circle the letter that best characterizes what they PRIMARILY received. Note: Many people first received cash and then later bought these goods. If they say any of the goods, ask a follow-up question on whether they received cash first and then bought those goods, or directly received those goods
- Q 60 For the primary good received, write in the quantity (a number) and circle the letter that best matches the measurement unit that good came in.
- Q 61 Record what the household did with that unit within one month of receiving it.
- A Used for production – the good was used to generate income
B Sold and invested proceeds – the good was sold and the money from the sale was invested to generate income for the household.
C Retained but not used for production – the goods were not sold but they were also not used to generate income for the household.
D Sold and saved proceeds – the goods were sold and the money is kept in the house or bank, but not used to generate income.
E Sold and consumed proceeds – Sold the goods and used the money for consumption.
G Taken away – someone took the goods when the respondent did not want them to have them.
- Q 62 If the respondent answered A, B, C or D to the above, ask this question about what the goods are being used for now.

IV. INDIVIDUAL LEVEL BEHAVIOR AND ATTITUDES

NOTE: Beginning with this section, the respondent should no longer consult with other members of the household on answers.

If more than the main respondent in present:

Say: The remaining questions are not about this household but about your own attitudes and beliefs about conditions in Aceh and the development situation in this village. For these remaining questions it is important that I speak with you, as with all other respondents, individually and privately. This is important for ensuring the scientific integrity of the survey.

Once you are on your own with the main respondent, continue with the rest of the survey.

- Q 63 This question asks about the borrowing habits of respondents. If they did borrow from any of the sources, indicate in 000s of Rupiah, how much they borrowed from each source since the signing of the MOU.
- Q 64 Occupation includes any form of gainful employment whether this is formal or informal sector and whether or not the individual receives a salary. To “have the authority to tell you what to do” should be understood as being able to dismiss the respondent or prevent them from continuing their occupation in the event that the instructions of the individual are not followed.

Q 65 Liquidity I. For this question, ask the respondent, on average in the last year, what was his/her monthly cash income. Income does not include money earned but spent on productive investments. However it does include grants and transfers from government, relatives or others.

Q 66 List all the income generating activities the respondent has been involved in in the last 12 months that have contributed to annual income or had some ownership in.

Column 2: Record (as a percentage) how much of his income came from that activity. All items in this column should sum to 100.

Column 3: Next ask the respondent how much of his total working time in the last twelve months was dedicated to each activity in the last 12 months. This should be recorded as a percentage. All of the items in this column should sum to 100.

Column 4: Next ask the respondent how much he invested in that activity in the last 12 months. An investment is defined as property or another possession acquired for future financial return or benefit. For instance, a rice farmer might invest in a water buffalo in the hope that will increase his productivity. For a shop owner, an investment could be the initial purchase of the store, or the products she buys for her shop in the expectation of selling them at a profit.

Q 67 Repeat the above for (August) 1998.

Q 68 Risk. The purpose of this question is to determine how risk-averse/risk-seeking the respondent is.

Say: Now I would like you to think through an imaginary situation with me. Imagine that there are two bags that look identical. In one bag there is 10 million rupiah in cash. The other bag is empty. However, you cannot see which one has cash and which one does not. In a situation like this, would you rather have...

Here is where you offer the respondent a choice between [1,2,3...] million rupiah for certain or taking their chances with picking one of the bags, without knowing whether it has 0 or 10 million rupiah in it. Note: if the respondent picks a bag, s/he has a 50 percent chance of picking the bag with 10 million rupiah and 50 percent chance of picking the empty bag. When you read the question, start with 1 million rupiah for certain, and increase the number until the respondent says s/he would rather have [X] million rupiah for certain than pick one of the envelopes.

For example, Say:

- Would you rather have 1 million rupiah for certain or would you rather take your chances and pick one of the bags without knowing if it has 10 million or 0 rupiah in it? Remember, if you pick one of the bags, you have a 50 percent chance of picking a bag with no money and a 50 percent chance of picking a bag with 10 million rupiah. If the respondent says 'Yes – he would rather have 1 million rupiah for certain' then enter the number 1 in the space. If the respondent says 'No – he would rather pick one of the bags then continue...
- Would you rather have 2 million rupiah for certain or would you rather take your chances and pick one of the bags without knowing if it has 10 million or 0 rupiah in it? If the respondent says 'Yes – he would rather have 2 million rupiah for certain then enter the number two in the space. If the respondent says 'No – he would rather pick one of the bags then continue on to 3 and so forth...

Continue this way until you have the minimum amount of million rupiah the respondent would want to have for certain before s/he would take their chances picking one of the bags.

NOTE: the maximum amount of million rupiah for certain should be 10. If you get all the way to 10, the respondent should say they would prefer 10 million rupiah for sure. That is because they could get 10 million rupiah for certain rather than have only a 50 percent chance of getting 10 million rupiah. If they do not say 10 million rupiah for certain at this point, then this is a sign that the respondent does not understand the question. In that case, you should go back, explain the question again, and ask the question again.

IV.2 Reintegration and Cohesion

- Q 69 Born Here. Circle 0 if the respondent was not born in this village and 1 if ‘Yes’.
- Q 70 Came here. If the respondent answered ‘No’ to question Q 70, then record the year the respondent first arrived to live in the village.
- Q 71 Came from. If respondent answered ‘No’ to question Q 70, use Code R to record the location where s/he was born.
- Q 72 This question asks whether the person perceives him or herself as belonging to one of the special categories. The definitions for these categories are included in the beginning of the Question-by-Question guide.
- Q 73 This question focuses on whether the respondent is prevented from using social services. A social service is any type of public service, like health care, education, access to water and sanitation facilities. This should be asked with respect to the last six months. The frequency of the problems should be marked, ranging from 0 to 3. If there have been some such problems then use Code H to answer the follow-up question. Note that if there are multiple responses to the by whom question then you should mark the most frequent source of problems.
- Q 74 Similar to previous question, but for economic activities. Economic activities are any activity essential to the respondent’s livelihood or ability to earn a living. This should be asked with respect to the last six months. The frequency of the problems should be marked, ranging from 0 to 3. If there have been some such problems then use Code H to answer the follow-up question. Note that if there are multiple responses to the by whom question then you should mark the most frequent source of problems.
- Circle a response corresponding to the frequency with which the person has had these problems.
- Q 75 This question asks for the respondent’s overall perception of whether s/he thinks they have difficulties being accepted in the village.
- Q 76 Only ask this question if the respondent is an ex-combatant.
- Q 76 Accept Others. Say: I would now like to ask you some questions about your feelings towards different categories of people.

