Reversibility and Random Movement on Graphs

This lecture discussed the important time-reversibility property. The main examples were random movement on the vertices of a graph. The discussion followed Section 4.7 of Ross.