

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY | ÉCOLE POLYTECHNIQUE | SCIENCES PO | UNIVERSITÉ PARIS 1—PANTHÉON-SORBONNE

 COLUMBIA | BLINKEN EUROPEAN INSTITUTE

BEI-Alliance Program Collaborative Teaching Grant

Call for Applications

2013-2014

This call for applications invites faculty to submit proposals for a jointly taught course on modern and contemporary Europe. The course should be based in the humanities, social sciences, or other relevant disciplines and involve the active collaboration of faculty from Columbia and one or more Alliance Program French partners, including Sciences Po, Ecole Polytechnique, and Panthéon-Sorbonne University. It may be taught in New York, Paris, or simultaneously in both cities. We encourage innovative formats.

The Blinken Institute and the Alliance Program will provide up to $10,000 for travel, materials, technological support, and other expenses in the creation and teaching of the course. The grant is available to full-time faculty and may not be used for salary, stipends, or teaching-assistant wages. The course must be offered in the 2013-14 year, or fall 2014 at latest.

Application Procedure:

Proposals for a BEI-Alliance Program Collaborative Teaching Grant should include:

- A one-page description of the course topic, format, and goals, and the benefit derived from intellectual collaboration
- Brief bios of instructors and demonstration of their commitment
- A draft syllabus
- A budget for the grant

Please submit completed proposals electronically to the BEI Associate Director, Christopher Hill, at clh20@columbia.edu.

Application Deadline: March 25, 2013.

For more information, please visit the BEI's website or the Alliance Program's website. Please direct any questions to Christopher Hill at clh20@columbia.edu or to Lauranne Bardin, Assistant Director of the Alliance Program, at lb2808@columbia.edu.