Start with the first row and read across. Fill in the name of the category of people where you see an [...]. For instance, for the first row, ask: Should ex-combatants be welcomed in this village? (mark response)...Should new migrants be welcomed in this village? (mark response)...etc. Even if the respondent’s children are too young to be married, or the children are already married, the question is whether the respondent would be willing to have a person from this group as part of the family.

NOTE: This question is designed so that the later parts (e.g. close friendship and marriage into the family) imply a greater level of closeness than the first parts (e.g. tolerating in the village). Typically, a respondent would not answer ‘yes’ to the later parts if they answered ‘no’ to the first parts. If they do this, then you should check the consistency of their questions. For instance, if a respondent says ex-combatants should not be welcomed in the village but could be among his/her close friends, then you could ask: If you feel [ex-combatants] should not be welcomed in the village, why are you willing to have them amongst your close friends? Use this kind of questioning to make sure the respondent fully understands the question.

- Q 78 Fill in 0 if ‘No and 1 if ‘Yes’.
- Q 79 First ask the respondent to list his/her five closest friends in the village. There is no need to take down full names; first names or initials will be sufficient. After you have a complete list then it is often quickest to complete this question by reading down the column. For instance, beginning with gender, ask “Is [person 1] male or female...Is [person 2] male or female...” until you have completed each column.
- Q 80 List the names of the three people the respondent would be most likely to start a business with. There is no need to take down full names; first names or initials will be sufficient. After you have the three names, then go by column. Note: the people listed here can be the same people as in Q 79.

- Q 81 The purpose of this question is to see whether respondents perceive themselves to have been harmed by the conflict.
- Q 82 If they answer yes, ask them why they consider themselves a conflict victim. Read down the list and circle all that apply.
- A Death due to conflict. The widow or widower, children or the household member who relies on the deceased are included.
  - B Disappeared / Kidnapped / Detained due to conflict. For disappeared people, the beneficiaries August be the remaining spouse, children or member of the household who relies on the person who disappeared.
  - C Missing body parts or permanent physical disability due to conflict. The person suffering from the physical disability or members of the household relying on him or her for support qualify as conflict victims.
  - D Houses. Owner or occupant of a house that has been burned or damaged due to conflict to the point that it is no longer fit to live in.
  - E Primary Livelihood. Their primary source of income at the time was damaged or destroyed.
  - F IDPs. This category includes Internally Displaced Persons or members of the household who evacuated from their original area due to conflict. Those who are still staying in other villages and those who have fled but returned to their village are also included.
  - G Mental illness due to conflict. The person suffering from or members of the household of the person suffering from a mental illness due to the conflict are included.
  - H Physical illness due to conflict. The person suffering from or members of the household of the person suffering from illness due to the conflict are included.

IV.3 Associational Membership

- Q 83-Q 84 Assoc. Activity. Ask if any of the following types of associations are active in the village. Then read the each of the different associations. If the respondent says ‘Yes’ circle 1. If the respondent says ‘No’ then circle 0. For all of those organizations where 1 is circled, then ask Q 84. Circle 0 if ‘No’ the respondent is not a member and 1 if ‘Yes’, the respondent is a member.
- Q 85 Trust to watch children. Ask the respondent if they can think of at least one person from the following groups who they could turn to take care of their children if they had to go away for a day or two. If the respondent does not have children, this question should be asked in the hypothetical case of children left in their care (eg the children of relatives).
- Q 86 This question asks respondents to compare their living conditions now to 12 months ago. Read off all of the options and then circle the appropriate one.
- Q 87 War restart. This question asks about the likelihood of the conflict starting up again within the next two years. First read the question and then options A-D before asking the respondent to answer.

IV.4 Trust and Faith in Government/Awareness of Local Government

- Q 88 This question asks for factual information, so there is a right or wrong answer. The questions are for you to answer depending on what the respondent says. The respondent could do one of three things: 1) not attempt to answer (because they do not know the answer/are unwilling to give the answer); 2) answer the question but get it wrong; or 3) answer the question and get it right. For each part to this question you should already know the correct answer from your Village Information Sheet. Circle the number that best reflects what the respondent does.
- Q 89 Ask whether the respondent voted in the last election for Governor of Aceh. Mark 0 if ‘No’ and 1 if ‘Yes.’
- Q 90 First ask whether the respondent voted in the last election for Governor of Aceh. Mark 0 if ‘No’ and 1 if ‘Yes.’ If ‘yes’, then ask what candidate they voted for. THIS QUESTION IS UNPROMPTED. The respondent should tell you either the name of one of the candidates, the number on the ballot, or (where applicable) the candidate’s political party. If the respondent seems confident but only knows the ballot number, the political party or the name, then circle the appropriate answer. If they only know the number or party, it is best to confirm the respondent’s answer by telling them the name and asking them if that sounds right. For instance, if the respondent can’t remember the name but knows he voted for number 6 on the ballot, then you should confirm by asking (for example) “Was it Irwandi and Nazar?” Only put -9 for ‘Don’t Know’ if the respondent really seems to be unable to recall who s/he voted for or appears unsure. Candidates are listed by their order on the ballot.

Q 91-Q 93

Ask whether they will vote in the next election for governor of Aceh. These questions are intended to measure local government trust/faith by planning to vote in local elections (for governor) and trust/faith in central government by planning to vote in the next presidential elections. For each question, read the answer options and circle the most appropriate.

Q 94

Taxation 1 (Tax Game). This is a behavioral game that involves real money. The goal of this game is to see whether individuals would be willing to contribute a voluntary tax to the government. If they are willing to contribute a voluntary tax, this will be considered an indication of trust/confidence in government at the district level.

Important: Use the appropriately labeled envelope (it should say ‘Tax Game’ on it).

Say: I would now like to learn how you feel about the district government (Bupati’s office). I have an envelope here with 10,000 rupiah inside. Consider this money to be income you have earned from a job. I will now ask you to make a real decision about how to allocate these finances. You have a choice between keeping the money for yourself or contributing any amount to the Bupati’s office. You can choose to contribute 0, 1000, 2000...up to 10,000.

We are asking several other randomly selected households in this district to make the same decision. Money contributed will be combined from all the households and delivered to the Bupati’s office. The Bupati’s office will be told that these are funds from villagers in its district and the district government should use the money in whatever way it thinks is best for the kabupaten.

The choice you make about whether to contribute is private. None of the other households will know what decision you make. And the Bupati’s office will not be told your identity. You can make any decision you please. I will now step out of the room. Put any money you would like to keep for yourself in your pocket and put any money you would like to give to the Bupati’s office back in the envelope. When you have finished making your decision, seal the envelope shut. Then call me back into the room.

Next ask the respondent to repeat the rules of the game back to you to make sure they understand. Ask the following questions to confirm if they understand the game:

Q: What decision are we asking you to make?

A: To decide what amount out of 10,000 if any to contribute to the district government.

Q: What will happen to any money that you contribute?

A: It will be combined with contributions from other villagers and go to the district government.

Q: What can the district government do with the money it receives from villagers?

A: It can use the money any way it best sees fit.

Q: Will you be told who else has played? Will others find out about how you played?

A: No

Once you are convinced they understand the point of the game, say:

Now I am going to give you the 10,000 rupiah in an envelope. I will leave the room for one minute. When you have finished making your decision, staple your envelope shut and put the envelope in the box.

Important: Make sure the envelope you give to the respondent has his/her survey ID number on it and, at the end of the day when the envelope is opened, record the correct amounts in Q 94 (see M 2 Instructions for Team Leaders for more details).

Exit the room and wait until you are called back in. If it takes longer than a minute, call out to the respondent to see if they need more time. When you re-enter, check to make sure the envelope has been sealed, but do not open the envelope. If the respondent says s/he needed more time, exit the room for another minute. If the respondent did not seem to understand the game, re-read the script above and clarify. FILL IN THE AMOUNTS ONLY AFTER THE SURVEY IS COMPLETED AND YOU HAVE LEFT THE HOUSEHOLD.

- Q 95 Taxation 2. This question asks the respondent how s/he would want to divide 100 million between the village apparatus office and villagers (directly through bagi rata) if that amount were made available to support development projects in the village. One choice is to give some amount (up to 100 million) to the village apparatus, which will then decide on how the money should be spent. The second choice is to give some amount (up to 100 million) to villagers, who will then divide the money equally among themselves. We want to figure out whether the respondent feels decisions about how money is spent for development are better made by village officials or by individual villagers themselves. Note: The amount given to the village apparatus and to villagers should sum to 100 million.
- Q 96 Voice. The main point of this question is to learn what the respondent feels would be an effective action to take to improve the situation in the village. For each action, ask if this would make no difference (in changing the situation in the village), whether it might help a little, or whether it would help a lot. After the respondent has answered for each option, ask him/her to pick the action that s/he thinks would be most effective and second most effective in changing the situation in the village. Note: the respondent's choice for 'most effective' and 'second most effective' should come first from what they selected for 'This would help a lot.' If they selected fewer than two actions here, then they could select from 'This might help a little.' If they said 'No difference' for all of the actions, then write -8 for 'Does not apply.'
- Q 97 Bribe. 'Get an official document' refers to any formal paperwork that is provided by a government official or public office. This could include the KTP national ID card, a license of land certification, but these are not the only options.

If the respondent did not ever have to worry about acquiring an official document, having his/her child pass a test, or avoiding a problem with police/army, indicate -8 for 'Does Not Apply' under Other Code. One of the four answer categories ('Never', 'A Few Times', 'Often', and 'Almost Always') should only be selected if the individual needed to do the indicated action last year. So if the individual tried to get an official document, had a child in school, and worried about problems with the police/army last year, then one of the four answer categories should be selected for each of the 3 activities. Clarify this to the respondent.

- Q 98 This question assesses corruption in the police/army and GAM/KPA.

V. COLLECTIVE ACTION

V.1 Community Decision Making Processes

- Q 99-Q 100
First ask whether the respondent has ever attended a village meeting. If yes, then write down the day, month and year of the last village meeting the respondent attended. If the person does not remember the exact date, at least record the month and year. If the respondent does not remember the month, record the year.
- Q 101 This question is unprompted. It measures who the respondent thinks plays the biggest and second biggest role in who should make decisions about how to invest funds to improve infrastructure. You can, however, ask follow-up questions to narrow down the responses. For instance, if the respondent says "the government" you can ask: "which level of government" to figure out whether they mean the village, subdistrict, district or provincial level governments. Similarly, if they say "village leaders" you can follow-up by asking "elders/traditional leaders (tokoh masyarakat), religious leaders or the village head/government?" Villagers means community/masyarakat.
- Q 103 This question asks the respondent to think about who actually benefits from the kinds of projects selected in village meetings, relative to 'other people.' It does not ask who should do well. By 'other people' we mean average villagers. For example, the first option asks whether conflict victims do much better, somewhat better, the same, somewhat worse, or much worse than average villagers. Read down the full list and circle the appropriate answer. After completing the list, ask the respondent which group they think benefited most from the projects selected at village meetings and who benefited least.

- Q 105 This question measures level of satisfaction with village decision-making on matters that affect all community members.
- Q 104 This question measures the respondent's sense of political efficacy. We are interested in what actions the respondent has actually taken to influence village decisions.
- Q 105 Say: I am going to read you differing opinions about the way your community should be managed. Each time I am going to read you two different opinions about the same general issue. Please tell me which of the following statements is closest to your view?

Begin each pair of opposing viewpoints (each of which represents one question) by saying:

Some people think that [Argument A]. Other people think that [Argument B]. Which of these two arguments most closely reflects your own views?

It is often helpful to gesture for emphasis by holding out your left hand to your far left side when describing Argument A and holding your right hand to your far right side when describing Argument B.

So you could say:

On the one hand (left arm raised to the enumerator's left side, as though gesturing to those on one side of the argument) some people think [Argument A]. On the other hand... (right arm raised to the enumerator's right side, as if gesturing to those on the other side of the argument) some people think that [Argument B].

Once they have selected Argument A or B, then ask:

Do you strongly or weakly agree with this position?

If they feel strongly, select 'Strongly with A/B'. If they say weakly, or indicate reluctance or ambivalence, select 'Weakly with A/B'.

V.1 Public Goods Provision

- Q 106 This question asks specifically about community initiatives that are NOT BRA-KDP. Read down the list of possible community activities and mark 0 if 'No' and 1 if 'Yes.' 'Increase agricultural productivity' refers to any activity, like clearing land, that improves agricultural production. Then, for those where the respondent said 'Yes' ask all three follow-up questions. For 'Who initiated it' see if the respondent can pick the organization that played the most important role. The next question asks whether anyone in the household gave material support to make this project happen. Material support includes time, labor, food or money to make this project happen.

This final component of the questions asks respondents to think back to 1998, and state whether any of the listed initiatives took place. Mark 0 if 'No' and 1 if 'Yes'.

- Q 107 This question measures what the social sanction would be for not participating in gotong royong (community activities). Read the list of options and then circle only one.

NOTE: The option 'they would not be helped in the future' implies that the community would not help the household. The next option, 'they would be punished' is more severe. Punishment could include community members socially distancing themselves from the household, refusing to invite them to participate in family celebrations or community events, or even denying the household access to social services.

V.3 Local Conflict

- Q 108 Divisions. This question asks about cleavages or divisions within the community.

Say:: Sometimes it is hard for communities to work together because of differences that exist between people living in the same village. To what extent do differences such as the following tend to divide people in the village? Then read the first example. Say: Is there a division between rich and poor? Then read the three answer options. For any case where the respondent answers 'minor source of division' or 'major source of division' then ask the follow-up question about whether it has escalated into violence in the post six months before going on to the next division.

After you have read through the full list, for any difference that is a minor or major source of division (they marked a 1 or 2), ask the respondent whether these differences have escalated to physical violence. Then ask the respondent whether the differences have prevented them from carrying out their normal economic activities.

Finally, ask the respondent to pick the biggest sources of division and mark in the appropriate column with a circle.

Q 111 Conflict Resolution. Circle 0 if the respondent feels that conflicts in the village 'tend to endure' and 1 if they are normally 'resolved satisfactorily' By "tending to endure" is meant that a conflict between individuals or groups in the communities is liable to last for 3 months or longer; otherwise satisfactory resolution is recorded.

Q 112 Theft. Assets include anything that you own. This could include a moto, a television, money, seeds or farm machinery, for example.

Q 113 Fighting. This could be physical fighting for any reason. It also does not matter who started the fight. Record 0 for 'No' and 1 for 'Yes.'

Q 114 Security. Circle 0 for 'No' never feel unsafe and 1 for 'Yes', sometimes feel unsafe. Feeling unsafe here does not mean general fear of traffic accidents but rather a fear of being attacked or harmed by someone on the way to work.

Q 113-Q 114

By asking about contact with people from other kecamatan, this question aims to measure probably spillover effects of BRA-KDP. The respondent should add up the total number of times s/he was visited by someone who lived outside the kecamatan, plus the number of times s/he traveled to a village in another kecamatan to visit someone, in a typical week (seven days). If they answer more than one time, then complete Q 114, which asks them to name the kecamatan that they receive most of their visitors from, or go to visit people the most. If those kecamatan are different, have them pick the kecamatan that they have the most contact with. Individuals can specify up to three kecamatan, but only if it is difficult for the respondent to chose one kecamatan. If possible, have the respondent determine which ONE kecamatan s/he goes to the most to visit people and/or s/he receives most of his/her visitors from.

VI. Project Perceptions Submodule for all

This module will be used in all villages but the questions will vary slightly for those villages that already got BRA-KDP funds and those that did not. In villages that did not get BRA-KDP, you will ask the question using another development project in that village. Your team leader will tell you the name of that development project when you arrive in the village. In the manual, Project X refers to the other development project (not BRA-KDP). Your team leader will also tell you whether Project X had community decision-making meetings, which is important to know for later questions.

NOTE: It is very important that the respondent knows exactly what you mean by BRA-KDP, and does not confuse this program with another development project. See the description of BRA-KDP in this manual so that you know the details of the project. They also are answering questions in this section for their village ONLY, not for BRA-KDP/Project X as a whole.

Q 115 First clarify whether the respondent has heard of BRA-KDP or Project X. Of not, then skip to Q 124

Q 116 This question presents a list of possible problems in BRA-KDP/Project X. Read each possible problem, then ask the respondent whether s/he think this was not a problem, a minor problem or a major problem in BRA-KDP/Project X. After you have gone through the full list of problems, then ask the respondent to pick which problem was biggest, and which problem was second biggest. These should first come from the list of 'major problems.' Even if the respondent answered 'not a problem' to everything, still try to see if they can identify two most likely problems. If they cannot, circle 'None'.

Q 117 This question asks the respondent for their opinion on the overall helpfulness or harmfulness of BRA-KDP/Project X in their village. Read the answer options and circle the most appropriate.

IV.2 Submodule for BRA-KDP only

The questions in this section should only be asked if the respondent lives in a village that got BRA-KDP money.

Q 118 Say: How much money was allocated to this village by the BRA-KDP project? If they do not know, then use the 'Other Code' column.

Q 119 These questions ask whether the respondent was aware of village meetings for BRA-KDP. If so, did s/he attend? All locations that received BRA-KDP held meetings, so it is a measure of information availability. If the respondent was aware there were meetings, fill in whether they attended any of those meetings.

Q 121 Proposed Projects. The point of this series of questions is to learn more about what projects were actually discussed in the village.

Do not prompt the respondent! Ask him/her to list all the projects they recall being discussed at any of the village meetings. These could be projects that were formally ranked by the village or that were just raised at village meetings. Note: the respondent will probably mention projects but it will be up to you to circle the letter for the category that best represents that project. These are the same categories of projects as in [G Project Codes]. Circle all the projects that apply.

When a respondent picks a project, select the most suitable project category. Keep in mind:

- 'Improve access to water' means any project related to better water for the household or community, like a public well or draining pipe.
- Improve sanitation means better water management or trash disposal systems.
- 'Support for Agriculture' includes any assistance to improve farming. This could involve crops or seeds, livestock, or better irrigation for farms. NOTE: Projects related to irrigation should be included in this category, not in the 'Improve access to water' category.
- The category 'Support for Aquaculture and Fishing' should be used for any project that helps with water-based livelihoods like shrimp-farming, or fishing in oceans/rivers/lakes.
- Bagi rata is defined throughout this survey as the equal disbursement of money so that all villagers or all households get the same amount, and in the form of cash.
- If the respondent says something that you do not feel fits one of the categories, be sure to note it in the 'Other' category.

It is possible the respondent could list two projects in the same broad category. When this happens, say that you have already made a note of that and ask if there is another project area that s/he thinks is second most important.

For Q 122, you are asking which projects the respondent personally felt were most important for the village. For this question, read each of the projects that the respondent just mentioned for Q 121 and ask him/her to pick the one project s/he thought deserved the most support.

For Q 123, ask the respondent to list all the projects that were accepted by the village and received funding from BRA-KDP.

NOTE: Bagi rata here is defined as the equal disbursement of BRA-KDP money so that all villagers or all households get the same amount and in the form of cash. Some villages might use a slightly different definition of bagi rata, so it is very important that the respondent is clear on the definition.

VII. Recruitment

Q 124-Q 126

The purpose of this series of questions is to learn more about potential benefits respondents thought they might have received from joining TNA and the tradeoffs between joining and not joining TNA.

Say: During this period, if you wanted [...], would you have been better off in TNA/better off as a civilian/it would have made no difference?

If the respondent has answered 'No' to each potential benefit (0 for every benefit), then as a consistency check say: So in 1998, did you think there were absolutely no benefits you could have gained from joining TNA?

- If individuals answered no to all previous questions, including the 'any other benefits' question, then they should answer 'Yes' so you can circle 1 for the potential benefit 'NONE'. If they do not answer 'Yes', then clarify the question and ask it again. I then circle 1 for the potential benefit 'NONE'.
- If the respondent has answered 'Yes' to at least one benefit, the respondent should say 'No' and thus, you should circle 0. If the respondent says 'Yes', clarify the question and ask it again.

Q 126 Say: Which of these benefits do you think was most important in your decision to join or not join? After the respondent answers this question, circle the appropriate letter. Respondents may have forgotten the list of possible benefits, so remind the respondent of the list of potential benefits of interest if s/he is having a difficulty recalling this list.

Error! Reference source not found.

Then repeat the same set of questions, but now ask the respondent to think about the year 2001, around the time Megwati Sukarnoputri became President of Indonesia.

Q 132-Q 134

These questions are designed to get a rough measure of the respondent's welfare at the two points in time.

Q 135-Q 138

These questions are designed to assess whether the respondent knew anyone in GAM during each of these periods and whether anyone tried to personally recruit them. Begin with the period from August 1998 – January 2001, and ask the respondent whether he/she personally knew anyone in GAM at that time. Then ask whether someone tried to recruit him/her. Then ask whether they first joined GAM in the period. Repeat for the period from February 2001-August 2005.

Q 139 Use this question to find out when the respondent first joined TNA.

Q 140 -Q 141

The purpose of this series of questions is to measure the degree of support/opposition individuals felt or would have felt from their parents, community members, and/or friends from joining GAM-TNA, and how influential these groups were or would have been in an individual's decision to join GAM-TNA.

If the respondent is an ex-combatant, the question should be asked ONLY for the period in which he/she joined. Then, read: When you decided to join GAM-TNA, in the period just before you joined, did the following groups support or oppose your decision? Then read the first group and ask: In your decision to join GAM-TNA, did [this group] strongly support, weakly support, not have a strong opinion one way or the other, weakly oppose, or strongly oppose your decision?

Note: Here we are interested in how the respondent felt in the period (i.e. one month) just before they joined. For example, for the group 'Community Members', you would say: In your decision to join GAM, did community members strongly support, weakly support, not have a strong opinion one way or the other, weakly oppose, or strongly oppose your decision? After recording the respondent's answer, you would then ask: Did this have no influence, some influence, or a lot of influence in your decision?

If the respondent is not an ex-combatant, ask both questions. Read: Had you decided to join GAM-TNA, would the following groups have supported or opposed you in this decision? Then read the first group and ask: Had you decided to join GAM-TNA, would [this group] have strongly supported, weakly supported, not have a strong opinion one way or the other, weakly opposed, or strongly opposed your decision? Circle the appropriate number. Proceed through the list of groups in this way.

For example, for the group 'Community Members', you would say: Had you decided to join GAM, would community members have strongly supported, weakly supported, not have had a strong opinion one way or the other, weakly opposed, or strongly opposed your decision?

This module will is intended for GAM-TNA members only. If the respondent was a member of GAM-TNA for at least one month between 1998 and 2005, mark that they were an ex-combatant and process with this section. Otherwise, skip these questions and go to the conclusion.

VIII.1 Linkages

- Q 143 Record the month and year when the respondent first joined TNA. Note: some individuals might have joined TNA, left and then rejoined. Ask for the month and year when the respondent joined TNA for the first time. For instance, a person could have first joined TNA in August 1999, left in June 2001 and rejoined in December 2004. You would therefore record 05/1999 as the date the respondent first joined TNA.
- Q 144 Record the location in which the respondent was living when he first joined TNA.
- Q 145 Record the month and year the respondent returned to his/her community. This is not necessarily the date that the respondent returned to the village that s/he lived in previous to his/her joining TNA. Post-conflict, the respondent August have chosen to relocate. Document the date in which the respondent left TNA, i.e. no longer participated in the conflict, and began his/her life as a non-combatant GAM member or civilian with no ties to GAM. If the respondent says November 2004, then record 11/2004.
- Q 146 This question is intended to determine whether or not the respondent received was a political prisoner that received amnesty as a part of the MoU on August 31, 2005 (1401 individuals), as a part of Indonesian Independence Day celebrations on August 17, 2005 (282 individuals), or because they were later “discovered” as political prisoners. Note that not all TNA members were incarcerated, and very few villages have more than a few amnestied GAM. Provide necessary clarification to this question so that the respondent knows that you are asking if s/he were one of the individuals that were incarcerated and then subsequently given an official pardon. If the respondent says s/he is an amnestied political prisoner, circle 1 for ‘Yes’, otherwise, circle 0 for ‘No’.
- Q 150 This question asks whether the respondent carried a weapon during the conflict. Read: Did you carry a weapon? If the respondent says that s/he did, say: what weapon? Write in the relevant weapon type. For example, if an individual says that s/he carried an AK 47, write in AK 47. An individual might list more than one weapon. One might need to ask follow up questions to narrow the weapon type. For example, if the individual says s/he carried a gun, ask about the gun type (for example, AK-47 or MI-6).
- Q 151 This question seeks to learn the respondent’s reason(s) for joining TNA. First ask this question without prompting. Say: Why did you become involved in TNA? Circle the letters of all corresponding reasons.

Then read each of the listed reasons, and read: Is this a reason you become involved in TNA? For example, for ‘I was offered money to join’ say: I was offered money to join. Is this a reason you became involved in TNA? If the respondent indicates yes, circle the corresponding letter. Finally, ask the respondent among all of these reasons for joining, which was the most important. Circle the corresponding letter.

CONSISTENCY NOTE: If the respondent noted the reason with the unprompted question, then s/he should agree when asked about it in the prompted question. Provide clarification to the respondent if this is not the case.

- Q 152 Ask the respondent what rank he held when he first joined TNA.

VIII.2 - 0 Periods

In the following sections you will ask the respondent the same set of questions about two time periods. The first period is between August 1998 and January 2001.

Q 153-Q 155

These three question ask information about where the respondent was located at three different points during the period. Use the location information in the codebook [Code R] to complete these questions.

- Q 156 This question asks whether the respondent was an active participant in GAM-TNA during the period. An inactive GAM-TNA member would be a person who, while officially a member, played no official role in GAM activities (combat or non-combat) during the entire period. An active GAM-TNA member is a person who worked full-time or was called upon on a regular basis to undertake activities for GAM-TNA.

Q 157 This question asks whether the respondent was in more than one unit of GAM-TNA during the period. We ask this question because the next set of question refer to characteristics of the unit in which the combatant was engaged during the period. If the combatant was a member of only one unit during the period, you should indicate to him to answer questions about that specific unit. If he was a member of multiple units, you should indicate to him to answer questions about the unit in which he spent the most time during the period.

Q 158 Ask this question ONLY after you have finished the series through Q 165. What rank/position did you hold at the end of this period? Circle the corresponding letter. If the position the respondent gives is not on the list, record it under ‘Other’ and circle 50. If the respondent was a guerilla soldier (a member of the angotta) without a position, circle A for ‘None’.

Q 159 Write in the name of the unit that you will refer to in asking the next series of questions. If the unit did not have a specific name, put -8. If the respondent refuses to answer, put -7.

Q 160-Q 163

This series of question covers characteristics of the unit in which the combatant fought during the period. It begins with a question asking what subdistrict the respondent was most active in during this period. Use code [Code R] to indicate the correct subdistrict.

Q 161 Say: Approximately, how many members were in that unit during this period? Remind the respondent that he should still thinking about the unit during the period in question. Record the number. If needed ask follow up questions until the respondent provides you with a number, even if it is only a rough estimate. For example, if the respondent says “A lot.” Follow up by asking if it is was say more or less than 100, moe or less than 50 and so on until you reach an approximate number of members. In practice the number will likely vary over the course of the period and so you should seek to find the approximate average number for the period.

Q 162 Say: Approximately how many of the combatants in that unit were from the subdistrict that the unit was based in? Record the respondent’s answer. Again, ask follow up questions until the respondent provides you with a numerical estimate, even if it is only a rough estimate. Do not record a fraction or percentage. Given the number indicated in Q 161, work with the respondent to come up with a quantity and not a proportion. For example, if the respondent says approximately half and the answer to the previous question is 90, then you would record 45 ( $1/2 \times 90 = 45$ ).

Q 163 This question asks whether the commander of the unit was from the kecamatan in which the unit was based for the majority of the period. By “from,” we refer to either born in the kecamatan or having spent a significant part of his life (five years or more) living in the kecamatan before joining GAM-TNA.

Q 164 This question asks the respondent to provide a rough estimate of the number of combatants from his/her unit that died in this period. We are interested in combatants that died as a result of the war (ie. they were killed in combat). Combatants that died of other causes should not be included in the total.

Q 165 Say: Were you ever injured in combat during this period? This question is intended to measure whether the respondent was injured as a result of combat, i.e. shot by TNI. As in Q 26, injured/maimed is defined as any physical harm resulting in hospitalization or inability to function normally for at least one month. This definition excludes things like slight scrapes and bruises from running, hiding, etc. and might include things like a broken leg, a burn, and gunshot wound. One would also exclude notable injuries that occurred from a reason other than combat, i.e. during training. If the respondent had a notable injury while in combat, circle 1 for ‘Yes’. Otherwise, circle 0 for ‘No’.

Q 166-If A, B or C to Q 169: Q 170

These questions are designed to assess the extent to which GAM-TNA was able to interact with civilians during this period of the war. We are trying to understand whether the village was in the control of the military or GAM by seeing whether GAM operatives could operate freely within the village or if they had to conceal their activities or were unable to carry out their activities within the village. Again, for each question, respondents can choose from a range of answers: always, often, sometimes, or never.

- Q 171 We ask combatants to indicate which statement best describes how decisions were made during this period about what military operations to conduct. Again, because we are talking about a long period, we want the respondent to provide information about how decisions were made in general, even though of course there may be exceptions.
- Q 172 This question asks to tell us a little bit about how operations against non-military targets (ie. civilians) were carried out. We do not want to know whether this combatant played any specific role in such attacks; you may need to make this clear to the respondent. We simply want to know whether, when such attacks were carried out, were the civilians who were targeted known by name to the units (in advance) or were they generally not known by name before the attacks were carried out.
- Q 173 Line of Command. This question is intended to learn more about the GAM-TNA line of command, namely, whether individuals knew a particular commander by name, whether a commander knew this individual by his/her name, which commanders individuals were accountable to, answered to, and were disciplined by, as well as the accessibility of these various commanders. These questions should be asked even if the person occupied that position him or herself.

During the first period, not all TNA units followed the same command structure. First ask what the respondent's immediate commander's rank was, and that person's commander's rank. Record the appropriate letter. If the person held another rank not listed here, record '50.' After you have the list, ask the following questions:

- Yes or no? Did this person know your name?
- Did this person provide orders to your unit about what sort of operations to undertake? Then read the three answer choices: Always, Sometimes or Never?
- Did this person every play a role in disciplining someone in your unit? Then read the three answer choices: Always, Sometimes, or Never?

- Q 174 Without Permission. This is a prompted question, intended to learn more about unit discipline by determining what would happen if an individual did a particular action when he was explicitly told not to do it by his commander. So this question is assessing the consequences for a combatant who does something against the commander's explicit directions. Respondents might have a hard time answering this question because it is a hypothetical. If that is the case, prompt them to think of a real-world instance where they heard of this happening (or it happened to someone else in their unit).

- Q 175 [Disobedience] Say: I will read to you a list of things that soldiers sometimes did during the conflict. For each one I would like you to imagine that a commander in your unit told someone like you not to do these things but that person did them anyhow. In such a situation, which of the following would be most likely to happen? Nothing, would receive verbal addressing, would have privileges removed, would be beaten, would be imprisoned, or would be executed?

Clarify to the respondent that s/he should indicate the most severe punishment that an individual would likely receive for doing the particular action without permission. Mark only one response.

Then read the first action, and say: What would happen if an individual was told not to do this by his/her commander, but did it anyhow? Remind respondents of the answer choices, if necessary. Record the appropriate answer choice. Go through the list of actions in this manner.

- Q 176 Food. In this question, respondents will discuss how food was obtained. You are asked to mark one response only; hence if multiple methods were used you are to mark the most common method.
- Q 178 If the respondent answered A, B, or C to Q 176, ask the respondent whether the food was normally delivered inside or outside of the village. Again, we want an answer that reflects how things were generally during the period.
- Q 177 Here, we are interested in the sorts of activities GAM-TNA undertook on behalf of civilian populations during this period of the war. You can prompt the respondent to these different activities; circle the corresponding letter for as many answers as apply. If there are additional things the unit did, write them in on the line marked Other.

PERIOD II: February 2001 (End of Humanitarian Pause/Jeda) – August 2005 (Signing Helsinki MOU)

The questions that follow in this section are identical to the ones just described. But they are meant to be asked with respect to the unit a combatant served in during a different period. The next set refer to the period from February 2001 (the end of the Humanitarian Phase/Jeda) to August 2005 (MOU was signed).

Q 199 [Line of Command]

This question is slightly different than in the section above because it first lists all the possible ranks during this time period. It is easiest to first ask, for the full list of commanders, if that person knew the respondent's name. For all those marked '1' read the remaining questions going across. This series also includes three additional questions. List the month/year of when you last spoke to the person who held that position. In the next column, circle the number that corresponds to how long it would take to get a message to the person who held that position. In the final column, use Code M to list the person's primary occupation. If you need to use an 'Other Code' you can also write it in that spot.

Note, if the respondent himself held one of those positions, then he should only answer questions ONLY for those at higher levels than himself. Use the Special Code -8 for lower level positions.

Q 200 This question is interested in measuring whether ex-GAM connections have been helpful in post-conflict economic conditions. The question can refer to any member of GAM/KPA, not necessarily a former commander (as in the previous question).

VIII.4 Trust in Peace Process

Q 206 This is a prompted question. Say: In your opinion, who got the best deal from the MOU? GAM, the Government of Indonesia, or do you think the two groups got an equally good deal? Record the respondent's answer by circling the letter that corresponds with the group identified by the respondent as having gotten the best deal.

Q 207 Say: At the time of the MOU, did you believe that the parties would do what they had agreed to do? This question is intended to determine whether or not the respondent felt that GAM and RI would both implement all/most aspects of the MOU.

Do not provide the three answer choices, as we want the respondent to answer 'Yes, I thought they would' or 'No, I thought they would not' if possible. If the answer choice 'I wasn't sure' is provided as an option, this answer choice tends to be a very attractive answer choice, even if the respondent has a real preference. If the respondent says that s/he was not sure or that s/he does not know, follow up by asking whether or not they leaned one way or another? If the respondent still says that s/he was not sure, then circle C.

Q 208 This question is intended to determine which party the respondent thought was likely to not follow the terms of the MOU, if the respondent felt that at the time of the MOU, the parties would not follow the agreement.

If the respondent answered 'No, I thought they would not' (circled B) or 'I was not sure' (circled C) to the previous question (Q 207), read: Who did you think was likely to break the agreement? GAM, RII, or Both? Circle the appropriate letter.

Skip this question if the respondent answered 'Yes, I thought they would' (circled A) to Q 207.

Q 209 This question measures level of satisfaction with how the MOU has been implemented by both GAM and RI.

IX. Conclusion

After completing the contact information and leaving the respondent you must complete the first set of questions in the Conclusion section of the survey by yourself. These are to be completed before you return the survey to the supervisor. The supervisor will then check the survey and complete the final part of the survey.

Q 210 Record the end time of the interview

- Q 211 Record the language in which the interview was primarily conducted.
- Q 212 This question is specifically about language, meaning the question wording and phrasing. For instance, some respondents with low levels of literacy might find the language too difficult, or did not understand certain words. Record your impressions here.
- Q 213 This question asks specifically about whether the respondent understood the substance or meaning of the questions being asked.
- Q 214 This question is about how open the respondent was to sharing information.
- Q 215 This question is about how focused the respondent was during the interview. If the respondent was concentrating hard, then circle 'concentrated throughout'. If the respondent was constantly getting up to do something else, receiving text messages, talking to others, or simply staring off into space and not paying attention to the questions, circle 'Distracted throughout.'
- Q 216 Sometimes when enumerators arrive in a village to conduct interviews, other members of the community, village level or subdistrict level government help them find the household.
- B. This should be used for any member of the sub-village administration. RT (rukun tetangga)/RW(rukun warga) Chairman refers to the head of the sub-village administration.
- C. The FD is the head of the KDP village implementation team
- D. Village apparatus refers to the village government, for instance the village head or sec. des.
- Q 217 If this person stays close enough to you and the respondent to hear what was being discussed for a substantial period of time (15 minutes or more), at any point during the interview, then mark 1 'Yes'.
- Q 218 For the first three sections of the survey, it is ok for the respondent to talk to/consult with another person (member of the household). But if the respondent talks to or discusses with anyone before answering questions from Section IV onward, then mark 1 for 'Yes' here.
- Q 219 From Section IV onwards no other individuals should be in the room. If however there were other individuals present for at latest 15 minutes during the course of the interview, mark that fact in response to Q 219.
- Q 220 - Q 221
If the interview ended before you completed all the questions, mark 1 'Yes' for Q 220 and then answer why in Q 221. "Stopped by a third party" means that the interview was stopped at the request or recommendation of someone other than you and the interviewee, for example a family member or some other community member. Specify the reason under 'Other' if the reason for ending the interview early does not fit one of the listed reasons.

SUPERVISOR ASSESSMENT

- Q 222 - Q 225
At the end of each day the supervisor should examine all surveys and check the quality of the completed surveys. In cases where the writing has some or many problems or in which there are other problems or inconsistencies the supervisor should immediately clarify all points of ambiguity with the interviewer.

M 6 Notes on Sampling

METHOD A

Where: In all villages where there is a list of all households in that village, updated within the last one year.

Steps:

- Make a copy or copy by hand all of the households on the list. Make sure that each household has a number. For example, it might look like this:

Number	Household Name
1	Household of Mus Daud
2	Household of Iqbal
3	Household of Marzi
4	...

The key here is that every household in the village has its own number.

- Choose a random number using your cards (1-10)
- Consult Table A if it is a Long Household survey village (5 respondents)
Table B if it is a Short Household survey village with 2 respondents
Table C if it is a Short Household survey urban area with 8 respondents
- Find the correct box on the table. Do this by:
  - First find the row with the number of households closest to the number of actual households in the village. If the number is between, use the lower number.
  - Then find the column with the random number you picked in Step 2
  - The box where those two meet tells you which house number you start with. This is called the starting number (S). Circle that house number on the list.
  - Then look at the corresponding interval (I) in the interval column. Select households up to the target by using S, S+I, S+2*I, S+3*I...

For example, If there are 165 houses and you randomly select the number 5 from your set of 10 cards, then you should consult the row corresponding to 166 in the table. This tells you that your starting number is 14 and your interval is 33. Then you select houses 14, 47, 80, 113, and 146.

- If there is more than one household in a house, determine the number, assign a number to each household and use your cards to randomly select one household from the house.
- Once all the households in that village are selected, consult with the village head to get the exact location of each household.

METHOD B

Where: Villages where: (a) there is no complete household list updated within the last year AND (b) the village population (total number of people in the village) is LESS than 300.

Steps:

1. Make your own complete list/map of all households in the village. This is best done by walking around the village and making a list or a map. For example:

Number	Description
1	The 1 st house on the left of X street walking towards the mosque (Ibrahim's house)
2	The 2 nd house on the left of X street walking towards the mosque
3	The 3 rd house on the left of X street walking towards the mosque
4	The 1 st house on the right of X street walking towards the mosque (Mahmood's house)

5	The 1 st house on the North of the square...
6	...

OR:

Again, it is important that every household has its own number and you are able to correctly match the number to the actual household.

2. Show your list to the Village Head or Secretary Desa to make sure you did not miss any households, especially households that do not live near roads.
3. Do actual sampling following Steps 2-5 as described in Method A.

METHOD C

Where: Villages where: (a) there is no complete household list updated within the last year AND (b) the village population (total number of people in the village) is GREATER than 300.

Steps:

1. First you need to randomly sample two dusun within the village, using the list on the village information sheet.
  - Write the names of the dusun in alphabetical order and make sure that each dusun has its own number.
  - Use your cards to select a random number (1-10)
  - Consult Table D: Dusun Sampling Table and find the box where the number of dusun in the village intersects with your random number. The two numbers in the box correspond to which dusun you will do the sampling in.
2. If a Long Survey village:
  - a. Collect information on the total number of households living within each sampled dusun. Do this by meeting first with the head of each dusun.
  - b. If the dusun head has a complete list of all households, updated within the last year, you can use that list. If not, you will have to make your own list/mapping as described in Method B, Step 1.
  - c. Combine the lists and make sure that every household from the combined list of two dusun has its own number. Then sample five households from the complete list, using TABLE A.
3. If a Short Survey village:
  - a. Collect information on the total number of households living within each sampled dusun. Do this by meeting first with the head of each dusun.
  - b. If the dusun head has a complete list of all households, updated within the last year, you can use that list.
  - c. You will be randomly selecting one household from each dusun.
  - d. If there is no complete list of households do this:
    - Face due South and hold the directional compass in front of you.
    - Select a random number between 1 and 8 using your cards.
    - Refer to the directional compass to determine the selected direction.
    - Now walk in the direction selected to the edge of the dusun making a complete list of all households within 10 meters on either side of your path. The structure of roads will prevent you from following the exact direct selected but you should insofar as possible stay on the ray determined by the random direction.
    - Determine the total number of households in that direction and then use Table E to randomly select the household.
    - If there is more than one household in a house, determine the number, assign a number to each household and use your cards to select randomly one household from the house.

Replacement of Households in all Methods

What to do if the subject is not available. If upon visiting a household and selecting a subject an enumerator finds that the subject is not present they should seek an appointment for later and move on to the next house in their list. On completing the next house, they should return to houses on their list that have not been completed and attempt again to meet with the subject. Again if they fail they should continue to their next house. In all, enumerators should revisit households twice after the initial visit to try to make contact. If they fail to make contact then they should mark this on the survey cover sheet and then select instead the household immediately to the right of the designated house for enumeration, repeating this process.

If the household refuses outright to be surveyed, this should be marked on the cover sheet.

Ex-COMBATANT SAMPLING

With a sampling proportion of 6/10 selecting the number of ex-combatants to sample in a given village inevitably produces important integer problems. To overcome these problems a simple randomization procedure can be used in which:

1. Each ex combatant from 1 to  $n$  is assigned a number between 1 and  $n$ .
2. A second number,  $z$ , is then randomly selected between 1 and 10.
3. A table such as the following is then consulted to determine which individuals are to be interviewed.

Table F: Ex-Combatant Sampling Table

Note that if an Ex-GAM member refuses to be interviewed or is unavailable for interview then this fact should be marked on the team leader sheet and the following ex-combatant on the list should be selected and contacted.
